RELIGION STUDY FOE SAYS IDEAL LED TO HER SUIT

Realized She Was Harming Son

LEGAL ISSUES
Federal and state constitutions, as well as Illinois statutes, are involved in religion study suit. [Details on page 17.]

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Urbana, Ill., Sept. 12—Vashti McCollum, looking more like a co-ed than the 32 year old wife of a University of Illinois professor, testified today her devotion to an ideal caused her to file her mandamus suit against the Champaign school board to halt religious education in the city's schools.

Mrs. McCollum, mother of three boys, said she realized she was doing harm to her oldest son, James Terry McCollum, 10, and that her action would increase his troubles with fellow students, but that she could not do otherwise in view of her firm convictions for separation of church and state.

Son Came Home Crying

The youthful Champaign matron proved the star attraction of her trial. For the first time since the opening of the case before a three judge court Monday, the Circuit courtroom on the third floor of the courthouse was packed to overflowing and a waiting crowd filled the hall outside.

She related under questioning of her attorney, Landon Chapman, that Terry had come home crying and told her of being seated in the hallway of his school while all other members of his class studied religious education and that other students passing concluded he was being punished and teased him; that at other times he was placed in the music room or library, the door closed, and that Terry felt he was again singled out and did not want to remain alone in a closed room.

An appeal to the teacher and to School Supt. E. H. Mellon did not correct the situation, she said, adding that the whole religious education program tended to emphasize among students differences in race, religions, and beliefs and weakened the democracy of the schools.

Disbelieves Bible Stories

Mrs. McCollum said she had never been a member of a church but in childhood had attended Sunday school. She permits Terry to attend the Unitarian Sunday school in Urbana. She denied she had ever belonged to any organization opposed to religion or had been active in any group with that objective.

She said she does not accept the Bible story of Adam and Eve as the first man and woman as a true story nor does she accept as true the Bible account of Jesus as the Son of God and Mary, the resurrection

355 Outlets of NBC, ABC Are Affected

A walkout of engineers employed by the National and American Broadcasting companies last night halted network programs on 355 radio stations thruout the country. Partial service was restored by both networks during the evening but many scheduled programs were not given.

The striking engineers were members of the independent National Association of Broadcast Engineers and Technicians, which since last Thursday had been bargaining thru a committee with NBC and ABC officials for a wage contract.

30 Day Notice Not Given

The negotiations broke down late yesterday and both networks said they received telegrams giving a 30 day strike notice from A. T. Powley, NABET president, about half an hour before the work stoppage began. The Smith-Connally act requires a formal 30 day notice in advance of the calling of a strike.

The Mutual and Columbia Broadcasting systems were not affected by the walkout and their affiliated stations maintained regular schedules.

NBC said that its engineers quit in its Radio City, New York, and Hollywood studios and in the six stations owned by NBC, and that service to these stations and 150 affiliated stations was affected. ABC reported the walkout affected 199 affiliated stations and the NABET members struck in four stations owned by it.

May Resume Today

Mark Woods, president of ABC, speaking in New York for the two chains, said they had been assured by Powley that he and other NABET executives would try to have their members at work again this morning. Woods said the two systems were ready to resume contract negotiations if, and only if, the engineers return.

NBC said that about 350 of its engineers quit working. ABC gave no figure on the number of engineers taking part in the walkout. Both networks maintained their partial service during the evening with engineer executives at the controls.

The union said in a statement issued in Washington, D. C., that the companies rejected all the union's wage demands and questioned the authority of the NABET bargaining committee. Members of the union were immediately notified, it said, and on receipt of this information the technical employes of the companies refused to work "without a contract." Powley was in New York when the walkout began.

Petrillo in Dispute

Network officials insisted the strike was solely for wages of engineers and other technical employes and said the union had asked wage increases of from 40 to 60 per cent.

Sources within the industry, however, said an underlying cause of the strike is the long standing dispute between NABET and James Caesar Petrillo's AFL American Federation of Musicians over which union should have jurisdiction over so-called "platter jockeys," who turn records on transcribed broadcasts.

NABET has claimed jurisdiction over the record turners and the companies recently were ordered by the national Labor Relations board to bargain with NABET and not with the musicians' union. In Chicago, New York, Washington, and Detroit an agreement has been in effect that AFM members shall handle records on programs originating in those cities.

Charges Companies Stalling

The engineers' Washington statement said the union feels the companies are "stalling again for fear that Petrillo will call out his musicians in the event that the companies entered into a contract with the union."

In Chicago, NBC's station, WMAQ, went off the air about 5:02 p. m. and returned about 5:20 p. m. A similar interruption took place on WENR, the Chicago station which splits time with WLS for the ABC.

NBC said service was restored over its key station, New York's WEAF, at 5:15 p. m., and that partial network service was restored shortly afterward, with news broadcasts and transcribed music replacing regular programs. A spokesman for ABC said the network resumed broadcasting at 5:30 p. m. with the same type of programs as NBC.

NBC finally decided to put on all regularly scheduled shows emanating from New York and to attempt to pipe them to its affiliates.

FREEING OF ALL 2 YEAR SERVICE MEN IS URGED

Marines to Revise Point System

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12—Three developments aimed at stepping up the demobilization of service men took place in the capital today. They were:

1. Sen. Johnson [D., Colo.] said the army will have 171 separation centers in operation by Dec. 1. It now has 26 centers, 22 of which are operating.

2. The marine corps reduced its point score for the release of male personnel from 85 to 70 points.

3. Rep. Shafer [R., Mich.] introduced a bill calling for the discharge upon request of all members of the army, navy, marines, and coast guard who have had two years of active service.

Decreases the Pressure

Johnson told reporters he had learned of the army's proposed increase in the number of separation centers from a high army official following the opening session today of a senate military committee hearing on the war department's plans to demobilize 6 million men before July 1, 1946.

The increase to 171 centers, he said, will give practically every army camp and post in the country its own separation center and relieve the pressure on those now in operation.

Saying the army's decision to increase the facilities for discharging soldiers "undoubtedly" was the result of congressional demands, Johnson added: "Nothing happens on things like this until congress puts on the pressure, so you have to keep after them."

Plan to Speed Discharges

Today's hearing was ordered by the senate military committee after complaints had been made about delays in demobilization. War Undersecretary Patterson, the principal witness, said the army is discharging 10,000 men a day and plans to speed up the rate to 700,000 a month or 23,300 a day.

Patterson spurned a suggestion by Johnson for a separate agency, under the direction of congress, to work with the army in speeding dis-

Charges CIO Sabotage of U. S. Defense

BLACKPOOL, England, Sept. 12 (AP)—George Meany, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, sharply attacked the CIO before the British Trades Union congress today. He drew shouts "tommyrot" and "shame" when he characterized Russian trade unions as a means of "virtual enslavement."

George Meany

In a lengthy speech which produced the congress' most tumultuous session, Meany charged that "prominent unions" in the CIO "used every possible means to interfere with and sabotage America's defense program."

He declared these unions had done "their best to paralyze our efforts to help you fight Hitler" until June 21, 1941, when Germany declared war on Russia.

The AFL executive said his organization had refused to join the new world labor organization because its membership included the CIO and "representatives of the pseudo trade unions of Russia."

"Virtual Enslavement"

Meany asserted "the so-called trade unions actively support the soviet system of worker blacklists and deportations to labor camps and have resulted in virtual enslavement for millions of peasants, workers, and professional people who are confined to labor camps with no protection from exploitation and compulsory labor."

There were shouted demands that he withdraw his remarks, which twice precipitated uproars.

Meany paid tribute to the Russian people's courage in defending their soil, and said the AFL supported sending American manufactured weapons to their aid even before the United States was at war.

Basic Freedoms Denied

"But," he added, "in simple honesty we insist on recognizing the so-called Russian trade union movement for what it is—a government controled, government fostered, and government dominated labor front that has denied to the workers of soviet Russia the basic human freedoms that American workers hold prerequisite to a free nation."

Meany made it clear that the AFL wanted no part of what he referred to as "the so-called conference of labor" begun in London last February.

"Fidelity to the principles of true democracy," he asserted, "isolates us from the intellectual acrobats who get their daily directions for their vocal exercises from the Daily Worker."

Attlee Sees Hard Winter

Earlier, Prime Minister Attlee, first British chief of state to appear before the T. C. U., presented a bleak picture of Great Britain's domestic problems and warned that only patience and hard work would see the country thru a winter in which "the position here at home is not going to be easy."

Attlee brightened his discussion only with the disclosure that civilian supplies would continue to flow to the United Kingdom from Canada.

TOJO EATS GOOD BREAKFAST AND WANTS TO LIVE

Former War Chief Sugiyama Suicide

TOKYO, Sept. 13 [Thursday]—(AP)—Former Premier Hideki Tojo, who tried suicide with an American pistol to escape an allied war criminal trial, today ate heartily and showed signs of wanting to live.

This was only a few hours after Japan's former war minister and chief of the army general staff, Field Marshal Gen Sugiyama shot and killed himself. Japan's cabinet met for a possible purge after Gen. MacArthur named one of its members on his "wanted" list of 47 names.

Tojo, who ordered the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, spent a restful night at an army hospital at Yokohama. This morning he ate a hearty breakfast of oatmeal and coffee and began to show some satisfaction with the excellent care he was given by the Americans since he tried to end his life two days ago. During the night, Tojo had some fruit juice, was alert and slept well.

Suffering No Pain

Tojo told a physician he was suffering no pain from his gunshot wound below the heart. Lt. Col. James Perry, Tazewell, Ga., chief surgeon, said he anticipated no change in Tojo's condition. His temperature had dropped from 100.4 degrees yesterday to 99 this morning. His breathing was about normal.

Perry said Tojo obviously now wants to live and is much happier than when he arrived at the hospital.

Two military police are on constant guard at the door to his hospital room and two army nurses still are attending him. An interpreter stands by.

Whole blood donated by Sgt. John A. Archinal, Allentown, Pa., caused Tojo to rally. Archinal, veteran of New Guinea and the Philippines, said "I'm doing this so he can get his just dues and suffer for the 17 months he made me spend in New Guinea." Doctors gave Tojo 20,000 units of penicillin at 3 hour intervals.

Get Buttons for Souvenirs

Tojo's name was at the top of the list of yesterday's "admission and disposition" report under the designation, "Other than United States army personnel."

The entry below the ex-premier's name was that of Marine Pvt. 1st Class Arthur O. Sulzberger, son of Arthur H. Sulzberger, publisher of the New York Times. Sulzberger, attached to general headquarters, came in for treatment for a skin ailment.

Souvenir collectors got the buttons off Tojo's black breeches and shirt.

Tojo occupies a large spare room on the third floor of the big Ohtori elementary school, which is used by the 98th evacuation hospital unit.

Walking into the room, one is impressed by Tojo's face. He has a large, dark mustache and a taut, impressive face with a peculiar yellow-brown color. His body is covered with a brown army blanket. Tojo is the only patient in the hospital who has a real bed.

Revolver Shot in Head

Field Marshal Sugiyama, 66, long one of Japan's ranking militarists, killed himself at 5:50 yesterday [4:50 a. m. Chicago time] after stating "I keenly feel my responsibility [for the war] and I am awaiting a significant opportunity to do away with myself."

Col. Tanaka, the field marshal's aide, said Sugiyama killed himself with one revolver shot thru the head while sitting alone in his rather plain foreign style office near the imperial palace. About the same time Sugiyama's wife killed herself with a revolver in the family home, several miles away. One daughter later went to Sugiyama's office.

Tanaka said Sugiyama left two documents, one addressed to chief

Pass Bill for 3,000 Airports; Reveal New 'Pusher' Air Liner

75 Million a Year

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12 (AP)—The senate today authorized a $375,000,000 federal aid airport program designed to do for airplanes what the building of great highways did for the automobile.

The plan contemplates the construction of approximately 3,000 new airports and the improvement of some 1,600 of the 3,000 existing ones. The federal money would be matched dollar for dollar by state and local funds.

In the words of Chairman McCarran [D., Nev.] of the commerce committee, who sponsored the bill:

"Such an airport program would give civil aviation a real chance to expand rapidly after the war and would, in addition, provide a ready made public works program."

Under the bill, which now goes to the house, the federal government could spend $75,000,000 a year for the next five years on the program.

The bill passed by a voice vote after adoption of an amendment by Sen. Taft [R., O.] trimming the federal authorization from $100,000,000 a year to $75,000,000. An attempt by Sen. McClellan [D., Ark.] to make the figure $50,000,000 was rejected, 54 to 25.

Sen. McCarran agreed to the $75,000,000 figure but said to cut it to $50,000,000 would "badly wreck" the program.

Sixty-five per cent of the money would be apportioned for smaller airports and 35 per cent for larger ones in city areas. All the federal money would be channeled thru the state governments.

Propellers at Rear

New York, Sept. 12 (AP)—A radical new air liner, with its engines hidden in the fore part of the plane and with its two propellers located behind an up-sweep tail assembly, was announced today by the Douglas Aircraft company.

The plane was developed secretly as an experimental heavyweight high speed bomber and has been in test flight for more than a year. As a commercial transport it is declared capable of cruising at 270 miles an hour at 10,000 feet.

An announcement by the Douglas company said the new low winged plane, known as the DC-8, is 50 per cent faster than the DC-3 produced by the company for the last 12 years. With seats for 48 it can carry twice as many passengers and reduce direct passenger mile operating costs to half those of the DC-3, the company said.

Two Allison engines, located behind and beneath the pilot's cockpit, would power the plane. Two 60 foot drive shafts would run underneath the passenger compartment to twin 15 foot propellers placed one directly in front of the other at the tail end of the fuselage. The pitch of the props can be changed sharply enough for them to act as brakes to reduce landing runs.

Cabin noise would be reduced by the location of the propellers. The cabin floor level would be only 60 inches above the ground, but the tail would sweep up sharply to keep the props free. The engines can be worked on in flight.

OPA Loophole Feeds Black Market

New York, Sept. 12 [Special]—A loophole in regulations of the office of price administration was disclosed today as responsible for permitting 50 million red ration points to get into the hands of black market operators.

The loophole was the OPA practice of permitting banks handling ration accounts to issue blank ration checks with scant investigation to persons making application on the pretense they were about to open wholesale or retail food businesses.

The office of United States Atty. John F. X. McGohey said an investigation disclosed 600 persons participated in food diversion thru such a practice.

Sixteen warrants charging purchase or sale of forged ration checks, or conspiracy, were issued today and the first five defendants arrested were arraigned before United States Commissioner Garrett W. Cotter. They were held to the federal grand jury under bond of $2,000 each.

McGohey's office said 50 criminal prosecutions will result from the investigation. In addition 550 dealers will be penalized.

The racketeers operated by writing in the names of legitimate firms on blank ration checks, inserting whatever number of points they chose, and then selling the forged checks for amounts ranging from $2 to $7 per 1,000 points, it was explained.

From three to six months later the forgeries would come to light when puzzled dealers got notices their ration bank accounts were overdrawn.

Unscrupulous meat dealers were able to inflate their ration credit with forged point checks and put large quantities of high priced food into the black market, it was said.

REDS GRAB TONIC WORTH MILLIONS

Steal $120,000,000 in Korean Ginseng

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

SONGDO, Korea, Sept. 11 [Delayed]—During a week long occupancy of this city just inside the boundary of the American zone in Korea, Russian troops looted a bank of 8,026,000 yen and took 60,000 pounds of ginseng root, a popular tonic in the orient, valued at 1,972,558,174 yen [almost $120,000,000], Korean residents said today. At pre-war exchange rates the yen was worth about 24 cents and is now valued at 6¾ cents.

A Korean teacher at a school here said that on their last night in Songdo some of the approximately 30 troops who lived here for a week before the Americans arrived, went to the home of the head of a Japanese owned bank, a man named Kim, forced him to go to the bank and open the vaults. He said the troops cleaned the bank of currency valued even at present exchange rates at over $500,000.

Demand Warehouse Opening

Choi Moung Ing, manager of the ginseng warehouses here for the Jap operated Korean government, said that at midnight on Sept. 8 Russian soldiers and one Korean, who identified himself as a Communist, entered the buildings and demanded Choi open the warehouses.

Choi said he didn't have the keys. He said the soldiers, with drawn pistols, forced him to take them to a man who had the keys to the two warehouses where Korean government owned ginseng roots were stored. From midnight until dawn six trucks shuttled between the warehouses and the railroad yard.

At 11 the next night Choi said the Russian troops returned and broke into the warehouse owned by a Japanese exporting company. The steel doors were equipped with dial combination locks which Choi said he was unable to open. The troops knocked one dial from the door and pried it open with crowbars. It took until 8 the next morning to haul the crates of roots to the station, this time by horse drawn carts.

Return to Own Zone

Then the troops left, crossing back into their occupation zone.

Ginseng root normally was one of Korea's main exports. The Songdo region is one of the main ginseng production areas. Some of the roots in the warehouses here had been accumulated over the last six years because of shipping restrictions.

DEATH OF VON BUSCH, NAZI FIELD MARSHAL, IN BRITAIN DISCLOSED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 12—The death July 17 of German Field Marshal Ernst von Busch, 60, at a prisoner of war hospital in Nottinghamshire was disclosed today by the British war office. He was buried with full military honors in the British army cemetery at Aldershot on July 20.

Field Marshal von Rundstedt, supreme commander of the German western armies, five other nazi generals, and two marshals of the German air force were rounded up from other camps to serve as an honor escort at the funeral services which were read by a British Roman Catholic priest.

Busch commanded all nazi troops in northwestern Germany at the end of the war in Europe.

M'ARTHUR WON'T BE EASY ON JAPS, BLAMEY SAYS

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 12 (AP)—Gen. Thomas Blamey, commander in chief of the Australian army, told Australians they need have no fear that Gen. MacArthur or his staff will treat the Japanese with kid gloves, the Australian radio said tonight.

"If the Japanese expect light handling they will be disappointed. Emperor Hirohito undertook to do what he was told and Gen. MacArthur will see that he does," Blamey was quoted in a broadcast.

"It is possible to work only thru existing organization when you are dealing with a nation of 100,000,000 people. If Gen. MacArthur were to attempt to establish a military government to take over all administration in Japan, it would take two or three years to establish. At the end of that time what you would have would be rebellion." Only Monday, Australian press and radio had criticised MacArthur's policy.

of staff, Lt. Gen. Einosuke Sudo, and the second addressed to the family.

Commander of the eastern Japan defense corps and member of the imperialist Kwantung army clique, Sugiyama was chief of the army staff and several times was war minister. He was one of Japan's three field marshals.

Sugiyama conferred 10 days ago with Lt. Gen. Eichelberger, commander of the United States 8th army. He had not been named as a potential war criminal on any official list by MacArthur, but there was little doubt he was so considered. Thruout his career he was an old line militarist who frequently was involved in the Kwantung army's battle for domestic power thru overseas aggression.

Defender Against Invasion

Sugiyama was the commander upon whom militarists had intended to depend to repel the prospective American invasion.

The only other two field marshals are Count Terauchi, commander of the southern regions, and Shunroku Hata, commander of the eastern Japan homeland defense. The latter's headquarters were at Hiroshima.

[Reuters quoted a Japanese news agency report that Lt. Gen. Yoshitsugu Tatekawa, 65, Japanese ambassador to Moscow in 1940, had died Sept. 10 "at his home." There were no further details. Tatekawa once was secretary of the Japanese ministry of war and was a member of the Japanese delegation to the Geneva disarmament conference.]

Adm. Shigetaro Shimada, the man who directed the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, was arrested by United States army officials last night. He was found in his home near Yokohama on the road to Tokyo. He agreed readily to go with the officers. Obviously recalling former Premier Tojo's attempted suicide, he replied to requests that he hurry along:

"Be quiet, no suicide, no suicide."

"Black Dragon" Members

On the "wanted" list were seven men named as top terrorists in the Black Dragon society of jingos and saber rattlers, including Taketora Ogata, state minister and secretary of the current cabinet.

Likewise on the list were nine members of Tojo's "Pearl Harbor" cabinet, including Shigenori Togo, who as foreign minister took Japan to war and as foreign minister under Premier Kantaro Suzuki's recent cabinet took Japan out of war.

MacArthur's list of Black Dragon terrorists held two other names tainted with aggression long before Pearl Harbor. One was Col. Kingoro Hashimoto, who ordered the bombing of the United States steamship Panay on the Yangtze river in 1937. He founded the Japan Youth association. The other was Koki Hirota, premier before the outbreak of the war in China, who as foreign minister in 1936 signed Japan's name to the anti-comintern pact with Germany and Italy.

Pro-German Sympathizer

The Japanese said one of the suspects, Seigo Nakano, former diet member notorious for his pro-German sympathies, killed himself in 1943, as previously was reported by Domei.

The roundup of "wanted" persons was not limited to Japanese, but included renegades and those who decided to side with Japan.

As the occupation of Japan rolled ahead smoothly the schedule was stepped up, with American troops expected to land on the northernmost island of Hokkaido before the end of the month. They had not been due until October.

Advance forces were in the steel city of Sendai, some 90 miles north of Tokyo, and others were preparing to land Sept. 23 at the northern Honshu port of Aomori.

The Japanese government was directed to turn over to American occupation forces the small Haneda municipal airport in the Tokyo bay area.

HOMMA LEAVES TOKYO TO TELL MOTHER GOOD-BY

BY ROBERT CROMIE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

TOKYO, Sept. 12 — Today we visited the home of Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma, one of the most prominent commanders named on Gen. MacArthur "wanted" list, and were told by his two sons that their father had left on Sept. 9 "to visit his mother on the island of Sado to bid her farewell." Sado, the site of his ancestral home, is 20 miles off the northwest coast of Honshu.

Homma, responsible for the infamous "Death March" from Bataan and commander of the Philippines who accepted the surrender of Gen. Wainwright in Manila, has been retired for several years, according to Japanese sources. These sources insist he was less brutal by far than his chief of staff.

Momma speaks English, but long has been known for his anti-white attitude. He commanded the Tientsin garrison during the humiliating blockade of Americans and British there in the summer of 1939. Foreign men and women often were forced to strip in the open street in order to prove they were not carrying food into the foreign concessions.

OSMENA SPURNS BILL SETTING UP 'TREASON COURT'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., Sept. 12—Sergio Osmena, president of the Philippine commonwealth, has refused to sign a Philippine senate bill providing for the creation of a people's court and office of special prosecutors for the prosecution and trial of those accused of crimes against national security during the war.

He sent the measure back to the Philippine congress with a suggestion that it be revised carefully in order to establish a workable tribunal. Osmena refused to sign the bill because one section allows only lawyers connected with the Philippine army and recognized guerrilla organizations to become special prosecutors in the people's court. This automatically bars regular government prosecutors and lawyers in private practice.

The Philippine congress, which is practically under control of Manuel Roxas, senate president, "doctored" the people's court bill in order to make it weak with loopholes to enable collaborators to go free, observers say. Roxas served in the puppet republic under the Japanese as a cabinet minister.

8 YANKS WHIP 83 JAPS IN WAR'S LAST SEA FIGHT

Shanghai, China, Aug. 29 [Delayed]—(AP)—The last naval battle of the war was fought off Hainan, on the east China coast Aug. 21 between eight Americans and 83 Japanese. The Americans won.

The brush occurred when a junk carrying the Japs attacked two smaller junks carrying the Americans and about 40 Chinese.

The Japanese opened fire with a 75 mm gun and small arms. All but 10 of the Chinese rushed below decks. Those remaining topside helped the Yanks.

The Americans replied with Lewis guns, bazookas, and rifles.

In the ensuing battle four Chinese were killed and one American slightly wounded. The Americans knocked out the 75 mm. gun and killed 43 Nipponese. Their ammunition was almost exhausted when the Japanese quit.

AMERICAN SAYS HE AIDED JAPS TO SPEED PEACE

YOKOHAMA, Sept. 12 (AP)—A former Idaho farmer who broadcast propaganda for the Japanese, tonight said in an interview he did so to gain confidence and "work from the inside" to speed the end of the war.

The bearded Mark L. Streeter, 47, was picked up for questioning by the 8th army on orders of Gen. MacArthur and is held in the Yokohama jail. He was captured by the Japanese at Wake, where he was a civilian construction worker. The Bunka camp at Tokyo, where he was taken, was described by Streeter as a propaganda agency.

"The boys tried to write things to satisfy the Japs, yet do as little as possible for Japan," he asserted.

BE TOUGH WITH SINGAPORE JAPS: MOUNTBATTEN

SINGAPORE, Sept. 12 (AP)—Adm. Mountbatten accepted formal surrender of Japan's huge southern armies today from silent Japanese envoys and then told his troops to get tough with "obstinacy, impudence, or noncoöperation."

The southeast Asia supreme commander noted that the southern armies were unbeaten in the field and warned:

"They are finding it very hard to accept defeat and may try to wriggle out of the terms of surrender.

"They may behave arrogantly. You will have my support in taking the firmest measures."

Wants Jap Chief's Sword

Lt. Gen. Seishiro Itagaki, commander of the 7th Japanese army, substituted at the surrender for ailing Marshal Count Juichi Terauchi, commanding all the southern armies. But Mountbatten said that he would insist on receiving Terauchi's personal surrender as soon as he could travel.

"His sword is the one thing I want out of this war," Mountbatten said.

Representatives of the United States, the Netherlands, Australia, France, and China watched as the Japanese gave back the richest fruits of their swift 1941-'42 conquests.

Surrendered were 85,000 troops in the Singapore area and some 500,000 soldiers and sailors in southeast Asia and the East Indies.

Seven Jap Leaders Tehere

At the brief ceremony in the council chamber of Singapore's municipal building, which began at 11:15 a. m., Mountbatten used 11 different pens to sign as many copies of the surrender instrument.

Seven Japanese army and navy officers, clad in khaki with white open collar shirts, sat across the table from Mountbatten. Behind him and the Japanese, in multicolored uniforms, were ranged allied staff officers, local dignitaries, released war prisoners, and internees.

DECLARES JAPAN NEVER HELPED OUT GERMANY

KARUIZAWA, Japan, Sept. 12 (AP)—Franz Josef Spahn, Germany's "little fuehrer" in Japan, today said that "we never got any coöperation from the Japanese government and it even failed to give official recognition to Nazi party activities" in Nippon.

Spahn is at this mountain resort 110 miles northwest of Tokyo.

The German, who was Hitler's land group leader for Japan, Manchuria, Korea, and the Philippines, said the Japanese did not take revenge on the Germans when the reich surrendered, but they certainly cooled toward the Nazis.

"The Japs had lost an ally, putting them in a very uneasy situation, and they were very bitter," he said.

BAGPIPES TELL HONG KONG ARMY IS TAKING OVER

HONG KONG, Sept. 12 [Reuters]—Skirling bag pipes told the people of Hong Kong today that British army and royal air force units had arrived to relieve the British navy. A naval detachment under Rear Adm. Cecil H. J. Harcourt had put the first force ashore here 12 days ago.

The formal surrender of Hong Kong has not yet been signed, but the ceremony is expected to take place any day.

Specially sent by the Southeast Asia command from Ceylon, the force which arrived today consisted of the 3d Commando brigade and the 132d Spitfire squadron. Maj. Gen. F. W. Festing, who led a British division in North Burma, is commander of the force and the future commanding general of Hong Kong.

SEIZES 2 GERMAN COMPANIES

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 12 [Reuters]—The Argentine government has taken over two German companies—the Sociedad Electro-Metalurgica, with assets of $8,000,000, and Beirsdorf, a chemical products concern.

Start Sending Home GIs in India-Burma Theater

NEW DELHI, India, Sept. 12 (AP)—Large-scale redeployment of American troops in the India-Burma theater for movement home has begun, United States army headquarters announced today. The first contingent of soldiers bound for the United States from Ledo, western terminus of the Stilwell road, will arrive at the western India port of Karachi Sept. 21. Special arrangements for the comfort of the soldiers during the 3,500-mile journey across India have been made, including stopovers for showers and meals.

CITY POLL URGED ON PERMANENT DAYLIGHT TIME

Mayor Asks Newspapers to Conduct Vote

Mayor Kelly yesterday asked Chicago newspapers to conduct an informal poll to determine whether year around daylight saving time should be adopted for the city.

"Keeping the clocks an hour ahead would be a big help to the construction men in the rebuilding efforts we have ahead of us," the mayor said. "Daylight time is just as necessary in our post-war activities as it has been in our efforts to increase the war effort."

Kelly's idea was that the newspapers could "get together and take a vote on it" by printing a coupon that could be filled in and mailed by subscribers and news stand buyers.

Because it also affords more time for recreation and golfing, the mayor said he had no doubt that "the people are for it."

Thinks Vote Will Favor It

"All the people will go for the extra time if they get a chance to vote on it," the mayor remarked. He brought up the subject at the close of a conference with Gov. Green and state, city, and county officials about the financing of superhighways.

The governor agreed that the people of Chicago should have the chance to express their wishes about daylight time.

Daniel Ryan, chairman of the county board's finance committee, agreed that it would help construction of super-highways and other projects.

Congress Starts Action

In Washington, D. C., the house yesterday passed without opposition a resolution to return the nation generally to standard time at 2 a. m. Sept. 30. The measure, abolishing "war time," will go to the senate for action.

In any event, Chicago clocks will stay an hour ahead of sun time until Oct. 28, under a city ordinance which establishes summer time for Chicago from the last Sunday in April until the last Sunday in October.

NO SLOW DEATH AT HIROSHIMA, YANK REPORTS

TOKYO, Sept. 12 (AP)—Destructiveness of the atom bomb at Hiroshima exceeded scientists' expectations, but there is no evidence that a single person who entered the area after the bombing died from radio activity, Brig. Gen. T. F. Farrell, chief of an American mission studying effects of the bomb, said today.

"No measureable radio activity was found under the point of detonation or elsewhere," he said. In other words it would be safe now to live in the bombed area. The largest number of casualties in Hiroshima probably resulted from blasts, missiles, and fires, he added.

Col. Stafford Warren, Rochester, N. Y., a member of the commission, said the actual numbers and proportions probably never would be known. Many will die from initial effects of the explosion, he said. Warren and his party of physicians examined patients whose symptoms were such as would be caused by radiation.

Danes Use Nazi Planes on Air Line to England

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 12—Two German Condor planes carrying 26 passengers each reportedly are being used on a tri-weekly air service operating for the first time since April, 1940, between Denmark and Britain. Three twin motored Douglas aircraft and two Flying Fortresses are being converted in Denmark to supplement the service. The Danish military air transport command is operating the service.

GREEN PLEDGES STATE CASH FOR SUPER-HIGHWAY

Program Assured for City and Suburbs

BY ROBERT HOWARD

Starting signal for a big program of super-highway construction in Chicago and its suburbs was given yesterday by Gov. Green, who agreed that the state would help the city and Cook county finance the express ways.

Under the coöperative program, the west route super-highway will be built along Congress st. from Grant park to the DuPage county line. Work in the suburbs, where the state and county will divide the cost, will be started simultaneously with construction within the city limits, where state, county, and city governments each will put up a third of the funds to buy right of way and hire contractors.

Canal Highway First

Green announced that approval will be given to the county's plans for the Illinois and Michigan canal express way toward the southwest. The first super-highway built, with $1,100,000 set aside for it by the county, is along the canal route for 2.2 miles between Kedzie and Cicero avs.

The northwest super-highway also will be constructed by the three governments. Mayor Kelly and Gov. Green both called the northwest route vital because of the movement to adopt Douglas airport, near Park Ridge, as Chicago's future aviation terminal.

Nearly a score of state, city, and county officials met Green and Kelly in the Union League club to agree upon the super-highway program.

Congress St. Cost 45 Millions

The Congress st. widening project is expected to cost 45 million dollars in the city. Federal grants will cut the cost to be paid by the state, city, and county to less than 10 millions each, said Chairman Philip Harrington of the metropolitan transit authority, who accompanied Kelly.

Chairman Daniel Ryan of the county finance committee said the county could increase its help within Chicago in view of the state's promise to pay 50 per cent of the suburban cost. Commissioner William Busse, representing the suburbs, insisted that work start in that territory as soon as in the city, lest the western suburbs become bottlenecks.

Two Years for First Highway

Supt. George A. Quinlan of the county highway department said the Congress st. work could be completed in four years. Two years will be needed to complete the county's starting project, the Illinois and Michigan canal super-highway, which will give a direct southwest route into downstate Illinois.

Among those attending the conference were Walter A. Rosenfield, state public works director; President Clayton F. Smith of the county board, and State's Atty. Tuohy.

1,100,000 JAPANESE DISCHARGED FROM NAVY, TOKYO REPORTS

TOKYO, Sept. 12 (AP)—The Domei news agency said today that more than 1,000,000 men and officers of the Japanese imperial navy—two-thirds of its total strength—now have been discharged and disarmed.

Disarming of naval forces is progressing speedily, and in good order, the agency said, with arms and munitions being preserved for delivery to the allies.

Discharges totaling 1,100,000 include civilians employed by the navy; all were stationed in Japan. The demobilization of 50,000 more is expected by mid-September, and the remaining 100,000 will continue in service until released by allied forces now utilizing them, the Japanese news agency said.

18 BLACK SHEEP WELCOME 'PAPPY' BACK TO FOLD

Oakland, Cal., Sept. 12 (AP)—The roughest, toughest, most aggressive air combat leader to come out of the Pacific war—Gregory [Pappy] Boyington—came home today from 20 months in Japanese prison camps and was greeted boisterously by 18 of his old pals.

Lt. Col. Boyington

The pals were the surviving members of Boyington's "Black Sheep" marine fighter squadron.

There was a broad grin on the somewhat pale face of the combat leader who now wears the silver leaves of a lieutenant colonel.

"This is the most wonderful thing that has happened to me," the 32 year old flyer, who has 26 Jap planes to his credit, said.

Among his boys on hand to greet him were Maj. Stanley R. Bailey of 15128 Marshfield av., Harvey, Ill., the squadron's executive officer during the first tour of duty; Capt. Christopher McGee, whose parent lives at 919 E. 50th st., Chicago, and Capt. Bruce Mathewson of 10026 Indiana av., Chicago, Ill.

Among other war prisoners who arrived with Boyington today was Pharmacist's Mate 1st Class H. F. Milbourn, 2656 N. Orchard st., Chicago.

HOW JAPS TOOK HOLD OF KOREA IN 3 EASY STEPS

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

SEOUL, Korea, Sept. 11 [Delayed]—Blunt and effective tactics gave the Japanese ownership of 80 per cent of all property in Korea during Nippon's 37 year rule. It was all very legal, to the Japanese mind.

Farmland was the easiest to acquire. The first step was to drive the farmers into debt. This was done mostly in three ways.

First, the government passed a law that all rice and tobacco must be sold to the government at low prices. Then the government sold back to the farmers enough for their own use at high prices. Sometimes the money received from the entire crop was insufficient to pay for the family's food needs. The farmer borrowed money.

Second, the Japs passed a law against growing opium. But the police ordered some farmers to grow it, then seized it and fined the farmers for producing it. The farmer borrowed to pay the fine.

Only Japs Loaned Money

Third, the simplest of all, discriminatory high taxes.

When farmers needed money they could borrow only from the Japanese. An interest rate of 20 per cent per month was not uncommon. On a yearly basis the usual rate was 150 per cent. Of course, most farmers could not pay such rates. So the Japs took the land and sometimes a daughter or two to put into the geisha houses which the usurious leaders operated.

In the cities taxes and police harassment were used to force the sale of Korean businesses. Banks and some other institutions were taken outright by government order.

Foreigners Also Hit.

For foreigners the business "rules" were even stiffer, said William Evans, an American citizen born in Japan, whose father, a Pennsylvania pharmaceutical dealer, came to Japan with the second Asiatic squadron in 1887. Evans has lived in Korea since 1917 and saw the squeeze put on foreigners.

"If there is anything remaining of the mines which the Koreans and I operated up to the start of the war I'll be the most surprised man in the world," he said. "The Japs took me away the day the war started and have kept me locked up ever since."

RUSSIA AGREES TO RETURN OF ROMANIA'S SHIPS

LONDON, Sept. 12 (AP)—Russia has agreed to return to Romania her Black sea and Danube river fleets and to lend her 150,000 tons of wheat and corn to relieve the threat of starvation, the Moscow radio said tonight.

The broadcast said Russia was convinced Romania would honorably fulfill her armistice terms and therefore the soviet union had agreed to meet the Romanian proposals halfway.

Russia also agreed to lower her demands for grain and fodder to be used by soviet occupation troops, to postpone the return by Romania of soviet property for three years and to hand back control of railways of the Romanians.

WOMAN, 65, ATTU TEACHER, KICKED BEATEN BY JAPS

Husband Is Slain in Island Invasion

Fairfield, Cal., Sept. 12 (AP)—A gallant, gray haired school teacher, the only American woman captured by the Japanese in the Aleutian campaign, stepped from an army transport plane today after a flight from Japan.

She was Mrs. Etta E. Jones, 65, whose husband, Charles, was killed by the Japanese at Attu, where both were captured early in 1942.

She told with calmness and dignity of having been kicked and slugged by the Japanese, of spending three years hidden from the world in a prison. She could still speak with a kindness of the children of Japan and of "the poor people."

Her husband, 62, had gone to work at Attu as a weather observer and radio man, and she was attached to the Indian service there to teach the native children. They were the only white people on the island.

Beaten by Invaders

The Japanese came, 2,000 strong, on June 7, 1942, Mrs. Jones recalled today.

"I was beaten with the butt end of a rifle, and struck across the back by a Jap soldier who had been acting as interpreter," she said. "He knocked me down, stepped on me and kicked me in the stomach. Then I saw them hit my husband and knock him down."

The two were thrown into separate buildings. The next day the natives told her that her husband had been killed, that the natives had buried him.

Within a few days she was taken by transport to Yokohama and escorted to the Bund hotel. There, she said, for what reason she did not know, she received remarkably fine treatment. She was treated like a guest for the next three years; had good quarters, good food, and the help of servants occasionally."

Australian Nurses Slapped

A month after her arrival she was joined by 18 Australian nurses who had been captured at New Guinea. She said she saw two of them slapped and knocked down.

"The children of Japan are teachable," she said today, "and I sympathize with the poor people who hardly knew what it was all about. They were tired of war. They had a saying which translated means 'Before, Japan had plenty. Now Japan no have got.'"

Mrs. Jones will leave soon for Seattle to check on her Attu property, then will go to St. Paris, O., to visit a brother-in-law, Cecil V. Jones, and to Atlantic City to visit her brother, Russell Schureman.

YANKS IN KOREA TO SET UP PRICE, WAGE CONTROLS

BY JOSEPH HEARST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

INCHHEN, Korea, Sept. 11 [Delayed]—The American military government, which established headquarters in Inchhen city hall, plans to bring a touch of America's office of price administration to Korea.

Just how Koreans will take to the establishment of price and wage controls was not certain but Maj. Frank E. Stillman of Paterson, N. J., head of AMG here, says they will be established to prevent inflation and price gouging.

Reds Seek Inflation

Stillman said the Japanese for a few weeks apparently flooded Korea with money in a plan to cause inflation and consequent unrest and that now the communist element is trying to further inflation by urging laborers to demand higher wages.

"We don't know yet how strong communist influence in the labor movement is," Stillman said, "but we don't believe the number of active communists here is very large." However, they are apparently well entrenched in the "branch of the preparation society of the republic of Korea," and there is evidence they are trying to jack up prices.

Prices to Be Posted

"We're calling in all merchants, bankers, and other leaders today and we'll tell them what prices they can charge for merchandise, meals, laundry, other services, and currency exchange," he continued. "These prices will be posted publicly just as the OPA lists back home and if they are not adhered to violators will be tried by a military court."

Stillman said that for the present the Japanese who have been in charge of the city government are being retained in office under supervision of his force of 11 officers and 29 enlisted men, but that they will be gradually supplanted as competent Koreans are found.

21 SURVIVORS OF BATAAN TELL JAP CRUELTIES

Starvation and Freezing Was Their Lot

KUNMING, China, Sept. 12 (AP)—Accounts of privations and ill-treatment at the hands of the Japanese were related today by 21 gaunt survivors of Bataan and Corregidor who were flown here for medical treatment on Aug. 24 after 44 months in the Mukden prison camp.

Every man is suffering or has suffered from tuberculosis resulting from the conditions at the camp and the Mukden factories where they were forced to work, said Col. Furman H. Tyner of Port Arthur, Tex., commanding officer of the general hospital where the men are being treated.

When they arrived at Kunming they were unable to walk more than a few yards. Many participated in the notorious Bataan death march.

Sgt. Earl W. Guye, Houston, Tex., a veteran of the Bataan march, said the temperature at Mukden often was 40 degrees below zero during the months from October to March.

"The worst part of the life at Mukden," he related, "was the lack of warm clothing. Almost every one in the camp contracted pleurisy, pneumonia, or other exposure diseases."

Stripped in the Snow

Pvt. Robert B. Rosson of Corinth, Miss., told how the Japanese guards lined up the prisoners in the snow and forced them to strip while they were searched for contraband cigarets which the men bought from Chinese working in the factories.

"They would make us wait 45 minutes standing in the snow barefooted while 700 men were searched," Rosson said.

The Mississippian said a Lt. Mikki "would come inside the barracks, striking the prisoners with a three foot club.

"Once he knocked two fellows unconscious, then kicked them in the ribs," he said.

"The whole camp's rations were cut drastically as mass punishment when one of us let up on the job or smoked in an unauthorized place. Red Cross parcels also were held up."

Rosson said that during the five days of the Bataan death march he received only a handful of rice and when he arrived at the camp he was unable to stand.

Endure Bitter Winter

Corp. James H. Harris, Coolidge, Ariz., captured on Corregidor, said he lived five months in a Japanese camp in the Philippines on onion soup and sour rice. When the onions became scarce, he said, the Japanese gave them some brew of weeds and dirty water.

Referring to the bitter Manchurian winters, Harris said: "Enlisted men were given two thin wornout blankets. Officers and noncoms got mattresses but they only got one blanket, so were worse off."

Another prisoner recalled a Japanese Lt. Murado who frequently came into the barracks, ordered the men to take their shoes off and then hit them in the face with their shoes.

The prisoners worked in textile mills, a tannery, and a steel mill in Mukden from 7:30 a. m. until 5:30 and 6 p. m., with one holiday each fortnight.

"If we didn't complete the work fast enough," Harris said, "we would not get any supper and also were compelled to work that evening."

At Mukden during the first months the prisoners lived in dugouts. Later they were moved to two story barracks.

The meals were the same every day. Breakfast: Cornmeal mush and a bun. Lunch: Maize and beans. Dinner: Beans and a bun.

French Troops Clash with Swiss on Lake Constance

BERN, Switzerland, Sept. 12 (AP)—The Swiss department of fisheries today said Swiss fishermen and French occupation troops had exchanged rifle fire on Lake Constance. It added that discussions were under way between the Swiss government and French military officials "to avoid conditions which might lead to serious incidents." The fisheries department declared the French had violated international agreements signed in 1893 and 1897 concerning the rights of Swiss fishermen on the lake.

Officers Who Won Medal of Honor

Civilian Mass Feeding to Begin in Frankfurt

FRANKFURT, Germany, Sept. 12 (AP)—Mass feeding of hot food daily to between 50,000 and 75,000 persons whose cooking facilities were destroyed by bombings in Frankfurt will begin within a few days.

MIDWEST WINS LION'S SHARE OF HONOR MEDALS

Reserve officers, who came from the farm, factory, business world or labor ranks to claim commissions, were awarded 65 congressional medals of honor during the war, a survey of records showed yesterday.

The professional warriors—in general, those who were graduated from West Point or Annapolis—carried off 36 of these awards, the highest honors conferred for war time activity. The records showed the reservists were more than 40 times as numerous as the regular army and navy officers.

The available records listed 156 medals of honor awarded to heroes in all the services. Fifty-one of these went to men from the middle western states, and 42 to men from the western states, while the men from other areas received 63.

Army Breakdown Given

In the army, which listed 14,999 regular officers and 731,244 reservists, the civilian officers received 58 awards while the regulars won nine. In the navy, Annapolis graduates were awarded 27 medals of honor; the reservists received seven. There were 12,000 officers who were Annapolis graduates compared to 408,000 reserve officers.

The marine corps, which draws officers from the ranks, West Point, Annapolis, and directly from civilian life, listed 31 regular officers and 10 reserve officers as winners of the medal of honor. Marine corps data was not available on the ratio of reserve to regular officers and the origin of regulars.

Geographically the west and middle west did well. Of 459 leaders and heroes—generals, admirals, air aces, and medal of honor winners—approximately 57 per cent were from the west or middle west, an area which includes less than 47 per cent of the population. The figures by regions were: East, 101; south, 97; west, 125, and middle west, 136.

Fifty-seven Reservists Air Aces

In the matter of air aces, the reserve officers in army, navy and marines totaled 57 while the regular officers attained 19 of ace rating. The army listed aces, with 18 or more planes to their credit, as 27 reservists and three regulars; the navy, 20 reservists and 5 regulars, and the marines, 10 reservists and 11 regulars.

The midwest also led the nation in the number of high ranking officers on the army general staff. Thirty-four of this group came from the middle west, 27 from the west, 29 from the south, and 21 from the east.

Gen. Pershing to Mark 85th Birthday Today

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12 (AP)—Gen. Pershing, who led the country's armies to victory in World War I., will observe his 85th birthday tomorrow quietly in his Walter Reed hospital apartment. Only members of his family will be with him. Maj. Gen. Shelley U. Marietta, hospital commandant, described Pershing as "in good condition for his age."

EUROPEAN BLOC PLAN DRAWS FIRE OF FRENCH REDS

BY ROBERT SAGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Sept. 12—The rift between Gen. de Gaulle and the extreme left, already aggravated by a week of squabbles over the government's method of applying proportional representation in the forthcoming elections, widened today as a result of De Gaulle's proposal for a western European bloc in an interview published by the London Times.

The assault was led by the French Communist party which saw the project as an attempt to line up the western continental nations under British and French leadership against Russia.

"There is no mistake about it, we are in the presence of an old acquaintance—a western bloc," the Red organ, l'Humanite, said.

"This road if followed would lead to cutting Europe in half and will end up by constituting a union of dissatisfied nations that would necessarily be directed against the United States and the soviet union."

The communist inspired Front National declared constitution of a western bloc would inevitably lead to a European conflict and in the meantime serve the cause of pan-Germanism and fascism by stirring up antagonisms among allied nations.

Even such moderate groups as that represented by the newspaper Combat saw few advantages and many dangers in the scheme. Only a few small right wing groups wholeheartedly applauded it. The Socialist party, which is now playing middle of the road politics, ignored the question.

SEE BRITISH AIM TO RULE ITALY'S AFRICA LANDS

Trieste Expected to Go to Rome in Compromise

Appeal to U. S.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

LONDON, Sept. 12—King Peter of Yugoslavia will formally request implementation of American pledges for free elections in Yugoslavia at a meeting tomorrow with Secretary of State Byrnes and an hour later Archbishop Damaskinos, regent of Greece, will ask Byrnes for more active United States participation in settling the complex political situation now facing that divided country. Meanwhile, Marshal Tito proclaimed in Belgrade that Yugoslavia was providing full opportunity for the opposition parties in the forthcoming elections. Tito accused the opposition of seeking to create conditions for allied interference and warned that Yugoslavia would firmly guard its independence.

BY WILLIAM FULTON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 12—The Big Five council of foreign ministers today studied a tentative Italian peace treaty incorporating French proposals for altering Italy's borders and controling her colonies but tonight diplomatic observers suggested it was unlikely Britain would approve any proposal to make Italy itself a trustee power for former Italian territories in Africa.

Earlier it had been reported that the United States, as well as Britain, was in general agreement with French proposals under which Italy would administer most of her colonies as a united nations trustee and Trieste, while remaining in Italian hands, would become a free port.

The British, it was indicated tonight, are more likely to propose that only Tripolitania should be returned to Italy in trust and that Britain should receive trusteeship over Cyrenaica as well as territories comprising former Italian Somaliland, British Somaliland, and leased territories of Ogaden, Ethiopia, while Ethiopia would receive Eritrea.

Balkan Compromise Seen

The same sources considered a probable compromise would be reached on Yugoslav claims which would leave Trieste and a coastal strip including Gorizia under Italian sovereignty, while turning over to Yugoslavia most of the Istrian peninsula, including the ports of Pola and Fiume.

The British delegation, acting under provisions of the Potsdam declaration, submitted today an exhaustive memorandum outlining the full draft peace treaty for Italy.

Secretary of State Byrnes and other members of the American delegation declined to comment on reports that an Italian trusteeship of colonies had their approval. They explained that if the United States' position were stated beforehand it would lead to a "fixation of views."

French Ask Land

The French proposals were understood to have been presented first at a meeting of deputies today and later at a session of the Big Five ministers—Byrnes, British Foreign Secretary Bevin, French Foreign Minister Bidault, Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov, and Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Shih-chieh.

For themselves, the French were reported to be seeking from Italy some territory on the Alpine and Tunisian frontiers, as well as the east African area known as Fezzan, between Lake Chad and North Africa. Italy also would be required to restore French equipment, chiefly locomotives and machine tools, taken during the war.

The foreign ministers' meeting ended at 6:30 p. m. and then was recessed until Friday "owing to the number of documents which must be translated and studied." The British government will give a reception for the delegations at the house of lords tomorrow.

Mrs. Peggy Duffy holding her daughter, Peggy Ann, while her son, Danny, holds medals awarded to his father, Lt. William F. Duffy, found safe in Singapore.

SINGAPORE, Sept. 12 (AP)—Three members of the first B-29 crew to bomb Japan, who were later shot down in a second Super Fort raid on Singapore, arrived at this naval base yesterday after eight months with Chinese and Malay jungle guerrillas.

Lt. W. F. Duffy

They are Maj. D. J. Humphrey, 26, Postville, Ia.; Lt. W. F. Duffy, 28, 8132 S. Wood st., Chicago, and Lt. E. C. Salzman Jr., 25, Washington, D. C.

The trio parachuted from their burning plane last Jan. 11 into a jungle more than 200 miles north of Singapore. They participated in clandestine operations in upper Malaya for a time, and hiked about 600 miles, mostly thru jungles.

Duffy, ill of a mysterious fever for some weeks, has recovered just as mysteriously. All three underwent long periods of hunger in some of the camps where rations were short.

As soon as they could, after hearing the news of Japan's surrender, the Americans started an automobile journey to Singapore. Tomorrow they start an air journey home.

ARMY'S ORDERS ON FRATERNIZING MAKE GIs JUMPY

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, Sept. 12—The American army of occupation requires clarification of the directives concerning fraternization. They are so ambiguous that every unit commander interprets them differently.

Gen. James Gavin, commanding the 82d air borne division, takes a stern view regarding fraternization because he believes most officers and men in his command are revengeful over German civilians who attacked parachutists with pitchforks. Gavin forbids paratroopers to appear in public with civilians.

Most members of the 82d are not exactly aware of what to expect and when the general appears at a club his officers and men begin scrambling out of windows and back doors and hiding behind screens so as not to be seen with frauleins.

Follows Directives, Says General

"I don't want to be the one to get broken in a test case on what fraternization means," said a captain, "so any time big brass appears I lam off the scene."

"I am following directives received from higher levels," Gavin said. "The fact is I am not applying them strictly because the latest indications are that the American army personnel should not drink nor dance with enemy civilians and should not consort nor associate with them. I do not object if my men dance with German girls or buy them a drink at a cabaret, but I do not expect them to be seen in public with Germans."

Rule Needs Clarification

It was pointed out that unworkable laws and rules, like prohibition, are flouted, thus weakening the effect of all regulations.

"The whole subject of fraternization needs clarification," replied Gavin. "But I believe high authorities are reluctant to give concise, detailed directives at this time."

Gavin said he had discussed fraternization with officers of the division who agreed it was distasteful, and that from respect to fallen comrades there is antipathy to associating with the enemy regardless of sex or age.

It was suggested that if this feeling is predominant thruout the division, an anti-fraternizing order seemed unnecessary.

"I know young men desire the companionship of girls and there are WACs and Red Cross girls for them to associate with," said the general. He admitted, however, there were few left for enlisted men after the officers had made their dates.

Wins Divorce

BETTY ALLEN

Mrs. Bettina Allen Kirchheimer, 27, of the Congress hotel, an actress known professionally as Betty Allen, yesterday won a divorce before Judge Edwin A. Robson in Superior court from her husband, Harold, 36, of 40 W. Schiller st., an executive of the Kirchheimer Brothers Paper company. Mrs. Kirchheimer, who was represented by Atty. Benjamin B. Davis, charged desertion. She testified that they were married May 21, 1942, and that her husband deserted her Feb. 2, 1944. She waived alimony.

OPA TO REJECT RECONVERSION PRICE PROTESTS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12 (AP)—OPA in a few days will turn thumbs down on merchants' protests against the agency's reconversion pricing policy.

Submitted formally two weeks ago by a delegation of retailers, the protests labeled as "uneconomic, unsound, and inequitable" OPA plans for returning new peace time goods to the market at 1942 retail prices.

Specifically the retailers attacked the government's "cost absorption policy," which requires that any price increases granted to manufacturers can not be passed on to the public. They must be absorbed by wholesalers and retailers, which means narrower profit margins for those dealers.

Automobile dealers received a cool reception from OPA today on their request for suspension of used car price ceilings when new cars go on the market. The agency told an industry committee it prefers to keep ceilings on for a while to make sure there will be no up trend in current prices.

300 CLAIM U.S. CITIZENSHIP, ASK TO LEAVE REICH

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, Sept. 12—Three hundred persons claiming American citizenship have applied at the American military government for repatriation since the United States army arrived in Berlin. A. Dana Hodgdon, American consul, will examine all claimants and recommend sending to America those who prove their United States nationality.

Twenty persons are lodged and fed at a displaced person camp here and the others are authorized to draw the number one ration containing the highest calory rate from German food shops pending their examination.

Papers Are Lacking

Most lack papers, explaining they were lost, burned in their bombed homes, or seized by the Nazis. A majority state they came to Germany to visit relatives and were trapped when war broke out. Some declare they were in concentration camps during hostilities, others admit they joined the Nazi party under threat of imprisonment, but every one wants to go "home" to America as quickly as possible. Among the claimants are:

Alfred Steif Degrell, born in Chicago June 1, 1931; Anatol Narcyz Gleryn, born in Chicago Feb. 17, 1920; John Rudolph Rossback, born in Cleveland Feb. 16, 1921; Alida Lewandowski, born in Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 28, 1928; Claus Heinrich Michelsen, born in Fort Wayne, Ind., July 28, 1931; Josef Berenji, born in Madison, Wis., July 2, 1919; Andreas Poiroz, born in Toledo, O., Jan. 1, 1925; Emma Chalotte Ebeler [nee Zimilich, born in St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 8, 1877; Daligas Parthin Doloris, born in Milwaukee Oct. 21, 1927; Ernst Herman Wolf, born in Chicago Feb. 20, 1926; Hildegards Gisela Albrecht, naturalized in Indianapolis, Ind., June 10, 1904; Brigitte Liebman, born in Milwaukee March 8, 1924; John George Nuemberger, naturalized in Grayville, Ill., March 8, 1867; Charles Flash Hayes, born in Rock Island, Ill., Aug. 7, 1918.

Walter Fritz Bartsch, naturalized in Chicago July 19, 1896; Maxine Klingler, born in Springfield, O., Aug. 8, 1907; Miriam Wagner, born in Chicago July 19, 1910; Emily Helen Martin, born in Milwaukee July 20, 1885; Argot Gertrude Purwien, born in South Bend, Ind., May 22, 1928; Wilhelmina and Frederic Stone, naturalized in Chicago in 1927; Arthur Frederick Reinke, born at 2634 Barry av., Chicago, May 22, 1928; Max Richard Schneider, born in Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 10, 1911; Mary Jane Gaugiltz, born in St. Louis April 12, 1929, and Margarita Eitrida Richter, born in Detroit, Mich., March 4, 1925.

FATHER IN EVANSTON

Steve Degrell, father of Alfred Steif Degrell, lives at 418 Church st., Evanston, where he is employed as a janitor. He said that his former wife, Elsie, from whom he was divorced in 1933, took Alfred to Germany for a visit in 1934 and did not return.

He said he had a card from his son, written in 1939, saying that he wanted to return to America when the war was over. Degrell has had no word from his former wife. He said that both he and his former wife were American citizens when Alfred was born here, and that there can be no question of the boy's American citizenship.

ARGENTINE M. D.s THREATEN TO QUIT RESEARCH

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Sept. 12 (AP)—The military government of Argentina encountered new troubles today as a group of physicians threatened to suspend their scientific activities, and a local union took sides with striking transport company employes the government had ordered back to work. The Union Obrera local threatened a sympathy strike to support the transport workers "when circumstances demand."

The Argentine Medical association resolved in a meeting to ask its board of directors to "suspend the association's scientific activities until constitutional normalcy is restored." The physicians' resolution said an "atmosphere of liberty, confidence, security, and tranquillity are absolutely indispensable" to investigation for scientific progress, and declared "it is notorious that such conditions do not exist presently in Argentina."

The action followed a similar protest by the nation's lawyers, who halted their activities and caused a virtual standstill in Argentina's courts.

U. S. SPEEDS UP RETURN HOME OF ENEMY CAPTIVES

Italians Going First, Then Germans

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12 (AP)—The war department is stepping up its prisoner of war shipping schedule with the intention of having all Italian service unit members returned to Italy by midwinter and all enemy prisoners cleared from the United States by early spring.

"The increased rate of discharge for members of the armed forces and the release of workers from industry during the reconversion period make it possible for the war department to accelerate return of the prisoners who heretofore have been required for essential work in agriculture and industry," said a statement by Maj. Gen. Archer L. Lerch, provost marshal general.

12,500 Already Gone

More than 12,500 German and Italian prisoners, mainly sick and wounded, have been shipped from this country since V-E day, the war department said. Of this total, 11,554 were German and 1,087 were Italians.

During September, the war department intends to return approximately 18,000 prisoners, including 49 complete Italian service units composed of approximately 229 officers and 8,400 enlisted men. With the exception of these Italian units, which are composed of able-bodied men, the bulk of shipments in September will comprise sick and wounded.

Italians Go First

"Italian service units are being given priority in repatriation over other able-bodied prisoners because they were the most coöperative prisoners of war held by the United States," Gen. Lerch said. "Coöperative German prisoners will go next and noncoöperative Germans will be the last to be shipped."

The prisoners of war as of today in the United States total 417,034, including 362,170 Germans, 49,784 Italians and 5,080 Japanese.

12 ARMED MEN GUARD MOLOTOV AT BIG 5 TALKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 12—A bodyguard of a dozen armed men is protecting Vyacheslav Molotov during the Big Five foreign ministers conference here because many political plotters have been drawn to London by the subjects under discussion. American, French, and Chinese delegates are guarded only by the armed driver of their official cars.

The soviet foreign commissar's entourage includes three autos, two of which are filled with a dozen guards who leap out and surround him whenever he ventures into the open. They also shepherd him into buildings.

Delegates to the parley are under the eagle eyes of members of the British secret service, military intelligence agents, and special Scotland Yard operatives. They lurk in hotels, grillrooms, restaurants, and cafes, watching for foreign agents who want to approach the delegates.

ARMY PROMISES FASTER RELEASE FOR 6 MILLIONS

171 Centers to Be Used in Demobilization

charges. He said such an agency would be "harmful."

The undersecretary said that of the 2½ million men in the army next July, 500,000 would be occupation troops in Europe and 900,000 would be in Japan and other Pacific areas.

Contends Draft Is Needed

Sen. Revercomb [R., W. Va.] remarked that an army of 2½ million men would require indefinite continuation of the draft because the regular army is limited by law to 280,000 men. No volunteers are being accepted for enlistment in the army of the United States, which is the draft army as distinguished from the regular army.

Sen. Hawkes [R., N. J.] asked if anything was being done to halt the drafting of men with large families.

"There's nothing we can do about that," replied Maj. Gen. Stephen G. Henry, assistant army chief of staff in charge of personnel. "It's up to the local draft boards."

Sen. Thomas [D., Utah], chairman of the committee, said witnesses tomorrow would be asked if the army is going to establish a maximum length of service for men unable to earn discharge points thru overseas service.

Point Cut Now in Effect

The point score reduction for the marine corps and the age deadline, announced by Gen. Vandergrift, marine corps commander, are effective immediately. No change was made in the score for members of the women's reserve, which remains at 25 points.

The marine corps point system provides one point for each month of service from Sept. 16, 1940, to Sept. 1, 1945; one point for each month overseas or at sea between the same dates; five points for each decoration and bronze service star, and 12 points for each dependent child, not exceeding three, under 18 years of age.

This system does not apply to enlisted men serving four year enlistments in the regular marine corps.

Since June 29, 1944, commanding officers have been authorized to discharge male marines over 38 years of age and serving within the continental United States. Today's revision lowering that age limit to 35 applies to all personnel—officers and enlisted men, male and female.

When Rep. Shafer introduced his bill calling for the discharge upon request of those who have had two years of service, he said: "The war is over. Bring the boys home."

Shafer had his discharge plan in his pocket three weeks ago, but service officials had asked that he hold it up while they worked out a demobilization program.

"I'm tired of waiting," he told his colleagues. "I want the boys home to get jobs now. Who is running the release of men from service? Is it Sidney Hillman or is it congress?

Clearing with Sidney

"Hillman doesn't want soldiers returned until he gets jobs for all the members of CIO unions. When his political cohorts are placed in the best jobs, he proposes to let men out of the service to take what jobs are left. This is shameful. Jobs for service men should not be cleared with Sidney."

Shafer said his plan would bring the release of men from overseas as rapidly as they could be brought to the United States. Those in this country who have had two years on duty would be discharged at once.

The congressman estimated that his plan would release between 5 and 6 million men and women.

Shafer assailed the present point system as "a leaf in the autumn wind, blowing this way and that." Shafer's bill was sent to the house military affairs committee.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, widow of President Roosevelt, will be the guest speaker at a founders' day dinner of the Roosevelt college of Chicago at the Stevens hotel at 7 p. m., Nov. 16.

She was invited by Dr. E. J. Sparling, president of the school. Approximately 1,500 persons are expected to attend. Mrs. Roosevelt also is expected to attend a trustees' meeting of the Rosenwald foundation, of which she is a member.

Roosevelt college, named after the late President, is at 231 S. Wells st. It will open Sept. 24. Preliminary enrollment stands at 300.

G. O. P. LINES UP GROUP TO PROBE PEARL HARBOR

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12—The selection of 10 congress members—five senators and five representatives—to be entrusted with the investigation of the Pearl Harbor debacle was the subject of behind the scenes discussion on Capitol hill today.

A resolution for the inquiry has been unanimously approved by both houses. It calls for a report by Jan. 3, 1946, within less than four months, and leaders of both parties are anxious to get the probe started as soon as possible. Membership of the committee may be announced tomorrow.

At the end of a day of conferences the identity of the four Republican probers seemed fairly well established. Barring last minute changes, they are Senators Brewster of Maine and Ferguson of Michigan and Representatives Short of Missouri and Mott of Oregon.

Rejection Is Unlikely

Under congressional tradition the minority leaders are permitted to recommend members of their party for committees. Sen. McKellar [D., Tenn.], president pro tempore of the senate, and Speaker Rayburn [D., Tex.] could theoretically reject such nominations but in practice never do so.

The four Republicans tentatively decided upon by Senate Minority Leader White [R., Me.] and House Minority Leader Martin [R., Mass.] are generally regarded as vigorous and hard working members fully qualified to conduct the exhaustive investigation which faces them.

Picking six Democrats proved a more difficult task for McKellar and Rayburn. Sen. Walsh [D., Mass.] is regarded as a certainty and probable chairman. Sen. Barkley [D., Ky.] who sponsored the senate resolution for an investigation, has been mentioned.

Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.], with an eye on the publicity which will attend the open hearings, was said to be seeking a place on the committee and in some quarters was touted for the chairmanship.

In the house, Rep. Ramspeck [D., Ga.], the Democratic whip, was reported under favorable consideration by Rayburn. Representatives May [D., Ky.] and Vinson [D., Ga.], chairman of the house military and naval affairs committees respectively, were other candidates altho one member noted that members of these two committees might find themselves in the position of having to justify their own pre-war stands rather than devoting themselves to an impartial effort to fixe responsibility for the disaster.

Chairman Woodrum [D., Va.] of the house post-war military policy committee, was also under consideration.

Papers Turned Over

Meanwhile, "top secret" documents from three navy investigations of Pearl Harbor are ready for submission to the committee, Sen. Walsh said. The papers were turned over to the naval affairs committee last Monday.

GAEL SULLIVAN MADE SECOND ASSISTANT POSTMASTER GENERAL

Gael Sullivan, a protege of Mayor Kelly, yesterday was appointed second assistant postmaster general in Washington, D. C. Sullivan expects to be discharged soon from the army with the rank of major. He served overseas with the allied military government.

Sullivan started his political life with a job with the old south park board. In 1935 he was campaign speaker for Mayor Kelly. His reward was appointment as associate state director of the federal housing administration. After two years as an administrative assistant to Kelly he went back to the FHA as state director, a post he occupied until 1943 when he was commissioned an army captain. He is an enthusiastic New Dealer.

In 1940 Sullivan filed for the Democratic nomination for United States senator, but soon withdrew his candidacy. Educated for the priesthood, he is 40 years old.

KIMMEL WILL WAIT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12 (AP)—Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel was reported tonight to have informed Navy Secretary Forrestal he does not desire a general court martial so long as the congressional investigation of the Pearl Harbor disaster is in progress.

Persons familiar with the contents of the letter interpreted it as leaving the way open for a court martial at some future date.

The navy department declined to make public the admiral's reply to Forrestal's offer of a court martial, which was received Monday.

Adm. Kimmel, who was commander in chief of the Pacific fleet on Dec. 7, 1941, was relieved of his command 10 days later and placed on the retired list. He has repeatedly demanded a court martial on his behalf.

Secretary Forrestal, in his comment on the navy court of inquiry's report, ordered that neither Kimmel nor Adm. Stark, then chief of naval operations, should hold "any position in the navy which requires the exercise of superior judgment."

Following publication of that report, it was revealed that on the preceding day Forrestal had written Adm. Kimmel offering to convene a court martial if Kimmel desired.

THEODORE BRIMM MADE WLB AID

Appointment of Theodore Brimm as associate director of the disputes division of the regional war labor board was announced yesterday by Edgard L. Warren, WLB chairman. Brimm succeeds Leo Kotin, who resigned.

BRITAIN ASKING 3 TO 6 BILLION AS U.S. GIFT OR LOAN

Truman Terms G. O. P.'s Objections 'Silly'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12—John Maynard Keynes, British economist and head, with Ambassador Halifax of the British delegation to the Anglo-American economic conference, made it clear by process of elimination today that Great Britain will ask the United States either for an outright cash gift of billions of dollars or an interest free long term loan to finance rehabilitation of trade and industry.

Keynes, who was an advocate of British repudiation of World War I. debts, declined to answer questions put to him at a news conference regarding the specific financial proposals Great Britain will submit at the conference. He said such information would be "premature" because negotiations will not begin until tomorrow.

Doesn't Want to Pay Interest

He stated flatly, however, that he did not favor negotiation of an interest bearing, commercial loan with the United States. He also said he did not favor Great Britain's attempting to work herself out of her post-war economic difficulties thru her own resources and without aid from the United States.

Without giving details, Keynes announced that the British delegation wanted financial aid from the United States as well as a liberal American trade and tariff policy. He said that if this can be arranged, the "United States and the rest of the world will be better off" as the result of Great Britain's economic salvation.

Earlier in the day, President Truman characterized as "perfectly silly" Republican arguments that this country should not lend or give its money to finance the socialization of Britain by that country's Labor party. The President told his press conference that American dollars would not be used to influence internal British politics.

Republicans Critical

The President's comment on the loan issue came when he was asked about critical statements on the matter from Rep. Knutson [R., Minn]. and Rep. Curtis [R., Neb.]. They charged that the Labor party was asking the American people to underwrite their country's socialization with United States cash.

Keynes asserted at the British press conference that in seeking aid the British do not expect congress to approve any measures which would not be in "the long-term interest of the United States." Halifax expanded on this statement, declaring that the British have no intention of coming to the United States as "suppliants," and will ask for nothing that would help only Great Britain. Any aid sought also would be in the interests of the United States and the "world at large," Halifax said.

Keynes said that an "easy course" would be negotiation of a commercial loan without considering Britain's ability to repay it. He said, however, that the British do not favor such a "soft and deceptive" expedient, and that his government "was not in the mood to repeat the experience of last time's war debts." He added that he believed the United States similarly did not want a recurrence of war debt problems.

Ask U. S. Understanding

Keynes and Halifax appealed for American understanding and collaboration in finding a solution to Britain's post-war transition problem. They said that post-war economic problems are world-wide and must be considered as a whole if violent international disturbances are to be avoided and full employment and high wages are to be attained. They said Great Britain's and America's economic welfare are mutual and, therefore, the United States would be aiding itself in aiding Britain.

Failure to obtain such help would throw the British empire into a kind of economic isolationism which would cause friction with the United States, they warned.

Just as he avoided disclosing whether Great Britain plans to ask for an outright gift or a form of interest-free lend-lease, Keynes declined to discuss the amount of financial aid which will be sought at the conference. He said that different methods of solving post-war economic problems require different amounts of money, but admitted that the proposed American aid would range from 3 to 6 billion dollars. He promised that the conference would not be the "occasion for secret diplomacy."

Will Try to "Sell" U. S.

Asked what "sales talk" the British delegation planned to use in selling the American people on loaning these billions, Keynes replied that the delegation would attempt to prove that such aid also would be profitable to the United States.

He had no comment on questions involving cancellation of the 29½ billion dollars in lend-lease advanced by the United States to the British Empire and payment by the United States of a share of war costs incurred by Britain prior to American entry into the war. It was reported in Washington, however, that the British will advance such proposals at the conference—in addition to seeking cash aid.

In introducing Keynes at the news conference, Halifax contended that the battle of Britain actually was "the battle of the world." Similarly, he asserted, Britain's economic struggle embraces the United States and other allied nations.

In contrast to the storm of protest which arose from the British government when the United States halted lend-lease because the war had ended, Keynes and Halifax told the news conference that Great Britain never regarded lend-lease as a continuous "Santa Claus" proposition.

TRUMAN NAMES BIDDLE TO WAR CRIMES TRIBUNAL

BY WILLIAM STRAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12—President Truman today announced several appointees to federal judgeships and disclosed that Francis Biddle, former United States attorney general under the late President Roosevelt, has been named the American member of the four power military tribunal that will try the major axis war criminals.

Mr. Truman also accepted the resignation of Elmer Davis as head of the office of war information and appointed a successor to preside over the liquidation of that government propaganda agency which was devised by the late President. In his letter asking to be relieved by Sept. 15, Davis said the work of the domestic branch will be virtually ended by Oct. 6. Meanwhile other OWI functions, including the controversial foreign branch, are being transferred to the state department and the bureau of the budget.

Agency Long Under Fire

Neil Dalton of Louisville, Ky., was named to succeed Davis for the OWI's final windup period. Charges were heard frequently on the floor of congress during the war that the OWI had bungled the propaganda job at home and abroad. Among other things it failed consistently to present this nation to foreign peoples in a manner calculated to win their respect and friendship, it was said.

In a "Dear Elmer" letter to the retiring propaganda chieftain, President Truman asserted that the work of the OWI was "an outstanding contribution to victory." The President also noted that the propaganda agency had often been a storm center during debates on the Roosevelt administration's conduct of the war. His letter continued:

"I know that you made a great personal sacrifice to serve the nation in its hour of need. As part of your reward you received more than your share of brick bats. That was inevitable. But it is my firm conviction that you deserve the thanks of the nation for a job well done."

Rewards Former Colleague

The President's judicial appointments included a job for a former senate colleague, Bennett C. Clark, who was senior senator from Missouri until his defeat in the last election, while Mr. Truman was serving as junior senator from the same state. Clark was appointed to succeed Thurman Arnold on the Circuit Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia.

Other appointments were:

E. Barrett Prettyman, Washington, D. C., and Wilbur K. Miller, Owensboro, Ky., both to the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

John J. O'Connell, of Pittsburgh, to be judge of the 3d Circuit Court of Appeals, a new judicial post created by congress.

Alexander Holtzoff of Washington, D. C., as judge of the United States District court of the District of Columbia.

The international court on which Biddle will serve in the trial of the principal war criminals is expected to begin functioning in the late fall. Other nations represented on it are Russia, France, and England.

U. S. Judge Named Alternate

Mr. Truman has named federal Circuit Judge John J. Parker of Charlotte, N. C., as Biddle's alternate on the tribunal, it was disclosed. Parker's name has been heard frequently in connection with the filling of the existing Supreme court vacancy resulting from the resignation of former Justice Owen J. Roberts. Today the President said he has not yet decided on a nomination.

Roberts declined to accept the appointment which went to Biddle, pleading the need for a rest, Mr. Truman disclosed.

Mr. Truman had two comments on domestic politics today.

He refused to say whether he regarded his administration as tending to the left or right. Reporters will have to work that out as his individual acts are taken, he said, adding he could furnish no leads on that question.

When his attention was called to an editorial in a Washington, D. C., newspaper today suggesting it was time that the administration put some Republicans in federal judicial posts, Mr. Truman smiled and said he was a Democrat.

On the foreign front he:

1. Counseled Australian critics of the Japanese occupation to be patient. He said that if they are they will be satisfied in the end with what is done. His questioner said some newspapers in Australia had attacked American "kid glove treatment" of Japan.

2. Promised a policy on Korea to be announced later. Asked about criticisms against the retention of "Japanese overlords" in administrative positions in southern Korea, the President said these Japanese would be removed as soon as possible.

He said the present Korean occupation policy was a practical problem to be decided in the theater of operations rather than in Washington.

When American troops first landed on southern Korea [northern Korea is occupied by the Russians] Brig. Gen. Crump Garvin, chief of staff of the 24th army corps, said Gov. Gen. Abe and other Japanese officials would remain in office for "maybe a day, maybe a year."

[In the Korean capital of Seoul today Lt. Gen. Hodge, the American military governor, said it was necessary to keep the Japanese in office because they "ran everything here—the railroads, the telephone and telegraph companies, the postoffice, and the hotels." Hodge, however, reiterated the allied pledge of independence for Korea "in due course."]

At the White House it was announced today that the President and Mrs. Truman will spend next week end at their summer home in Independence, Mo.

The Presidential party will leave by plane for Kansas City, Mo., next Friday, stopping en route at Paducah, Ky., to drop off Sen. Barkley [D., Ky.] and at Scott field, Ill., where Miss Reathel Odum, secretary to Mrs. Truman, will leave the party to visit her home in Illinois. Mr. Truman will return to Washington the following Sunday.

BURGLARS ROB PLANT SAFE

HUNDREDS SEE NAVY BOMBER CRASH; 14 KILLED

W. J. De Roche

One crewman, Wilfred J. De Roche, 23, of 41 Pearl st., Somerville, Mass., saved himself with a low level parachute jump from an aft escape hatch a moment before the big plame plummeted earthward from 500 feet.

On Training Flight

Naval authorities gave this description of the tragedy:

The big plane, a Privateer, had taken off from the naval air station on a regular training flight and as it gained altitude the air observers in the control tower saw that its No. 3 engine was flaming.

"Your engine is afire," the pilot was told by radio. "You will land immediately on any runway. All runways are being cleared for you."

Every plane in the vicinity was ordered out of the way of the distressed craft as the pilot acknowledged the message and began to turn back toward the field.

Plane Dives Suddenly

"The aircraft suddenly dived, crashed, and exploded. There were no other survivors."

A navy board of inquiry which went to the scene arrived in time to see some of the bodies removed.

Two of the dead were John Edward McIntyre, 5226 Pacific st., Detroit, Mich., and Richard Emil Schlenker, seaman 1st class, 3057 N. 46th st., Milwaukee, Wis.

Berwyn Ensign Killed

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 12 (AP)—Ensign Edward A. Vosyka, U. S. N. R., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Vosyka, 1835 S. Ridgeland av., Berwyn, Ill., who was attached to a carrier air group at the naval air station at Chincoteague, Va., was killed when his plane crashed into Chesapeake bay late today. His body had not been recovered.

PRESS WIRELESS APPLIES TO FCC FOR RATE CUTS

New York, Sept. 12 [Special]—Application for reductions in its press message, radiophoto and other rates between New York City and European countries was filed with the federal communications commission in Washington today by Press Wireless, Inc.

According to President A. Warren Norton, the reductions are being sought in keeping with the company's policy of maintaining the lowest possible press and radio rates and to encourage further increase of international communications as an aid to peace.

The rates between Czechoslovakia, France, Germany, Switzerland and the United States for urgent traffic are to be reduced from 8 cents per word to 6 cents per word, and ordinary rates between New York, Germany, France, and Russia will be reduced by 50 per cent.

The new rates would become effective October 1, subject to the approval of the commission and the foreign communications agencies concerned.

CAPITAL PUZZLED BY STORY OF RED AIR LINE TO U. S.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12 (AP)—Officials were puzzled today by a statement in the Russian newspaper Izvestia that a soviet operated air line had been opened to the United States by way of Alaska and Yakutsk, Siberia.

The civil aeronautics board said Russia has not applied for commercial air rights in the United States, and the state department said there have been no negotiations which normally would precede such an application. Official comment indicated, however, that an opening move by the Russians would be welcome.

Russia revoked at the last minute its acceptance of the American invitation to the international civil aviation conference at Chicago last year. The soviet said then it could not sit with "hostile" countries such as Portugal, Spain, and Switzerland. Despite that, the conference held open and still is holding open a place for Russia on the provisional international civil aviation organization.

NAVY TO SEND LAST PATIENTS HOME IN MONTH

Approximately 15,000 navy patients, including marines, remain to be returned to the United States from Pacific areas, Vice Adm. Ross T. McIntire, navy surgeon general, reported yesterday in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical association.

He predicted that evacuations at the present rate of around 1,800 patients weekly should be completed in mid-October. Use of double deck beds and introduction of other emergency measures, he explained, have increased the normal capacity of the navy's 54 hospitals in this country from 72,531 to well beyond the 100,000 accommodation mark.

Adm. McIntire disclosed that the principal cause for inclusion in navy sick lists and for medical discharge, is mental disease. From January, 1942, thru June of this year, he said, 25.8 per cent of all navy medical discharges were neuropsychiatric cases. He added that 97 out of every 100 wounded men survived their injuries.

WAC'S PURSE AND $40 TAKEN

Sgt. Albina Struoginis of 5227 S. Sawyer av., a WAC, told police yesterday that a man slashed the shoulder strap of her pocketbook as she entered the Madison st. entrance of the North Western station and escaped with the purse, which she said contained her railroad ticket, furlough papers and $40.

DEATH on Wheels!

A Warning to the Motoring Public

People are driving too fast and too far on tires that are in poor condition. Many accidents have resulted. Make sure that your tires are safe. Defects can be repaired expertly; and recapping will add many thousands of safe tire-miles. If used tires are purchased, make sure they have been judged safe by competent tire specialists. Many thousands of tires, some taken from scrap piles, improperly repaired and recapped, have been sold to an unsuspecting public with much danger to the motorists.

A Long Wait for New Tires

At estimated production schedules, it will take many months before tires are available to the general public and more than a year-and-a-half's production will be required to replace the pre-war tires. Good used tires are also scarce; motorists are not skilled in determining imperfections nor too careful where they buy such tires. The Office of Price Administration has defined, in their regulation, the various categories of used tires. The National Bureau of Standards, Department of Commerce, has also set forth standards approved by the industry as has the Associated Tire Specialists of Chicago. The dealers who are members of this Association pledge themselves to advise properly the condition and the grade of the tire as defined in Government Regulations.

Recapping Has Proved Successful

Members of this Association are determined to do only that class of repairing and recapping which, at least, meets Government requirements. Every tire will be subject to minute and expert inspection in order to ferret out ALL the defects and these tires will be properly repaired or recapped to assure utmost safety and mileage.

To Further Assure Continued Driving

We suggest that you heed advice given time and time again. Drive within today's speed limits. Keep tires properly inflated. Make repairs promptly. When the tread on your tire is worn smooth have it recapped at once. Avoid sudden starts and stops. Don't run over curbs or obstacles on the road. These measures, plus cooperation and assistance of reliable dealers, will give maximum wear to your tires. If you must buy used tires, insist on knowing their condition, grade, and nature of repair work. Have recapping done only by qualified specialists.

Martin Durkin and his mother, Mrs. Hattie Durkin, during recess in his hearing before Judge Igoe.

Martin J. Durkin, 44, who was released from Stateville penitentiary Aug. 8 after serving more than 18 years for the murder of Edward Shanahan, a federal agent, in Chicago in 1926, lost a petition in federal District court yesterday for a writ of habeas corpus to escape a term of 11 years in federal penitentiary for stealing automobiles.

Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe, denying the petition, said, "The law is fully set forth by the Supreme court." If he permitted himself to be swayed by emotion, however, he probably would give Durkin his freedom, Judge Igoe said. He complimented Atty. Henry L. Balaban for his presentation of Durkin's appeal.

After the denial, Balaban said he would appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, and Durkin was taken to the county jail.

After the murder conviction, Durkin was sentenced by the late Federal Judge Adam C. Cliffe to 11 years in federal prison on seven convictions of violations of the Dyer act.

ARMY WILL SELL 21 MILLIONS OF WINTER GOODS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12 (AP)—Approximately 21 million dollars worth of army winter clothing and equipment have been declared surplus and will be sold to the public, the war department announced today.

The material has been turned over to the department of commerce and will be sold thru commercial channels in Chicago, Boston, Mass.; New York; Philadelphia, Pa.; Atlanta, Ga.; Cincinnati, O.; Denver, Colo.; San Francisco, Cal.; Fort Worth, Tex.; Seattle, Wash., and Kansas City, Mo.

The list includes 47,000 mountain sleeping bags, 246,000 arctic sleeping bags, 169,196 pairs of ski and jersey lined trousers, 149,800 pairs of snow shoes, 123,647 pairs of ski-mountain boots, 127,819 pairs of mountain skis, and 234,000 pairs of ski poles.

EMPLOYEE OF TRIBUNE LEARNS MOTHER DIED IN NAZI GAS CHAMBER

Max Arthur, CHICAGO TRIBUNE photographer, learned yesterday that his mother was put to death by the Nazis in the gas chambers at Auschwitz, Germany, and that his stepfather probably met the same fate.

Arthur had not heard from his family since the war broke out in Europe. He learned in a letter received from relatives that the Gestapo entered his mother's home and ordered her to leave within 30 minutes. She was taken to Breslau and was put in with a group for transportation to Theresienstadt. Relatives received word later of her fate. No definite word was received by them about her husband, but they believed that he also was put to death.

Born in Germany, Arthur came to this country in 1926. He left the Tribune on military leave in March, 1943, and served more than two years as captain of an army cargo and personnel vessel. He returned recently to the Tribune staff.

CIO UNEMPLOYED ASKED TO LOBBY FOR JOB BILLS

Unemployed members of all CIO unions in Chicago were called upon yesterday by the national headquarters of the Congress of Industrial Organizations in Washington, D. C., to meet with congressmen in the capital Oct. 8 to discuss pending legislation which is supported by the unions.

Michael Mann, secretary of the Chicago Industrial Union council, central city body of the CIO, said the national headquarters is asking delegations from other cities to visit Washington on specified dates beginning the end of this month.

Officers and other members will be asked to make the trip, Mann said. The CIO is actively supporting the enactment of the so-called full employment bill, payment of $25 a week unemployment compensation in all states, and other legislation.

UNRRA CALLED LAUGHING STOCK OF EUROPEANS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12 (AP)—Rep. Fulton [R., Pa.] said today united nations' relief and rehabilitation administration activities are the "laughing stock" of Europe.

Fulton, just returned from nearly two months abroad, voiced his criticism of UNRRA in an interview as the senate foreign relations committee summoned UNRRA Chief Lehman.

Chairman Connally [D., Tex.] said he thought committee members would have "a lot of questions" to ask Lehman.

Fulton directed most of his barbs at UNRRA personnel.

"It's composed of impractical do-gooders and 'doodlers' who run around doing nothing," the Pennsylvanian told a reporter. "The European peoples laugh at their futile efforts to provide relief.

"Right now, for instance, the biggest complaint among the UNRRA personnel is that they don't like their uniforms."

Fulton suggested that the "quickest and best solution" would be to have the army, under, Gen. Eisenhower, take over UNRRA operations.

HOUSE MAY PUT ELLIOTT'S LOANS IN COURT HANDS

Decision Is Sought from Tax Appeal Unit

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12 (AP)—Some members of the house ways and means committee said today the Elliott Roosevelt financial investigation probably will be turned over to the Court of Tax Appeals for a decision.

At the same time, these members said, a report on the whole investigation of young Roosevelt's loans will be placed before the house as a public document.

The committee this morning received and examined Roosevelt's written explanation of a $200,000 loan he reportedly received from John Hartford, president of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company, for use in developing a Texas radio chain.

Settled for $4,000

Previously, committeemen said they received testimony from Jesse Jones, former Reconstruction Finance corporation chairman, that he settled the loan for $4,000 of his own money at the late President Roosevelt's request and that Hartford wrote off the $196,000 in his income tax return as a bad debt.

It was understood the bureau of internal revenue has advised the committee it considers the Hartford loan a legitimate transaction, in which the chain grocery head lost $196,000 and should be allowed the regular tax deduction on this bad debt loss.

Seek Tax Decision

Some committeemen expressed the opinion the committee could refer the matter to the tax court for a decision on whether the bad debt deduction should be allowed Hartford, and for a determination whether the $196,000 should be considered as income in young Roosevelt's tax reports.

Conflicting stories came out of today's closed committee meeting over the role Elliott's father played in the transaction.

Some members quoted young Elliott as saying his father insisted that his boys "stand on their own feet."

Offer Different Picture

Others who declined to be quoted said the combined statements gave this picture:

That Elliott met Hartford in the latter's hotel and Hartford wondered if the loan would embarrass the President. Elliott called his father at Warm Springs, Ga., and the President told Hartford "Elliott has a good thing there, I don't think you can lose."

The committee put off a formal decision, deciding to go over the voluminous records again tomorrow.

DEFERS ACTION ON VACATING OF CITIZENSHIP BAN

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan indicated yesterday that he would dismiss a motion to vacate a decree of denaturalization entered three years ago against Albert J. Krause, former Northwestern university employe, but agreed to postpone his decision until Sept. 19 at the request of Atty. Joseph Harrington. Harrington said he will ask the United States Circuit Court of Appeals to determine whether Judge Sullivan has jurisdiction in the case. Krause was denaturalized Sept. 17, 1942, for disloyal and seditious statements.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by E. Benedict Keeler, New York.]

THE QUESTION

If you could perform one miracle, what would it be?

WHERE ASKED.

THE ANSWERS

Harold L. Cranford, railroad real estate agent, 803 Wilson av.—Everlasting peace. I would see to it that there were no more wars and no more suffering caused by war. I don't think that such a miracle will happen. I'm afraid that we have a pretty good chance that there will always be wars.

Theodore Kaleta, electronic technician, 858 N. Marshfield av.—My miracle would be one of love. I would fix it so one woman would remain in love with me forever. It would be such a miracle that it would work both ways, and I would feel the same about her. There is nothing more perfect than everlasting devotion.

Staff Sgt. Edgar Watkins, Baltimore, Md.—I would release myself from marriage. I've found out that I don't like the married state and would like to be a bachelor all my life. As a bachelor, a man can do as he pleases without answering to any one. Marriage to me is a stifling experience that takes away all worth living for.

Dorothy Harnacke, farmerette, New Holland, Logan county, Ill.—I would do away with slum areas wherever they might be. Every community would be clean and livable, free from disease, and roomy enough for all normal life. If there were no slums there would be no poor people, and that's the way it should be.

Pvt. Ray Viles, military police, 3016 W. 61st st.—I would find a cure for cancer. It can be found if the nation uses some of the money it wastes in red tape. If we have billions for inventing an atomic bomb to destroy lives, surely we can spare enough to find a cancer cure that will have the opposite result.

Miss Sally Skutnick, home girl, Omaha, Neb.—If I had my way, there would be less heartbreak in the world. With my one miracle, I would do away with wars, divorces, poverty, and disease. The world has suffered enough but it seems that as civilization grows older we find new ways to persecute each other.

Thefts from Roommate Cost Woman Jail Term

Miss Mary O'Brien, 21, of 1944 N. California av., arrested Aug. 3 for thefts of clothing and jewelry from her roommate, Mrs. Theresa Fitzgerald, was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail yesterday by Judge Frank Donoghue in Women's court on a charge of petty larceny.

MAYHEM CHARGE MADE AGAINST 4 IN UNION TERROR

As police continued their search for Frank Carroll, business agent, and three other supposed members of local 701 of the Auto Mechanics' union [AFL] in the slugging of Carter Olson last Saturday, Police Capt. George Barnes, head of the labor detail, yesterday obtained additional warrants charging the four fugitives with mayhem, a felony.

Tho four days had elapsed since the assault, the police have been unable to find Carroll or the other three, who have not been identified. They are accused of knocking out three of Olsen's teeth, splitting his lip, knocking him down, and kicking him. Barnes said the AFL union reported that Carroll was "on vacation."

On orders of State's Atty. Touhy, who has vowed that he will prosecute the four, Barnes obtained the mayhem warrants from Judge J. M. Braude in Boys' court. Conviction on such a charge could involve a penalty of one to 20 years' imprisonment, Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, who has been assigned to the case, said. Warrants previously issued charged assault and battery.

Olsen, who lives at 2500 N. Washtenaw av., was one of a group of 48 employes of the Greyhound Motors and Supply company, 916 N. Kilbourn av., who signed a petition and forwarded it Saturday, announcing that they did not want to be represented by the AFL union after its contract with the company expires in October.

Lend-Lease to Continue, Australian Premier Says

CANBERRA, Australia, Sept. 12 (AP)—Prime Minister Joseph B. Chifley said today arrangements had been made for continuance of the flow of lend-lease goods from the United States to Australia. Because of cargoes already on American wharves for loading, shipments can be resumed immediately, he said.

JAW FRACTURE IS NOT MAYHEM, COURT RULES

A fracture of a jaw is not a disfigurement of the human body, Judge Julius H. Miner ruled yesterday in Criminal court when he quashed a mayhem indictment against Policeman Stanley Mizwicki of Summit. The charge was brought by Leon Goldstine, a storekeeper at 6227 Archer av., whose jaw the policeman broke in a quarrel in July. Atty. George Biever, representing Mizwicki, argued last week that mayhem meant disfigurement. Judge Miner agreed and said the policeman can be tried only on the charge of assault, a misdemeanor. He set the trial for Sept. 28.

4 SAILORS DIE OF POISONING ON PLANE CARRIER

Bremerton, Wash., Sept. 12 (AP)—Four navy enlisted men are dead and seven are under treatment at the Puget Sound navy yard hospital from "suspected poisoning from an unknown agent," the navy yard public relations office announced today.

All of the men were attached to an aircraft carrier under repair at the navy yard.

The dead included Fireman 1st Class William Estel Williams of Salem, Ill.

The navy reported the seven men under treatment were in satisfactory condition. It did not disclose their names, nor that of the ship.

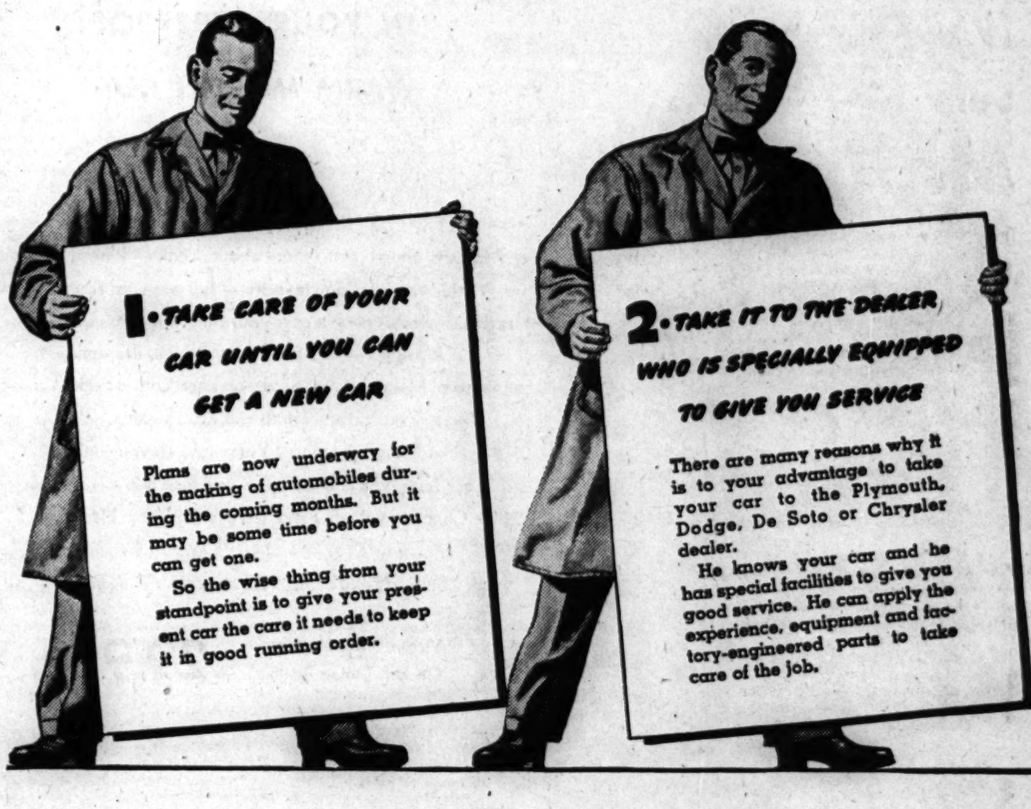
Here's the best advice that we can give to

Plymouth, DODGE, DeSoto and CHRYSLER owners—

With gasoline rationing lifted, we know that now, more than ever, you want to get the best possible use out of your car and we'd like to help you in every way we can. So we offer these suggestions in an effort to be of service to you if you own a Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler car.



1 • TAKE CARE OF YOUR CAR UNTIL YOU CAN GET A NEW CAR
Plans are now underway for the making of automobiles during the coming months. But it may be some time before you can get one.
So the wise thing from your standpoint is to give your present car the care it needs to keep it in good running order.
2 • TAKE IT TO THE DEALER WHO IS SPECIALLY EQUIPPED TO GIVE YOU SERVICE
There are many reasons why it is to your advantage to take your car to the Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler dealer.
He knows your car and he has special facilities to give you good service. He can apply the experience, equipment and factory-engineered parts to take care of the job.

GRANDMAS FIGHT FOR BABY THAT MOTHER GAVE UP

Woman Boarding Child Wants to Keep Her

A three cornered fight for possession of a seven months old baby girl developed yesterday at a hearing before Judge Elmer J. Schnackenberg in Circuit court, involving the baby's two grandmothers and a third person, not in the family, who now has the girl.

The hearing was on a petition brought by the mother, Mrs. Kathryn Hemmerle, 17, of 4656 Kasson av., seeking to compel her estranged husband, William, 19, a discharged soldier, to pay $100 which, she charged, he was in arrears in support payments.

Agrees to Adoption

Her attorneys, Joseph H. and Norman Becker, and her mother, Mrs. Kathryn Sorensen, told the court they were less interested in the money than in adoption of the baby by Mrs. Sorensen. Mrs. Hemmerle, they said, had agreed to the adoption.

The attorneys said that Mrs. Hemmerle had given the baby, Patricia, into the care of Mrs. Dudley Stone, 728 S. Jackson st., Aurora, who was to receive $10 a week.

Mrs. Sorensen recently attempted to get the baby back, Norman Becker said, and offered Mrs. Stone $90 back board, which he said the Aurora woman refused. She refused to surrender the child and said that she had become attached to Patricia and wanted to adopt her, he said.

She Also Wants the Girl

The third party to the fight for the baby is her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Jean Hemmerle, 4825 N. Oakley blvd.

Her attorney, Seymour Rady, said that Mrs. Hemmerle is eager to get the child, but she realizes that Mrs. Stone is a common enemy and is willing to join forces for the present with Mrs. Sorensen.

MILLIONS of printed words have told of the wonders of DDT, the new insect killer, and now an additional flow of words will report the other side of the subject: the danger of indiscriminate use of this insecticide.

Nature lovers and wild life authorities are beginning to point out that DDT is such a potent killer of insects that its common usage may completely upset the balance of nature. Edwin Way Teale, writing in Nature magazine, reports that Washington orchardists used DDT to kill codling moths in apples. The insecticide did kill the codling moths, but it also destroyed syrphus flies, lacewing flies, and hymenopterous parasites, all of which feed on plant lice [aphis].

Plant Lice Multiply

With these beneficial insects destroyed, plant lice multiplied to such an extent that the apple trees were greatly damaged. Aphis and red mites seem to be unaffected by DDT. In an Ohio orchard there were 30 times as many red mites in trees sprayed with DDT as in adjacent trees sprayed with standard doses of lead arsenate.

Roberts Mann, superintendent of conservation of the forest preserve district of Cook county, said today that no DDT will be used in the forest preserves until results of government experiment are announced.

625,000 Bugs Listed

About 625,000 species of insects are listed by science and only 235 of these are known to be economically harmful. All the others are either beneficial or nonharmful to man. Insects are the major food of beneficial birds and are the pollinators of fruit trees, clover crops, and wildflowers. Indiscriminate use of DDT would kill millions of these beneficial insects.

Nature fans may be overstressing the dangers of DDT. Powerful insecticides, particularly the arsenicals, pyrethrum, and rotenone, have been used in past years to kill specific insects in specific places, and there was no upsetting of the balance of nature. DDT will be used for the same purposes and in the same areas.

A housekeeper spraying DDT into a closet to kill moths, or on a screen door to kill flies, will not harm beneficial insects. Similarly, a farmer applying DDT in a corn field to kill corn borers, or on vegetables in his garden, will kill few beneficial insects. DDT is too expensive to be used indiscriminately over vast fields and woodlots, so there should be little danger of unnecessary killing in that respect.

★ The GARDEN ★

GARDENERS who planted cauliflower seed in July should watch their most advanced plants at this time of the year to insure starting the blanching process before the heads are too large. Cauliflower heads are blanched by drawing and tying the large basal leaves over the plant, thus protecting the heads against direct sunlight and insuring against browning of the heads. This should be done when the heads are about two inches in diameter. The heads will develop under the tied leaves and after two to three weeks should reach maximum size for harvest.

Large nails can be used conveniently for passing thru the leaves after they are drawn over the heads, being superior to cord because the cords sometimes slip off.

All members of the cabbage family, including cauliflower, will withstand light frosts. With normal autumn weather, July seeded cauliflower may be harvested until mid-October.

U. C. PROFESSOR RAPS RATION AID AND QUITS BOARD

Kenneth Sears, a professor in the University of Chicago law school, disclosed yesterday that he has withdrawn from deliberations of office of price administration local board 40—5 at 6012 Cottage Grove av., of which he is vice chairman, because of a lack of confidence in one of the board members.

He described this member as a "cheater who got on the board thru his own request so he could take care of himself and his friends."

Prof. Sears said he also objected to an unofficial "super board" made up of the chairman, Paul Anderson, and another member who overruled the board's action in a case involving the member to whom Prof. Sears objected.

Complains of "Super Board"

During gasoline rationing, he said, this member applied for preferred mileage which the board voted against, 4 to 3. The member was offered an appeal, but refused. Later, Sears said, this member got Anderson and another member, acting as a "super board," to overrule the board and increase his rations to 1,800 miles a month.

The board as a whole was unaware of this action, Prof. Sears said, until an area OPA auditor, examining the board's files, reported the member was entitled to only 475 miles a month and that he had been given too large an allotment. The case later was appealed and the member was given 1,400 miles a month after more liberal regulations had gone into effect, Sears said.

Suggests Sears Return

Prof. Sears said he twice had prepared letters of resignation from the board, but has been prevailed upon by other members to withhold this action in the belief changes would be made in the board.

Anderson said last night he had no intention of leaving the board and suggested that Prof. Sears return to its meetings.

"Prof. Sears and I differed about the handling of some cases," Anderson said. "I believe the case he cited was handled according to regulations as supported by the final disposition. He is a capable man and I think he can serve the community by continuing his work with the board."

DISCOVERS BURGLAR, BUT LOSES $90

SOLDIERS' FIELD GARDEN DISPLAY TO OPEN TODAY

More than 10,000 Chicago area war gardeners will be represented in the garden roundup which opens at 11 a. m. today in the exhibition hall at the south end of Soldiers' field. The displays will be open until 10 p. m. The display is sponsored by the Garden Roundup committee, representing the Chicago Horticultural society, the National Victory Garden institute, and the Chicago war service corps.

Individual gardeners will provide most of the exhibits. The Rogers Park community will have four exhibition stalls for the work of 1,400 gardeners. Other large exhibitions will be provided by 900 Park Ridge gardeners and 500 from Flossmoor.

Tonight Chicago housewives will parade in hats decorated with their own vegetables. Laurance Armour, chairman of the Chicago Horticultural society, and Lester J. Norris, St. Charles, former president of the National Victory Garden institute, will speak. Twelve outstanding junior gardeners of this area will be awarded MacArthur medals. Square dancing is scheduled at 8:30 p. m.

STATE'S AUGUST SALES OF BONDS JUMP $13,503,427

War bond sales in Chicago, Cook county, and Illinois during August increased sharply over sales during the corresponding month of 1944, Renslow P. Sherer, chairman of the Illinois war finance committee, announced yesterday. E, F, and G bond sales thruout Illinois during last month totaled $58,667,689.18, or $13,503,427.18 more than the total of $45,164,242 in sales during August, 1944. Chicago and Cook county's total bond sales last month amounted to $38,501,074, or an increase of $8,783,756 over the $29,717,318 sales of August, 1944.

AIR CADETS SAY ARMY IS UNFAIR ON DISCHARGES

They Want to Keep Their Student Status

Many army air forces cadets in training as pilots, bombardiers, navigators, and flight engineers feel, according to complaints telegraphed to THE TRIBUNE, that they are being given unfair alternatives in a questionnaire governing the continuation of their training.

Circulated by the army, the form asks the student cadet to indicate whether he wishes to complete his training, subject to "probable assignment to occupation air forces," or to drop out. If the student elects to stop training, the questionnaire says, he "will be subject to any normal duty assignment commensurate with grade, or to separation from the military service based upon present or future eligibility and quotas."

Second Form Circulated

A second form was circulated when many students declined to sign the first because of the indefinite term of service involved. This second one committed the signer to service "for the present emergency and six months, and includes possible overseas service."

The telegram to THE TRIBUNE, signed "Aviation Cadets and Students," came from Hondo, Tex., one of the largest air forces training bases. Cadets not signing the agreement to continue training, the telegram said, were to be relieved of student status and returned to the grade each individual held before entering the program, i. e., private, corporal, and the like. They would then be subject to discharge under the army's standard point system.

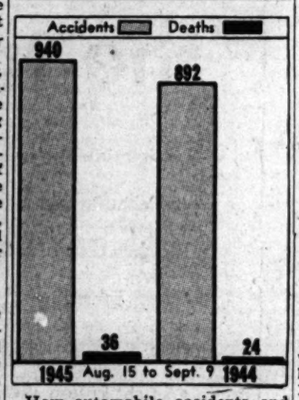
Want Just Consideration

"It has been the policy of the army air forces to discharge all flying officers who have been declared surplus, regardless of discharge points," the telegram said. "In view of the fact that we are no longer in training we feel that we are within the surplus personnel classification and should be afforded the consideration given surplus officers."

The Hondo students pointed out that the navy has a program they consider more acceptable, under which students desiring to withdraw are simply discharged.

"Let me know if you find a soap that takes lipstick off without ruining your hands."

Auto Toll Rises



How automobile accidents and fatalities have risen since end of gasoline rationing.

Lewis Russell, traffic technician, reported to the city council committee on traffic and public safety yesterday that 940 automobile accidents caused 36 deaths in Chicago from Aug. 15, when gasoline rationing was ended, to Sept. 9, compared with 24 deaths in 892 accidents in the comparable period a year ago. He attributed the increase in accidents and fatalities to faster driving.

Capt. David Flynn, head of the police traffic bureau, said the department does not have enough policemen to enforce traffic safety regulations or to protect children at crossings near schools.

"There are more automobiles on the streets now than there were when gas was rationed," Capt. Flynn said. "Many of the cars are not in good condition, and neither are many drivers."

TAVERN ROBBERS GUILTY; SAILOR AND GIRL FREED

Raymond Goralski, 18, of 3935 Nordica av., and John Crosoli, 20, of 2420 N. Harding av., who admitted five holdups, were found guilty of armed robbery by Judge Julius H. Miner in Criminal court yesterday. He continued a hearing on motions for probation.

Vera Rose Benak, 19, of 3632 Pittsburgh av., was acquitted of participating in the robbery of Grant's tavern at Talcott rd. and Touhy av., near Park Ridge, July 15. She said she was sleeping in Goralski's automobile while Goralski and Crosoli robbed the owners, Homer Pauley and Vernon Shouse, and drove them to Norwook Park.

John Petersen, 17, a sailor, charged with assisting Goralski and Crosoli in a tavern robbery at 917 Montrose av., also was acquitted. He said he left the tavern before the robbery.

A HONEYMOON IS INTERRUPTED BY GOB'S STORY

A photograph of Mrs. Betty Kolosky, 20, of 339 S. Clark st., in company with Lloyd Daniels, a sailor at San Diego, Cal., yesterday led to her arrest in the Garrick Lounge, 58 W. Randolph st., by Detective James Cunningham of police headquarters.

Mrs. Betty Kolosky

Daniels had sent the photograph to police with a letter telling them that he had spent a night in a hotel with Mrs. Kolosky Sept. 8 after meeting her at a bar. When he awakened in the morning, he said, the woman and his wallet, containing $230, were both gone. The picture had been taken in the tavern.

Mrs. Kolosky said that she was about to start on a honeymoon with an air forces gunner whom she married in Akron, O., Aug. 21 and who was to be discharged from Fort Sheridan.

ROB BANK OF $40,000

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 12 [AP]—The Imperial bank at Langton, Ont., 25 miles south of Woodstock, was robbed of $40,000 by three masked men today, according to a report to Windsor police.

WIFE IS FOUND DEAD, HUSBAND'S THROAT SLASHED

Collinsville, Ill., Sept. 12 (AP)—Patrolman Howard Roberts of the Illinois state highway police said tonight he found the body of Mrs. Hazel Stanley, 49, in the back yard of her home and her husband, George Stanley, 56, with a slashed throat in the kitchen of their residence late today.

Roberts said he was summoned by Sam Pearson, a neighbor.

Mrs. Mary Duba, the couple's daughter, was quoted by Roberts as saying her parents had been quarreling.

Stanley's condition was described as critical at St. Mary's hospital in East St. Louis. The patrolman said he found a butcher knife beside Stanley and a revolver and rifle in the kitchen.

Three Flee from State School, but Are Caught

Three inmates escaped yesterday from the Illinois State Training School for Boys near St. Charles, but were recaptured by state police near Aurora. Charles W. Reed, assistant managing officer, identified two as Chicagoans: Robert Sayles, 15, committted Feb. 21 for incorrigibility; Vincent Russo, 15, committed Feb. 9 for auto theft. Ralph Fonk, 16, formerly of Kenosha, Wis., committed July 11 for auto larceny, was the third.

ATOM DISPLAY 1ST FAVORITE IN MUSEUM NOW

For the first time since the Chicago Natural History [Field] museum was founded in 1893, the Egyptian mummies have taken a back seat. An unpretentious exhibition case, containing 28 mineral specimens, a map of the world and a chart, with explanatory labels, is the current favorite of visitors, Col. Clifford C. Gregg, director of the museum, reported yesterday. The special exhibit features specimens of the uranium minerals from which U-235, source of the atomic bomb's energy, is obtained; a map of the world showing deposits of uranium ore, and a chart showing average production of one pound of U-235 from 104 tons of ore.

RELIGION STUDY FOE SAYS IDEAL LED TO HER SUIT

Realized She Was Harming Her Oldest Child

of human bodies, or the miracles of the prophets.

Mrs. McCollum testified she had no objection to Terry reading the Bible as long as he read it as stories, but that she opposed teaching it as a creed or dogma. She said Terry had read stories in the Bible at times and this was in accord with her ideas as long as he was not taught to accept the Bible on faith.

Admitting under cross-examination that she "felt deeply" about the separation of church and state, she told John Franklin, attorney for the Champaign board of education, that if the courts decided that the teaching of religious education in the Champaign schools is constitutional then she will have no further objections.

After questioning Mrs. McCollum on her views concerning God, Franklin moved that the verification of her petition and of answers filed in pleading in which she swore before a notary public as to the truth of facts contained in them, be stricken on the grounds she was taking an oath on an authority she denied existed. The court denied the motion.

Defines Rationalism

Mrs. McCollum, responding to Franklin's question, defined her belief as "rationalism" which she said included atheism, stating that "having found no proof there is a God, so far as I am concerned there is none." She added that "I do not deny there may be a God in the minds of other persons."

"Isn't it a fact?" asked Franklin, "that you are concerned over separation of church and state and so little concerned over indoctrination that since this suit was filed you have twice placed your children in schools where you have not ascertained whether they said the Lord's prayer or sang religious hymns." Mrs. McCollum replied: "that is true."

Abe Peterson, attorney retained by the Church Federation of Greater Chicago, produced a coin from his pocket, pointed out it contained the words "In God We Trust" and asked the witness if she had ever discussed this with her children. Mrs. McCollum said she never had.

Boy Is Questioned

When Franklin asked if she did not know that 80 per cent of the students in junior high school and 20 per cent of those in the 4th, 5th, and 6th grades did not take the course, that "nonparticipation discloses nothing of religious belief or lack of belief," she replied: "That may be true."

The question of his understanding of affirmation, rather than an oath, delayed the trial at the outset of this morning's session when Terry was recalled to the witness stand for cross-examination. Judge Frank B. Leonard, who is joined on the bench by Circuit Judges Grover W. Watson and Martin E. Morthland of the 6th judicial district, took charge of the questioning and asked Terry if he understood what would happen to him if he did not tell the truth.

"I'll be thrown in the jug," replied Terry. The court was satisfied and questioning of the boy, focal point in the trial that may involve religious education now carried on in 46 of the 48 states, was resumed.

Terry said he read Bible stories and had said prayers in the demonstration school held last summer at the University of Illinois, but that he couldn't remember the words of the prayers now. He said he believed nothing should be accepted about God or the Bible unless proven. Asked if he wasn't still in doubt about religion Terry replied that he had "about made up my mind about it."

In Some Ways, It's Fun

Franklin questioned him as to the first time he had told playmates he was an atheist and Terry said some of his friends had known of his lack of religious belief when he was in the fourth grade two years ago. "But every one in Champaign knows it now," he added.

"Isn't it fun being an atheist?" asked Franklin.

"Well, in some ways it is and some ways it isn't," replied Terry.

Chapman put on the stand the Rev. Karl Baehr, pastor of the United Congregational church, 1305 N. Hamlin av., Chicago, and the Rev. Erwin A. Gaede, Congregational minister of Argo, Ill., to prove that many churchmen opposed the religious education program but was prevented by objections of opposing lawyers to get his points into the record.

M. H. Adams, Champaign insurance man, was on the stand briefly to relate that his son, Wallace, at the start of the religious education program five years ago, brought home an enrollment card which he refused to sign and that talks with school board members and the superintendent failed to disclose who was back of the plan.

Pastor on Stand

The Rev. Philip Schug, pastor of the Urbana Unitarian church, who said he preferred not to use the term "Christian" as applied to himself, explained the belief of Unitarians in God as some spirit of some kind, a force or thing or agency behind the universe.

He said the McCollum children, who attend his Sunday school, are taught from all religions and all faiths, stories also being told from modern authors where they relate to ethics. Schug said the children are taught there is no theory or doctrine that cannot be challenged.

Questioned as to his relative belief in the stories of Jesus Christ and Santa Claus, he replied that "I see considerable evidence of the existence of a man named Jesus. I find no evidence of a person or character named Santa Claus except in the minds of men."

U.S. AND STATE LAWS INVOLVED IN RELIGION SUIT

Similar Issue Has Been Before High Court

Urbana, Ill., Sept. 12 [Special]—The federal Constitution, the constitution of Illinois, and statutes passed by the Illinois legislature are involved in the legal issues of the mandamus suit brought by Mrs Vashti McCollum against the Champaign board of education and now being tried before three judges in the Champaign county Circuit court.

Attorneys of both sides have included the following in their petition and answer:

The first amendment to the Constitution of the United States:

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

Due Process Clause

Section 1 of the 14th amendment to the federal Constitution:

". . . No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of the citizens of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

Section 3, article 2, of the Illinois constitution:

"The free exercise and enjoyment of religious profession and worship, without discrimination, shall forever be guaranteed; and no person shall be denied any civil or political right, privilege, or capacity on account of his religious opinions. No person shall be required to attend or support any ministry or place of worship against his consent nor shall any preference be given by law to any religious denomination or mode of worship."

School Provisions

Section 3, article 8, of the Illinois constitution:

"Neither the general assembly nor any county, city, town, township school district, or other public corporation shall ever make any appropriation or pay from any public fund whatever, anything in aid of any church or sectarian purpose, or to help support or sustain any school, academy, seminary, college, university, or other literary or scientific institution, controled by any church or sectarian denomination whatever, nor shall any grant or donation of land, money, or other personal property ever be made by the state or any such public corporation to any church or for any sectarian purpose."

Illinois revised statutes, 1943, chapter 122, section 123; the board of school directors' powers:

"Tenth—to have the control and supervision of all public schoolhouses in their district, and to grant the temporary use of them, when not occupied by schools, for religious meetings and Sunday schools, for evening schools and literary societies, and for such other meetings as the directors may deem proper; to grant the use of assembly halls and classrooms when not otherwise needed, including light, heat, and attendants, for public lectures, concerts, and other educational and social interests, under such provisions and control as they may see fit to impose and to conduct, or provide for the conducting of recreational, social, and civic activities in the school buildings under their control."

1910 Decision Cited

Illinois revised statutes, 1939, chapter 122, section 122:

The school board of directors' duties: "Fifth—to adopt and enforce all necessary rules and regulations for the management and government of the public schools in their district."

In addition, citations are expected to include the one decision of the Illinois Supreme court, made in 1910, dealing directly with religious education in the schools in which the court ruled tha the reading of the Bible recital of the Lord's prayer in a rural school of Scott county violated the constitutional rights of Catholic pupils attending the school. The court's opinion was that the reading of the Bible and the prayer were sectarian.

The United States Supreme court has repeatedly refused to consider the question on the ground that it is not a federal but a state issue. Landon Chapman, attorney for Mrs. McCollum, is basing his application of the first amendment on the high court's decision in 1943 in which children who followed the tenets of Jehovah's Witnesses in West Virginia were expelled from school for failure to salute the national flag and give the pledge of allegiance. The Supreme court held the school authorities exceeded their powers as limited under the federal constitution's first amendment and ordered the pupils reinstated in school.

John Franklin, attorney for the Champaign school board, takes the view that the ruling, applied in accordance with Chapman's pleadings in the present case, would prohibit the salute to the flag and the oath of allegiance to all students, regardless of faith.

Emphasizes Voluntary Plan

He contends the religious education program in the Champaign schools is voluntary, in that every student has the written consent of his parents before he or she is enrolled in the course.

Religious education is now being taught in 1,856 communities, located in every state in the union except North Dakota and New Hampshire. In many states statutes directly apply.

$300,000 Alienation Suit Set for Trial on Oct. 29

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday set Oct. 29 for hearing a suit for $300,000 for alienation of affections by Mrs. Olive M. Daily, 45, of Oil City, Pa., against Mrs. Marian L. Parker, 42, of 477 Cedar st. The families formerly were neighbors in Oil City. Mrs. Daily charged that her husband, Wilfred, was induced by Mrs. Parker to come to Chicago with her.

'TRIAL' JAIL TERM BRINGS ALIMONY BACK PAYMENT

George Murdoch, 40, of 2255 W. 111th st., yesterday was sentenced to six months in jail for contempt of court for being $184 in arrears in support payments to his former wife, Dorothy, 36, of Denver, Col., and their daughter, Jean, 6—but he didn't go to jail.

George Murdoch

Mrs. Murdoch's attorney, Sol R. Friedman, told Judge Schnackenberg that Murdoch would pay up "in 10 minutes" if he was sentenced to jail.

Judge Schnackenberg said he would try it, and pronounced sentence. Within 5 minutes Murdoch's second wife, Frances, gave Friedman a check for the full amount.

DRIVER AND $800 MISSING, POLICE TOLD

John R. Cooper, manager of the dock office of the Morton Salt company at 1357 Elston av., yesterday asked police to search for a truck driver who, he said, disappeared with a messenger truck on which he had been working. The truck later was found but $800 and $200 in checks were missing from it, police were told.

COX RESIGNS FEA POST; REPORTED IN FEUD WITH CROWLEY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12 (AP)—Oscar Cox, deputy administrator of the foreign economic administration, has resigned effective Oct. 6 to enter private law practice, FEA Administrator Crowley announced today.

In a letter to Cox, Crowley said he was sure that the "very large part" Cox has had in carrying out the lend-lease program "will not be forgotten by the American people for a long time to come."

There have been reports of long standing that Crowley and Cox did not see eye to eye on some questions of policy.

Crowley said the position of deputy administrator will not be filled. He also announced the resignation of Alfred E. Davidson, FEA general counsel, and the appointment of Walter Thayer as his successor.

STEAL SAFE, $3,100 CASH, BONDS

John Angelopoulos of 4819 N. Rairfield av., reported to police yesterday that a 600 pound safe containing $600 and $2,500 worth of war bonds was stolen from his restaurant at 3202 Broadway. The safe was on rollers.

SAYS SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE:

Despite Victory Used Fat Saving Must Go On!

Every woman in America should know that our country continues to face a serious fat shortage. And victory over Japan won't solve the problem immediately. We must keep on saving used fats in our kitchens!

If you have any thought that saving used fats is one of those wartime chores we can drop, now that Victory is here, please consider these facts and tell them to your neighbors.

America still needs salvaged fats. Not even at the peak of our war effort, when fats were required for mountains of shells and bombs and medicines, in addition to the ever-present need for soap, were our needs for salvaging fat greater than now. Our stocks have been drained by four long years of war, and there isn't enough on hand to meet all requirements.

Don't let "Victory psychology" blind you to this national need! If housewives stop saving fats now, the shortage will become even more critical.

Don't let a single drop of used fats go to waste! Little trimmings of fat left on the platter at the table, scraps left on plates, and even the skimmings of soups and gravies are important. It is the consistent saving of even these small amounts that counts.

Don't turn in fats that can be re-used! But some fats, such as those rendered from lamb and mutton, are not suitable for re-use. Put them immediately in the salvage can. And, with other fats, after you've got all cooking good out of them, there is always a little left. No matter how little it is, save it.

Your butcher will still give you 4¢ and 2 red points for every pound you turn in. Save consistently—save every drop you can—every day—until Uncle Sam says the job is done.

Clinton P. Anderson

WANT A QUART O' BOWMAN CREAM ALL AT ONCE? SAY THE WORD!

YOURS SINCERELY,
Bud Bowman

NO FOOLIN' . . . you can signal your Bowman milkman—or stop at the grocery store where you buy your Bowman Milk . . . and you can say to the man, "I'll have a quart of Bowman Cream!" And you'll get it! Just like that!

YEP, THE LID'S OFF of the amount of cream we can provide our customers. Restrictions have been suspended. You can have all the country-fresh, delicious Bowman Cream you and the family have dreamed about for ever so long! Cream for breakfast cereals . . . for coffee . . . for bowls of fruit or berries . . . for desserts!

GOOD OL' DAYS—that's how it's gonna seem to have bottles of Bowman Cream on the doorstep alongside your quarts of Bowman Milk. And it's gonna be fun to have plenty of cream on the table once again—whether you take half pints at a time, or cut the cost way down by ordering pints or quarts. (Cream this fresh, you know, "keeps" for days.)

JUST LIKE before the war, Bowman Cream comes from the finest farms in the fine dairylands roundabout Chicago, and just like always, it's 10 times tested for richness, purity, and flavor. And . . . starting now . . . the supply's really plentiful!

BOWMAN CREAM ... delicious! IN STORES OR DELIVERED

Be sure to tune in THE BOWMAN MUSICAL MILKWAGON every MONDAY through FRIDAY • 11:30 a. m. • WMAQ

You'll like our new Singing Milkman, ex-Lt. Tommy Port! He's terrific! And so are the Dairymaids, and of course, yours truly, Bud Bowman in person!

THE STATE DEPARTMENT VS. MAC ARTHUR

Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, in command of the American forces occupying southern Korea, did not instantly remove the Japanese administrative hierarchy in his province. Gen. Hodge is Gen. MacArthur's subordinate. Accordingly, the anti-MacArthur clique in Washington has seized upon the incident as an evidence of Gen. MacArthur's administrative incapacity, moral obliquity, and lack of devotion to the principle of liberty for subject peoples. Officials of our state department were at great pains to say that the decision was MacArthur's, not theirs, and to suggest that if their advice had been taken a different state of affairs would exist in Korea.

For our part, we'll give Gen. MacArthur the benefit of the doubt. We find it difficult to believe that the gentlemen of the state department who perfected the arrangement by which the Russians are occupying—and looting—the northern half of Korea are more sensitive to Korean rights than MacArthur is. We doubt if the so-called diplomats know a great deal more about the situation in Korea than MacArthur does and we can't believe they have a truer understanding of the Japanese character than he has. If it seemed expedient to MacArthur to leave Japanese administrators in office in Korea, under his orders, until other arrangements could be made, the probability is that he knew what he was doing and that he chose the lesser among evils. The alternative might have meant interrupted utility services, civil disorder, and hunger in the cities, all of which would have reflected seriously upon the American administration and set it off to a bad start.

The state department's squawk is particularly hypocritical in view of the department's record on Korea. The department has consistently refused to recognize Korean claims to independence. It refused to write into the Cairo declaration regarding the disposition of the Japanese colonies a promise of immediate independence for Korea, and it refused to make a fight for Korean representation at the San Francisco conference. Incidentally, it does no credit to the intelligence of Korean spokesmen in this country to find them joining in the outcry against MacArthur. THE TRIBUNE feels free to make this point because, as the Korean gentlemen well know, this newspaper his given them a great deal of space in its columns for the presentation of their views and is no Johnny-come-lately in indorsing their demand for independence.

The campaign against MacArthur would hardly deserve this much notice if it did not focus attention upon the much larger question of how our defeated enemies are to be treated. Two contrary policies are now in operation, one of them in Europe, the other in Asia.

In Europe where European notions of the appropriate behavior of the victor to the vanquished are dominant, the main idea is to prolong the era of hate and ill will. Military prisoners are not released but are parceled out as slave laborers. Private property is looted under official auspices in violation of the Hague convention. Populations are uprooted. The iron hand of the conqueror is everywhere present. No opportunity is lost to harass and humiliate the conquered people and thus sow the seed of a war of revenge.

Gen. MacArthur has been trying to follow a different course. The tradition that guides him is the tradition of Appomattox. His precepts he finds in Lincoln's "with malice toward none, with charity for all." A peace so made can endure. There is no danger that MacArthur, with his experiences in mind, will forget or forgive lightly the crimes committed by the Japanese, but he is not so foolish as to think that an oppressive American regime can bring the Japanese people to the ways of peace and freedom.

The state department has proved by its own acts that it doesn't give a hoot for Korean independence. The uproar over Korea is probably to be explained by the desire of our embattled burocrats to apply to the Japanese the same stupid, war breeding measures that have already been applied in Europe. MacArthur in his speech at the surrender ceremony in Tokyo bay and in his subsequent acts has indicated that he means to follow a different course. That's why the state department is feuding with the general. Among other things, they don't want him to show up some of our noble allies for the grasping, short sighted plunderers they are.

SOVIET BOOK OF THE MONTH CLUB

There has been a notable absence of critical attention in some segments of the press to an important book by Alexander Barmine called "One Who Survived." Edgar Snow's "frankly well disposed book," "The Pattern of Soviet Power," is given the entire front page of the book supplement of one newspaper, which provided the characterization, but Barmine hasn't even rated a paragraph.

Barmine, of course, is not a comfort to the fellow travelers. He doesn't write sugar coated appreciations of Stalin's essential sweetness of character. If works of the nature of "One Who Survived" are given the chill treatment by the pinks in this country it can readily be imagined that they receive an even less cordial reception in the soviet union. The commissar of the book trust isn't a dummy who is going to lose his job and his head by offending his boss in the Kremlin by disseminating literature which conveys the suggestion that everybody in Russia isn't as happy as czars. If there are to be any translations from the English, Dickens' "David Copperfield" is about the desired speed. We seem to recall it has had an enormous circulation in Russia, along with some of Theodore Dreiser's longer offerings.

The vacuum thus created in denying the Russian people access to foreign books in which they would be interested provides an opportunity for some sympathetic organization to engage in a praiseworthy publishing venture. Books of particular interest would be translated into Russian, published in a handy format for being smuggled across the border, and placed in the hands of print-starved soviet citizens who have tired of Little Dora and Sister Carrie.

We suggest that an organization using, perhaps, some such title as the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, be established for this purpose. It would be operated not for profit, but would depend upon contributions. Whenever funds were required, the board of directors could borrow a well tested communist procedure. They could hold a mass meeting in Madison Square Garden or the Chicago Stadium, under huge portraits of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, and with the American flag decorating the rostrum. After a rousing review from some literary critic, the hat would be passed.

Stalinists may contend that the plan that has been outlined would be contrary to good international behavior. To this criticism, however, the reply may be made that in the years preceding the revolution of 1917 Bolshevik propagandists, holed up in a dozen foreign countries, flooded Russia with incendiary pamphlets, altho these were clearly inimical to the interests of the existing lawful government. Indeed, these pamphleteers—Lenin and Trotsky among them—have been honored ever since as revolutionary heroes.

Trotsky, it is true, has since been dropped from the list of heroes, and Comrade Stalin has been put to some trouble editing his collected works so he won't find himself praising people he later executed as enemies of the state. Yet the pre-revolutionary writers from exile and the praise consistently lavished upon them provide sanction for the educational campaign suggested. Let the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, then, be up and doing, providing Tovarich something to occupy him when he dons his dime store specs.

WE STILL HAVE AN ARMY OF 8,000,000

The war department has reported that in the year since Sept. 1, 1944, the strength of the army has been reduced by only 50,000 men. There were 8,103,000 in army uniforms a year ago and as recently as the first of this month there were still 8,050,000 in the service.

This is a record so appalling that it could not be believed if the responsible department had not itself put out the figures. It is four months since the war ended in Europe and a month since the Japanese quit. Meanwhile it has become abundantly clear both in Europe and in Asia that the will of our former enemies to fight has been utterly broken. For years to come it cannot be restored effectively, even if they possessed the means to resist.

For the present, at least, the task of disarming our foes and keeping them disarmed can be accomplished the world over with a dozen or so divisions. So far as Europe is concerned, Russia, Britain, and France have ten times the strength that may be required to overawe the Germans. As for Asia, Gen. MacArthur already has canceled the arrangements for sending some additional troops across the Pacific and is planning to reduce the forces he now has available.

Nevertheless, hundreds of thousands of men have been inducted into the army and training programs are proceeding as if the war were still being fought in full fury and the army's strength was being depleted by heavy casualties.

There is no explaining this outrage except as the product of incompetence and selfishness. Either the army command hasn't the capacity to demobilize promptly, which we find it difficult to believe, or the military burocrats don't want to do so. It often has been pointed out that the more rapidly the army is reduced from its war time strength the more rapidly the members of its burocracy will find themselves out of jobs and the more rapidly its higher officers will be reduced in number, rank, and influence. It would be hard to imagine a worse reason than this one for keeping millions of men in the army, but what other reason is there?

CHICAGO, THE AIR CENTER

Visualize, a few years hence—a very few years, we hope—the concourse of Chicago's modern airport. Outside big air liners are departing and arriving on hourly and half-hourly schedules for Los Angeles, New York, Boston, San Francisco, Miami, Houston, New Orleans, Minneapolis. But there are longer flights, giant overseas planes loading passengers. Listen to the loud speaker system. [A noncacophonous loud speaker by then, we hope.]

"Flight 23 now ready. Chicago to Montreal, Goose Bay, Iceland, Edinburgh, Copenhagen, Danzig, Leningrad and Moscow."

Chicago to Minneapolis, to Edmonton, to White Horse, to Fairbanks, to pacified Tokyo, to Manila, Shanghai, Canton, Singapore, Calcutta.

Chicago to New Orleans, to Panama, to the west coast of South America.

Chicago to Charleston, to Puerto Rico, to Trinidad, to Rio, and Buenos Aires. Connections in Brazil for Aocra, Cairo, Basra, Karachi, New Delhi.

Chicago to Washington, to Bermuda, to the Azores, Lisbon, Rome, Istanbul.

These are perfectly feasible, probable routes of international travel. We have, or will have, the traffic volume to sustain them. We have a position which makes Chicago as suitable a center of future international air traffic as it is of existing continental railroad traffic.

We have everything but the airport. None of this can come to pass if Chicago remains asleep on the airport problem. The Douglas airport is available, if we have the go-getters to get it at once.

A NAME IN BRONZE

"There is a Japanese name on the roll call of fame that forms the Art institute's frieze of lettering," remarked Percy Whiteing, the Tokyo hand on the cable news desk. "I happened to see it from the window of an Illinois Central train. Kanaoka."

"It sounds Hawaiian," we answered, "and we have been looking at that building almost daily for more than 50 years without becoming aware of this old master."

After confirming Mr. Whiteing's observation, we asked three veterans of Michigan av. culture if they were aware of Kanaoka's presence among the all-time stars of painting, sculpture, and architecture. They were not. Furthermore, they had never heard of him. They were then invited to inspect the southeast end of the frieze.

Charles Fabens Kelly, curator of oriental art at the museum, was not on hand to enlighten us about Kanaoka and his masterpieces. But see "Thesaurus of the Arts," by Albert E. Wier, 1943, where we found the answer.

"Kanaoka, Kose [850-931], Japanese poet and painter, considered the greatest of the artists who broke away from Chinese traditions and established a national school of painting. He was engaged in the decoration of the walls of the royal palaces, and was famed for his portrayal of landscapes and animals."

* * *

His name on the frieze may be taken as a symbol of the Art institute's eminence in the field of oriental art. Its collection of Japanese prints, says Mr. Kelly, is the second best in the world, and its competition with Boston in this field is almost a photofinish. Chicago is rich in Hokusais, Hiroshiges, Utamaros, etc. . . . But what of the paintings of Kanaoka? Sorry; they no longer exist.

FOR A RAINY DAY

A word, a fragrance, or a haunting tune—
These memories will comfort and sustain
Me down the years whose heart is not immune
To rhythms like the crickets in the rain;
To perfume of wistaria that climbed
The campus walls; to moonlight silvering
The flagstones; to the tower bells that chimed
"Lights out" too early every night that spring—
The spring I wore your frat pin on my breast,
My heart upon my sleeve and in my eyes.
I hoarded avidly these treasures lest
Some distant day I might not recognize
Across the breakfast table your gray ghost

Mystery of the Steamboat Whistle

Peg Rawlings, retired river pilot, was engineer of the Hometown flour mill. I was a lad of some seven or eight autumns when Peg grounded himself. Night air on the river, he explained, was bad for rheumatiz . . . and no good for a wooden leg, nuther.

Peg's decision must have come hard. He had chaperoned steamers up and down the river for 50-odd years. Fortunately the mill was on the bank where he could retain contact with familiar traffic as it flowed past the engine-room door.

The day Peg took over his new duties a new whistle was installed on the mill. It was a steamboat whistle. Where it came from was a mystery. Town talk placed it aboard the Morning Gazelle when it went down during a storm off Barn Harbor Hills. Peg wasn't talking. But the whistle made up for his reticence.

When Peg leaned a heavy elbow on the whistle cord, things happened in the village. Villagers covered their outraged eardrums, horses broke loose from hitching rails, children ran screaming to mothers, trees shook as in a high wind, and pictures fell from walls of farmhouses in the next county.

Petitions were circulated, to no avail. The mill was an important source of revenue to the village. The owner was deaf. There was no clock on the town hall, and few villagers owned watches. Peg, a tough river character, brooked no interference.

The eerie wail of the Morning Gazelle continued to regulate the habits of Hometown until the day Peg died. Then, about midnight, a short blast shook everybody from their beds. The next morning the whistle was missing. The townsfolk uncovered their ears, went about their business, and asked no questions. God rest Pilot Peg.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0800, gives personal interviews.]

M. H. asks: "What are the dates for mailing Christmas packages to men overseas, and what are the rules about size and weight? Is a request for the package required?"

Christmas packages for men overseas must be mailed between Sept. 15 and Oct. 15. The packages may not weigh more than five pounds, be more than 15 inches long and more than 36 inches in length and girth combined. No request from army personnel is needed for mailing during this period. No request ever is necessary for mailing packages to navy personnel. Packages may be sealed if a printed list of the contents is placed on the address side in the upper left corner. Not more than one parcel may be mailed in one week by one sender to the same addressee. The post office department warns that containers of not less than 200 pounds test should be packed solidly and tied securely and that addresses should either be typewritten or in ink. Matches, lighter fluid, intoxicants, perishables, and poisons are nonmailable. The war and navy departments urge that food and clothing not be sent.

Mrs. C. McQ. writes: "My daughter is expecting to be confined in December. Her husband is in the Philippines. How does she go about applying for hospitalization?"

If your daughter's husband is an enlisted man and his rank is not above that of sergeant in the army or a third class rating in the navy she is entitled to emergency maternity and infant care. File an application with your state department of health thru your physician.

NORMAL VARIATIONS IN BLOOD PRESSURE

THE practice of taking the blood pressure is now a routine part of any physical examination. But until the end of the last century, only rough estimates were possible. It was only after the discovery of the comfortable, wide, air-filled cuff, attached to a tube of mercury or a spring device, that the method became practical and widely used.

The old rule-of-thumb plan that the level should be equivalent to 100 plus the age has been discarded. Altho slightly higher readings may be obtained in the middle aged, there is no steady increase year after year among normal persons. With the aging process, which some consider an abnormality in itself, the tension may go up. After the age of 50, therefore, this condition may be given the same concern as wrinkles, gray hair, and hardened arteries.

Two figures are recorded: The systolic and the diastolic. The former denotes the pressure in the arteries; the latter, in the circulatory system during the resting period of the heart.

Ordinarily, the systolic reading ranges between 90 and 150, being slightly higher in the male. In children, it is lower, beginning at about 60 in earliest infancy and mounting slowly to the adult level soon after adolescence. In boys 16 to 18 we frequently encounter a climb, probably because of their greater sensitiveness as well as to the excitement occasioned by the medical examination.

As a matter of fact, the pressure varies from hour to hour. It even changes somewhat with breathing. Using Mr. X as an example, a reading of 110 may be observed in the early morning before arising; should it be recorded in the midst of a busy day it may well be 140. After strenuous exercise a height of 200 is even possible. The lowest levels are noted after a sound and restful sleep, undisturbed by dreams.

Emotions—pleasure, anger, fright, excitement, or nervousness—tend to affect the figure. The wise physician, on seeing a new patient, is fully aware of this factor and, in the presence of a high reading, will ask the individual to relax for a few minutes or return for another visit when apprehension will be lessened. Many members of the armed forces developed a temporary elevation on this basis alone and the condition should not be judged abnormal unless associated with other findings.

The relationship of food is of interest. Shortly after eating, especially the evening meal, there is a rise. During menstruation the rate is also slightly higher. In pregnancy it is lower except perhaps in the final month. Decreased readings are noted during warm temperatures when perspiration is free and the tissues are relaxed. Cold has a tendency to make us tense.

From this it is evident that there are many factors which influence the blood pressure. When minor differences are found, they should be looked upon as normal variations and not indications of disease.

YELLOWISH PLAQUES

W. R. writes: What is xanthoma?

REPLY

A yellowish, flat or slightly raised blemish on the skin, particularly about the eyelids. Some disturbance in fat metabolism is thought to be responsible. Removal is indicated for cosmetic reasons only.

KRAUT JUICE

Mrs. L. writes: My husband, who is thin, nervous, and constipated, drinks a glass of sauerkraut juice every morning. Is this a harmful practice?

REPLY

No, but he will need more than this if he expects to gain weight.

SKIN GROWTH

G. B. writes: I have a small growth on my face, and when I pick it bleeding follows. What would you suggest?

REPLY

If bleeding can be provoked easily, I would advise that you seek medical aid.

DENTAL CARE

Mrs. L. T. writes: When would be the best time for a pregnant woman to visit the dentist?

REPLY

In the early months. Cavities occur whether the woman is pregnant or not. Regular dental care is advised for all.

HEADPIECE

E. B. writes: Is it true that those with large heads have more brains?

REPLY

No. Quality and not quantity is what counts.

Art Is What You Make It

The most fascinating art swindle of modern times is that perpetrated by the Dutch nazi artist, Hans van Meegeren, who is working very hard these days to convince the Dutch that he is the best art forger of history. He is doing all this in jail where, under arrest as a collaborationist, he refuses to languish and daily plies oil to canvas in an attempt to prove he has hoodwinked all the art experts of the world since 1937.

It is one of the strangest tales since Fritz Kreisler confessed he had palmed off numerous musical compositions of his own as the works of such old masters as Boccherini, Vivaldi, Pugnani, Martini, and Couperin. Kreisler said he found the manuscripts when wandering around Europe. When, years later, some one let the cat out of the bag, a great hullabalioo arose among the musicians who had been duped. No one really minded, however. The music was good, and Kreisler was thought pretty smart to have done it with such ease. Every one readily accepted the truth when he told it.

Van Meegeren's case is just the opposite. He has confessed to passing off as originals seven "masterpieces" [his word] by Vermeer and two by Pieter de Hooch. Some of these, valued at $3,024,000, were regarded as Holland's most prized art possessions. Now that he has confessed, the hoodwinked ones are reluctant to believe him. A Vermeer, even when a Van Meegeren, is a Vermeer. "Show us," they say. That is why he is working with oil and canvas. He has to paint another Vermeer to prove himself a crook. The whole thing is very confused.

Van Meegeren's ingress into the Vermeer technique began in 1937 when he "discovered" in Paris what he claimed was an original Vermeer, "Christ and the Disciples at Emmaus." Art critics thruout the world whooped with joy. The Boymans museum in Rotterdam snapped it up. Gradually, neatly, he "discovered" more. He sold one, "The Washing of the Feet," for $567,000.

This was not peanuts, but then the picture was a Vermeer and presumably priceless. All the pictures were Vermeers. But neither was van Meegeren a peanut man. He already had derived much wealth from reproductions of his own works. One out of every 500 homes in Holland contained one of the latter. He also specialized in flattering portraits of ladies, none of which was done for a song. From all of this he derived such wealth that he bought an old mansion along one of the canals in Amsterdam. He restored it at great cost and proceeded to hold bicycle races in its great marble hall.

Now that he has confessed his crime, or his great artistry, many of the duped Dutch are certain he made the whole thing up. They say he is just an embittered man who never received the place in art circles he considered his due and fabricated this so he could achieve his life's ambition and become the center of attention. If that is all he wanted, he has succeeded.

STILL BUILDING AIRDROMES FOR EUROPE

Germany, Aug. 25—Several thousand men in the 9th engineer command hope that the power of a free press will bring justice to a group of deserving service men. Our record is one of long, arduous service, accomplishment, and self-sacrifice. We have been overseas more than three years. We landed in Normandy shortly after D-day and built airdromes under fire in the early days of the invasion. We built airdromes in France, Belgium, and Germany. We are now constructing our 58th airdrome.

All of the original members of the battalions concerned have 85 or more points. We still have men with point scores above 100, and plenty of men with scores of 90 or above. We are not essential to this theater. There are plenty of low-point battalions and German prisoners to do the work in which we are now engaged. To our knowledge, not a single battalion in the 9th engineer command has been alerted for shipment home.

Many of us are married and have children we have never seen. We are anxious to return to the United States, and to civilian life. We believe that we merit the earliest possible return to the United States.

HAMSTRINGING THE LITTLE FELLOWS

Chicago, Sept. 7—It is not generally realized, but under OPA price setups, wholesalers and sales agents not working on straight salary may only receive remuneration as a deduction from present ceiling prices by the client. With minor exceptions, whose existence in themselves contradicts the OPA's logic, nothing can be added to ceiling prices to reimburse small mills and producers who desire the services of experienced intermediaries, having a customer clientele, often built on years of trading within such triangle. Large producers may employ salesmen on salary and can afford it; but the handling of many commodities is more efficient and cheaper for the public when the sales expense is reduced by commissions on unit sales basis. The end result is to choke the old distribution system and with it marginal and small producers dependent on it in competitive markets. Mr. Bowles indicates no one needs salesmen or advertising—but he isn't thinking of either small producers or small customer trade placed at disadvantage.

THE ISOLATIONISTS STARTED THE WAR

Chicago, Sept. 7—I don't buy your vile paper, but your article of Monday accusing the late President Roosevelt of causing the war was handed to me to read. Your accusation shows your ignorance of the facts, or else you just can't even let Mr. Roosevelt rest in peace because you didn't give vent to enough venom before he passed away.

If some of our isolationists had not opposed Mr. Roosevelt in some of the things he wanted to accomplish, we would not have had any war with Japan.

I have never yet seen any of our service men in any branch reading your filthy publication [I can't call it a newspaper]. That is condemnation in itself.

DOROTHY A. HOHENFELS

CUSTODY OF THE ATOMIC BOMB

Chicago, Sept. 10—As one of the University of Chicago faculty signers of the petition to the President relative to the atomic bomb, reported in this morning's paper, I would like to suggest that this petition was a somewhat more modest proposal than the reader might realize, especially if he read only the headline.

After stating that an attempt to keep a scientific secret of this magnitude would probably be vain, and that greater security might be attained if an arrangement could be made for sharing it with the united nations, the petition ended not with a recommendation of such sharing but with a question as to whether there should not be an investigation into the practicability of that course. That is certainly as far as I would want to go in any pronouncement on the custody and use of atomic power.

The closing sentence of the petition is this: "Ought not the government take steps, including suitable financial steps, to see that this question is adequately and formally investigated and discussed, nationally and internationally, with a view to finding, if possible, a more hopeful and statesmanlike solution than that of mere persistence in secrecy and the effort to maintain our technical lead?"

WINFRED E. GARRISON

HISTORY'S VERDICT

Chicago, Sept. 10—The letter captioned "Greatest President," signed by Helyn Connelly of Chicago, today is indeed a surprising screed. The writer states that President Roosevelt is assured a place in history as the greatest of all Presidents, leaving far behind in a cloud of dust the heretofore great Presidents, Washington and Lincoln. Did any other President ever send word to congress to "pass it anyway, even if it appears unconstitutional"? No, the writer of that article is all wet. Roosevelt will go down in history as the worst President the country ever had, for reasons too numerous to mention.

1. Yes, in the sense that in some cases no court proceedings are necessary. No, in the sense that creditors are allowed 9 months in which to file their claims and ordinarily probate proceedings are not completed until a year has elapsed.
2. He would share in her estate unless she has provided otherwise by will.

INSISTS SAILOR, 11 MOS. AWAY, IS BABY'S FATHER

Mother Denies Infidelity in Divorce Answer

Mrs. Josephine Sowa, 26, of La Porte, Ind., yesterday filed an answer in Superior court to a divorce bill filed by her husband, Joseph, 31, a chief metalsmith in the navy, asserting that a son she bore March 15 had undergone an 11 months and 18 day gestation period.

The answer denied charges made by her husband that he was not the father of the child and denied also allegations that she had been intimate with a soldier, Floyd Doe, who, her husband charged, is the baby's father.

The case recalled a similar one last October, when Judge William J. Lindsay in Superior court ruled against Jack Santucci of the merchant marine, who charged his wife with adultery after she gave birth to a child 11 months after he went to sea.

Clippings Stir Suspicions

Sowa's bill, filed by Atty. Samuel A. Rinella, stated that he went overseas March 31, 1944, 11 months and 18 days prior to the birth of the baby.

In July, 1944, the bill stated, his wife wrote him that she was pregnant. His suspicions were aroused, he said, when she enclosed clippings telling of the Santucci case.

Sowa was in England, his bill set forth, and he conducted an exhaustive research in medical libraries there to acquaint himself with the best medical evidence concerning overlong pregnancies. He said his findings convinced him he was not the father.

Wife's Contention Supported

In the Santucci case, in which Santucci sought a divorce from his wife, Evelyn, 18, both sides introduced medical testimony, and the court received testimony from numerous women telling of their experiences with long gestation periods. One woman said she had given birth to a child after 16 months.

Rinella yesterday filed a motion to strike Mrs. Sowa's answer on the ground that it did not constitute a valid defense, because there is no competent medical history to support the claim of long gestation. He said that in the few such cases recorded the expectant mothers remained under surveillance until birth of the child.

Postal Jobs Given 600 Veterans, Kruetgen Says

Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen announced yesterday that approximately 600 veterans have been employed in the postoffice since V-E day. The veterans apply for jobs as carriers, clerks, and mail handlers at a rate of 100 daily and from 80 to 85 are hired, he said. The veterans are filling vacancies at present, but some 2,000 other civilian employes will be needed as extra help for the Christmas rush, Kruetgen said.

ICKES ENDS CURB ON DELIVERY OF COAL TO HOMES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12 (AP)—Restrictions on delivery of coal to household consumers were lifted today by Interior Secretary Ickes.

Revocation of government control over deliveries of coal by retail dealers removes the necessity to limit domestic consumers to 80 per cent of normal requirements for anthracite and scarce eastern bituminous coal.

Ickes, who took the action as solid fuels administrator, said the supply of oil for home heating is now sufficient to meet consumers' needs in general.

Controls over shipments from producers and wholesalers to retail dealers will be retained, Ickes said, to assure each community an equitable share of available coal, coke and other solid fuels.

Shortages of the most desirable kinds and sizes of coal will be relieved by increased supplies of other fuel, Ickes' announcement said.

The 80 per cent limitation on deliveries to home consumers of fuel produced east of the Mississippi river were put into effect April 1, start of the present fuel year, when mine man power was lower than at any other time during the war and production was not keeping pace with fuel requirements.

BUSES TO OUST TROLLEY CARS ON FIVE LINES

The Chicago Surface Lines announced yesterday a program to replace street cars with buses on five present routes, four on the far south side and one on the north side. Oct. 1 is the prospective date of change over on some routes.

The Illinois commerce commission has approved use of buses to replace the 115th and 111th st. car lines. The company proposes to install one bus line to serve the 119th st. line and an extension along Vincennes av. The ICC must approve this plan and street repairs must be made in 119th st. west of Ashland av. before bus operation will be feasible.

Montrose av. is the north side line to be changed over—from Broadway to Milwaukee av. The company plans to use trolley buses, but these are not available for Montrose av. and motor buses will be used for the present. The ICC must approve this line. Surface lines officials said the program would shorten running times.

100 TO MAP LAST PLANS FOR PAPER DRIVE SATURDAY

Final preparations for the city-wide curb pickup of waste paper Saturday will be made by 100 executives and salesmen of the fiber box industry at a luncheon tomorrow in the Morrison hotel.

Five thousand Boy Scouts have been assigned to the offices of ward superintendents of streets, and the fiber box industry executives will assign the Scouts to trucks for the curb collection, which will begin at 8 a. m. Seven hundred trucks will be used to pick up the paper.

Lloyd M. Johnson, commissioner of streets, said 50 army trucks would be used for emergency calls if the paper is piled at the curbs in great quantities. The army trucks also will pick up paper missed by the first collection trucks.

The Modern Water-mixed Washable Paint

A Gallon Does the Average Room
YOUR CHOICE! 12 lovely colors! Cream, Buff, Mist Gray, Powder Blue, Ivory, Peach, Sunlight Yellow, Sea Green, Rose, Beige, Turquoise, Sage Green, and White.

One Coat Covers

Fully Washable

Here, again, Ultra Luminall gives a plus value. You may wash entire walls, or merely wash off dirt spots; finger prints; the pencilings of small children; the grime and smoke that collects around heating outlets and above radiators. Washing does not blemish Ultra.

Apply with Brush or Roller

While any width brush may be used to apply Ultra Luminall, the wider brushes take full advantage of its speed possibilities. May also be applied with a standard paint roller sold by your dealer. It is easy to paint with Ultra Luminall—try it soon.

Luminall is the equal of Ultra Luminall and similar in every respect, differing only in that its casein base gives extra light-reflection instead of extra washability. Use Luminall in living, dining, bed rooms, etc., also basements and attics.

CAMERAGRAPH

Studies Show Ease of Applying Ultra Luminall

In the charts at right a lighted electric light bulb was attached to the painter's wrist which traced all brush movements (white lines) before an open camera in a darkened room. Less white lines show less labor. Ultra Luminall is much easier to apply.

POLICE SLAYER'S BULLETS CLEAR DETROIT ROBBER

Pal Now Center of Hunt; Houston Holds Suspect

Suspicion of Douglas M. Anderson, 32, a gunman held by police of Detroit, Mich., as slayer of Detectives Charles Brady and George Hellstern of Chicago, collapsed last night when ballistic tests proved that the fatal bullets were not fired from Anderson's gun.

Detroit police still pushed a search for an associate of Anderson in several Detroit holdups who was said to answer the description of the man who shot and killed Brady and Hellstern at Clark st. and Lunt av. the night of Sept. 2. Anderson's associate was said to have the mottled face mentioned by Detective Brady as a characteristic of the slayer.

Texas Sends Test Bullets

Two test bullets fired from the .38 caliber revolver of a paroled convict arrested in Houston, Tex., after a gun battle with police there, were on the way to Chicago for ballistics tests. The parolee is Clement Reagan, 29, who escaped jail Aug. 13 in Hiawatha, Kas., where he was being held for cattle theft. He first told police he was in Chicago on Sept. 2, but denied it when questioned about the slaying of the two detectives.

Reagan is 6 feet 1 inch tall, weighs 170 pounds, has dark brown hair, brown eyes, and a ruddy complexion. Detective Brady before his death told police the man who shot him wore a black rubber glove on the left hand. No gloves were found in Reagan's possession.

Barman Held; Brother Sought

Held here for questioning was Frank Laino, 37, of 4649 Lexington st., a bartender, identified by John Suggs, 36, Negro, 1254 S. Ashland av., as one of two men who hired him on W. Madison st. Monday to haul some whisky, and later ejected him from their car near Des Plaines and shot him three times. The other man has been identified by pictures shown to Suggs as Laino's brother, Louis [Tiny] Laino, who is sought.

Chicago police also were questioning Alvin Lee Ferris, alias John Hopp, 30, of Indianapolis, arrested in a Morse av. garage on an anonymous tip. A .22 caliber target pistol was found in his car.

CITY INSPECTOR PREDICTS SMOKE WILL BE DENSER

Frank A. Chambers, deputy city smoke inspector in charge of smoke abatement, said yesterday that the use this winter of inferior grades of fuel in Chicago is expected to increase the density of the smoke pall over residential and apartment house districts.

A federal directive, he said, has been holding purchasers to 80 per cent of the comparatively smokeless coal from eastern fields that they customarily use. This restriction, however, has been removed with the prospect that more eastern fuel will be used later in the season.

Despite the use of inferior coals, Chambers said, the city intends to enforce its ordinance prohibiting the emission of dense smoke except when a new fire is being built or a furnace cleaned.

The city also is conducting an experiment atop a loop building to determine what hours of the day or night are the smokiest. The experiment involves three containers, two of which are uncovered at different times, and one which is open 24 hours a day.

Girl Explorer, 13, Found Far Away After 6 Days

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Barnum, 4709 N. Campbell av., received word yesterday that their daughter, Phyllis, 13, who disappeared from home Sept. 6, has been found at Kansas City, Mo. Arrangements were being made for her return. When the Barnums reported her disappearance, they said she made annual "explorations" of Chicago.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Sept. 13—Burgoyne Crosses the Hudson

IN the late summer of 1777 Gen. Burgoyne was confronted with a difficult decision.

He had brought a great army down from Canada intending to make a junction at Albany with Gen. Howe, coming up from the south, and Col. St. Leger, marching in from the west. St. Leger, however, had been defeated and was in retreat and Howe was still off on his expedition to Philadelphia.

Should Burgoyne, who, with great difficulty had reached the upper Hudson, play safe by remaining on the eastern side of the river where he had some strong points and could defend himself and his supply line, or should he boldly cross the stream and march on Albany as his instructions from London required?

The obedient soldier in him won. He would push on toward Albany and hope that help would be forthcoming before the dangers and difficulties, which already had reduced his army from about 8,000 to about 6,000 men, should completely overwhelm him. He crossed the Hudson on Sept. 13 and made camp near Saratoga.

His position was soon almost hopeless. East of the Hudson were American forces which constantly endangered his supply lines. West of the river, and between Burgoyne and Albany, were large American armies set to dispute his passage.

Then followed the bloody battles of Freeman's Farm and Bemis Heights in which the British force, already greatly inferior in morale and numbers to the American, was still further reduced. Burgoyne finally surrendered at Saratoga, N. Y., Oct. 17. The grandiose British plan to split the colonies and finish the war ended in complete failure.

SLAYER OF TWO HELD BY JURORS ON CONFESSION

Recommendation that Joseph Pintorian, 29, of 1403 W. 47th st., be held to the grand jury on a charge of murder for the fatal shooting Sunday of Joseph Piech, 55, of 6007 S. Ashland av., and Martin Conroy, 58, of 1021 W. 51st st., was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury.

Pintorian signed a confession Monday that he shot the two ex-convicts in Conroy's flat after a scuffle for a revolver. He said Piech, brother of Eddie Piech, south side gambling character, had threatened him.

Pintorian gave his name and address to Coroner Brodie yesterday, but refused to testify further.

Huge modern research plant now being built by Standard Oil

. . . to house about 1200 Standard Oil research workers, including many of the 179 still with the armed forces.

Already under construction at Hammond, Indiana, adjoining the company's large Whiting Refinery, this great petroleum research plant will provide the most advanced research equipment and facilities. This immense investment in physical properties will amply provide for progressive expansion of Standard Oil's great research activities.

Through research, and through greatly expanded plants and equipment, Standard Oil has been able to take a large part in supplying materials for war, including enormous quantities of aviation gasoline, toluene for TNT, fuels and lubricants for ships, for trucks and jeeps . . . and many others.

The new research plant and its able staff will continue to keep this company in the forefront of vital petroleum research. War activities have revealed hitherto undreamed-of possibilities that lie in petroleum—new products that can be made from it for the service of mankind.

To develop these possibilities fully will require all the human skill and technical equipment that can be assembled. That's why we are building this most modern research laboratory.

Thru the Looking Glass

If you're undertaking your own program of hair reconditioning this fall—and if you've been outdoors much it's certain that your locks can do with some counter-action of the sun and wind—we'd like to remind you of one little product you can find easily and inexpensively.

This is an oil you can use at home for one of the best of hair beautifiers, the hot oil treatment the night before you have a shampoo. It's a beautiful hair lubricant, tho it isn't a smelly mess as such things often are. This is a thin, transparent oil, with the merest suggestion of a lemony fragrance.

First step in your hair treatment should be a rousing brushing, one that leaves the scalp tingling. Then separate the hair into rather small sections and apply the oil—which should have been heated—directly to the scalp, using a pad of cotton or a small brush. Cover the whole scalp area with the oiled pad—you'll find that about two tablespoons of the oil are enough for this—and apply some to the ends of the hair, especially those that are sunburned or splitting.

Then massage the scalp thoroly, placing the fingers on the bony structure above your ears and temples and working them rapidly in a rotary motion. If your scalp is tight this may not be pleasant, but the more you massage the looser your scalp will become, and the more your hair will benefit!

Leave the oil on at least an hour. Better yet, leave it on overnight if possible. Every minute of oil soaking will be good for it. You'll see, after your shampoo, that your hair is softer and more lustrous than it otherwise would have been.

News Is Given of Weddings in Recent Weeks

Of interest to Chicagoans is news of the marriage of Miss Leontine de Sabla Lyle, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Gordon Lyle of New York and Marion, Mass., to Capt. Norman Harrower Jr. of the marine corps reserve air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrower of Fitchburg, Mass., and grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Greeley of Chicago. The Very Rev. Charles L. Taylor, dean of Harvard Theological seminary, performed the ceremony Sept. 1 in St. Gabriel's Episcopal church in Marion, assisted by the rector of the church, the Rev. Dr. Joseph Emerick. Mrs. William Gordon Lyle Jr. [Helen Niblack] was matron of honor for her sister-in-law, and Lt. Lyle was among the ushers. Lt. Harrower and his bride will live in Corpus Christi, Tex., where he is an instructor at the marine air base.

Announcement is made of the marriage Aug. 24 of Miss Virginia A. Wollenhaupt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Wollenhaupt of S. Wabash av., to Ensign Paul A. Tegel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Tegel of Wilson av. The ceremony took place in the naval air station chapel at Pensacola, Fla.

From Phoenix, Ariz., comes the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred N. Letarte of the marriage Aug. 18 of their daughter, Helen Louise, to Lt. Earl F. Gieseke of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Gieseke of Arlington Heights. The ceremony took place in Long Beach, Cal., where Lt. Gieseke and his bride are at home. Lt. and Mrs. Gieseke are graduates of the University of Arizona. He has been on duty in the Pacific.

Mr. and Mrs. B. White McMahoh of Indiana av. announce the marriage Aug. 4 of their daughter, Eileen, to Aviation Cadet Clifford L. de Shetler Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. de Shetler of Toledo, O. The ceremony took place in the San Angelo army air field chapel at San Angelo, Tex., where the bridegroom is stationed. The bride attended De Paul and Northwestern universities. Cadet de Shetler attended the University of Toledo.

Pan-American Meeting

The Pan-American council will celebrate the anniversary of Mexican Independence day with a program at 8 o'clock tonight in the Woodrow Wilson auditorium.

Versatile Pattern

The trim, side closing brunch coat with cap sleeves is easy to make using Style No. 2979 which is designed for sizes 10 to 40. The same practical pattern may be used to make a full length housecoat with scalloped collar and sleeves. Size 16 brunch coat requires 4 yards of 35 inch material. The housecoat in the same size requires 4¾ yards of 39 inch material.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing. The fall and winter fashion book, on sale at Tribune Public Service offices, is 15 cents; 18 cents if ordered by mail with a pattern.

Red Cross Chapter Seeking Yule Gifts for Yanks Overseas

Gift contributions for service men who cannot be with their families Christmas are being collected by the camp and hospital committee of Chicago chapter of the Red Cross. The Chicago committee has been requested to supply 6,000 gift packages for soldiers who will spend Christmas on the high seas, and since these gifts are due in San Francisco by Nov. 1, interested organizations and individuals are urged to make their donations at once. Packaging must be in accordance with military regulations, and it is suggested that donors bring Christmas wrappings and ribbons along with each gift item.

Close Friends Often Do Not Need to Talk

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

There's more than one kind of companionship you can have with your children. There's the companionship of doing things together; and of chatting about happenings and trotting ideas into the open. But there's another kind which has nothing to do with words or acts. For example:

"It's good to be with Jim," said a man I know. "We can enjoy each other without talking. Even a long silence isn't embarrassing. I suppose the answer is that we understand each other thoroly."

Most men and women have in their lives a few persons—relatives or friends—with whom they feel that sense of deep ease. Words aren't necessary. Not even letters, when they're apart. "I like to hear from you," said an old friend to an old friend, "But I don't need to."

Two persons can have a sense of companionship in silence as well as in speech. That experience is possible between a mother and her little son or daughter, or between parents and their older children, where a deep understanding friendship exists. You may have felt it without realizing just what it was that was happening.

It's interesting and companionable to talk with your children. It's fun, too.

If you really listen you'll find that what they say is well worth hearing, and that the questions they ask are most revealing of their thoughts and feelings. To be sure, there are other times when they chatter like magpies rather than talk, as if they were wound up and didn't care much whether you answered or not!

But there still are other times when you and your child are in the same room and not a word will be spoken for long, long intervals.

You may be sewing, writing, or reading, and your small one may be laying out a farm or undertaking a big building project or bathing and putting a baby doll to bed, and silence reigns. Your big son or little daughter knows you're there. You are, for the time being, the happy familiar background of his life. He knows you're there; he wants you there. But he does not feel the urge to talk. When that mood is on, let him be undisturbed.

Quiet, actual silence, fosters concentration and poise, and cements the bond of friendship and understanding.

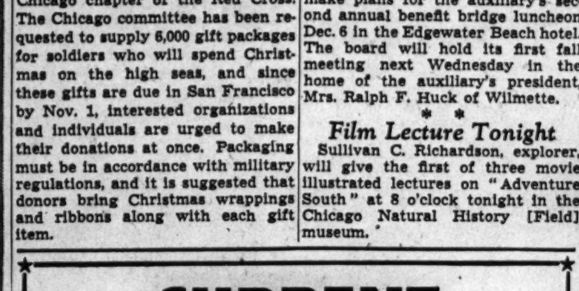
BUTTER

Land O' Lakes Sweet Cream Butter churned from sweet (not sour) cream, is always a best-seller in Chicago. Your grocer gets a regular supply of it.



Yes—they're off to a good start. Resolved that married life can be fun without being giddy; thrifty without being dull; purposeful without drudgery. For example, you'll find them using a fine paper napkin instead of heavy, hard-to-launder linen day after day. MARCAL PAPER NAPKINS are delightfully soft—extra strong. They save laundry—look better, last longer! They're the choice of thousands of careful hostesses who formerly used linen.

Note: Available at most stores most of the time.

Infant Welfare Benefit Party's Plans Are Laid

BY JUDITH CASS

THE Kenwood Social Service club, which has been a good neighbor to the Infant Welfare society for 33 years, will send out invitations within the next few days for its Good Neighbor cocktail party Oct. 5 in the Racquet club. Over the luncheon table yesterday in the Woman's Athletic club, Mrs. Keith Parsons, general chairman of the benefit, and members of her committee, outlined plans for the gay party, which will be Latin American in theme, from the hot tamales served to the peasant aprons worn by the pretty flower vendors.

The stunning white epergne centerpieces brimming over with ivy garlands twined with white gardenias, arranged by a former president of the club, Mrs. Kenath Sponsel, were Mrs. Sponsel's farewell to the group, as she is leaving tomorrow to move to New York. Her former post now is filled by Mrs. Victor Essroger, who presided at yesterday's gathering in a sheer wool gown of a true South American shade of cerise. Mrs. George Cross, chairman of advertising and programs, reported that to date $2,500 worth of advertising has been collected for the souvenir programs. The club will hear final reports on the party at a meeting Sept. 24 in Mrs. Otto Schilling's home.

Engagement News

At a cocktail party yesterday at home in Winnetka Mr. and Mrs. Nuel D. Belnap announced the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to Lt. Thomas G. Bur of the army air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bur of Green Bay, Wis. Lt. Bur and his mother were here for the party, at which his fiancée and her parents were assisted by the two younger daughters of the Belnap family, Nancy and Dorothy.

Miss Belnap attends Lawrence college. Lt. Bur, who has returned from 15 months of service as a pilot in Europe, will enter the University of Illinois as soon as he is discharged from the air forces.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Hildebrand of Evanston announce the engagement of their daughter, Jane, to Sgt. Philip M. Gresh of the army air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. William K. Gresh of Pottstown, Pa. Miss Hildebrand attends the National College of Education. Sgt. Gresh, a graduate of the Hill school, received his army training in Las Vegas, Nev., and at Fort Meyers, Fla., and is stationed on the west coast following three years as an instructor.

Wedding News

Miss Jane Helen Mork, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peifer Ralph Mork of Winnetka, will be married to Lt. David Monfort Carroll of the naval air forces at 4 p. m. Saturday at home. Only the immediate families will witness the ceremony, and a reception will follow.

Miss Alice Carroll, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Ralph G. Mork of Washington, D. C., sister-in-law of the bride, will attend Miss Mork. William A. Carroll of Poland, Ia., will be his son's best man, and ushering will be Lt. David Davis of Harwichport, Mass., a former Dartmouth college classmate of Lt. Carroll, who also is in the naval air forces. Lt. Carroll will arrive today from Bedford, Mass., where he is stationed. The bridal dinner will be given in the Mork home tomorrow night. The bridegroom's mother and another sister, Mrs. Joseph Carter of Philadelphia, also will be here for the wedding. Lt.

Brilliant Colors Combined with Dark Backgrounds

Two distinctive costumes from the fall collections illustrating the combination of brilliant color with dark background. At left: Sheath dress of deep blue banded in gold and crimson on the skirt. Sleeves have cuffs of gold. At right: Stunning two piece costume of slim straight skirt and Russian blouse-jacket of red. Long, wide sleeves are banded in black. [TRIBUNE Studio Photo]

Contrast Used Effectively in Town Clothes

BY REA SEEGER

Smart town clothes highlighted by brilliant color combinations of strong contrast are reminders that dull, drab ensembles, or those of dark monotones, are dated. Triumphantly vivid gold, russet, red, and bright blue, typical fall shades, are the center of eye interest, not only in slim one piece dresses, but in two piece ensembles of jacket and skirt or blouse and skirt. These two-piecers can be worn as both dress or suit, with blouses of the same contrast color or of ivory or white.

Various widths of band trim are the most successful, bands in the jacket sleeve or in both skirt and jacket. Graduated bands of dark against brilliant color or that formation in reverse make the needle slim dresses particularly colorful. They can be worn without furs right now, with dramatic gloves and equally dramatic new high hats; later with jackets of either wool or fur, and still later under long fur coats. The eye-catching color combinations are achieved with the bands and with enough restraint to make the dress effective without clash of the contrast, no matter how vivid the two or three colors.

All skirts are still comparatively slim and straight. All jacket sleeves flaunt the new released fullness and outline of softer, more gracious shoulders. The full Russian sleeves are more popular than ever, especially when trimmed or managed with contrast band trim from wrist to elbow. Some straight line jackets have the straight line long sleeves, other models are fitted with long cuffed sleeves fastened with huge buttons, and very young models have been copied from the snappy, short lumber jacket. Fitted and long, or short and straight, the high colored jackets worn with dark skirts or dresses banded in color are the smartest and newest fashions in town.

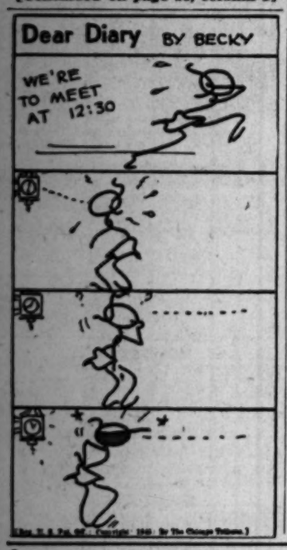
Dear Diary BY BECKY



Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 12—Pat O'Brien's next will be "Perilous Holiday," with Mary Astor, for Columbia. Sounds like a happy combination. When Pat was discussing a certain leading lady who hadn't had a job in quite a spell, he said, "Could be her slip is showing." . . . "All Kneeling" is being rewritten for Joan Fontaine so the story can be brought up to date and away from that unbecoming 1900 period. . . . Does the remaking of "Kitten on the Keys" mean that George Jessel will be leaving 20th Century? I hear the picture will have a new producer and director. George did a great job talking for "Wilson." . . . Greer Garson and her mother shopping for a New York and Washington trip. Lt. Richard Ney helped select Greer's hats. He likes her in simple things, so her hats are large, with floppy brims. . . . Rox Russell sent a postcard of the Pentagon building in Washington with this written on it: "Prices are high. Floor show terrible. But at least Harry Cohn can't find me for retakes."

No Luck for David

I understand David Selznick paid a pretty penny for "Young Lady Randolph," by Renee Kraus. It's the story of the life and times of Jenny Jerome, American mother of Winston Churchill. But owning the rights and getting Churchill's consent to allow the picture to be made are two different things, and so far none of the Selznick emissaries have reached the former prime minister. As I've written before, Alexander Korda has the inside track for Metro on Churchill's life—if and when it's done; also on "The History of England," which Churchill has promised to write if he ever gets 'round to it. . . . The Hollywood Canteen is having union trouble. Some do and some don't want it to close, but it seems everybody wants a divvy of that half a million dollars they've got in the kitty which was collected for the boys. . . . Betty Lawford is still in a New York hospital from the effects of a bad automobile accident in which she sustained a slight concussion and cuts on the face.

Is She Sweet Sixteen??

Somebody stole the sketch of Shirley Temple's wedding dress! Mrs. Temple's gown will be gray, with veilless hat to match, and don't be surprised if Shirley's age goes up a year. I believe 365 days were lopped off when she entered pictures—if you can believe a former Temple cook. . . . It took a loanout and a new color of hair for 20th Century to realize that Mary Anderson was one of its best bets, so it gave her "Precinct 33" with Otto Brower directing. It takes place in a police station over a 12 hour period. . . . At the moment it was being announced Ronnie Reagan would play Will Rogers in Rogers' life story, Producer Jerry Wald was trying to locate Jimmy Rogers and get him to come and test for it.

Always in the Show

Wouldn't you know George Cukor and Clifton Webb would get in on Gen. Wainwright's return to San Francisco? George tells me it was the most moving thing he ever saw. As the general got off the plane some Filipinos—men and women—rushed up with flowers. He insisted on being photographed with them, and suddenly a man in blue came hurtling thru the crowd, as tho he were on a football field, rushed up behind the general, and threw his arms around him. When Wainwright got his balance and turned around, all the color drained out of his face. It was his son. When George later saw pictures of the arrival there was Clifton, big as life, right behind the general. . . . Nunnally Johnson's sense of humor kills me. At Sonja Henie's party he rushed up to me with, "Why didn't Horace Schmidlap marry Carole Landis? My wife, who's suffering great pain at home now, must know." Well, I kinda figure they just lost their taste for each other before reaching the altar—if they ever aimed to go there.

Butchers Urge Rationing End; Fear Spoilage

Owners and managers of independent Chicago meat markets fear that small shops will be forced out of business if meat rationing is not soon discontinued, it was disclosed yesterday in a Tribune survey. Some managers told of losing hundreds of pounds of meat last week when spoilage resulted from an oversupply of beef and poultry. Others said they are faced with financial ruin if the spoilage they foresee is allowed to occur.

Frank Bernoski, owner of a meat market at 3574 Armitage av., declared, "There's too much meat, particularly beef, lamb, and veal, on hand for us to get rid of it because people just don't have points. I lost about 350 pounds of meat last week thru spoilage and had $2,000 in meat left over Saturday in my refrigerator. The quality of beef is poor, and it doesn't hold up well."

Bernoski predicted that the removal of cheese from the rationing list will not do much to ease meat rationing.

"They only ration meat now to give those bench warmers jobs," he asserted.

Rudolph Bittner, owner of a market at 6015 Irving Park rd., said he had 500 pounds of meat left over last week.

"We have more meat, mostly beef and poultry, than we can possibly sell. People just don't have enough points to take it off our hands," he said.

There is three times as much meat available in Chicago as housewives can buy with their red points, said Henry Larson, manager of a market at 2003 Addison st. He said his market suffered "a terrific spoilage last week" and packers still are urging him to take more meat. The removal of cheese from rationed lists will not help the oversupply of meat in butcher shops, Larson predicted, because people got out of the habit of eating cheese while it was rationed.

Herman Rick, manager of a market at 3116 Lincoln av., joined the other managers who said they have more meat on hand than they can sell, and James Abuzzo, manager of a market at 758 S. California av., said his shop has an oversupply of beef, veal, and poultry.

Of those reached, only Joe Joaquin, owner of a market at 1230 Grace st., has less meat than he can use. He blamed his short supply on the fact that he is seeking better cuts and does not accept the poor grades which, he says, he could obtain easily.

New Group Wants Nursery Schools Open Thru Reconversion

A demand for extension of the Lanham act to maintain school nurseries for children of working mothers was made last night at the first major meeting of the new Organization of Parents and Teachers of Lanham Act Nurseries at Hull House. More than 500 persons attended.

The Lanham act authorized funds during war time for the maintenance of nursery schools which particularly helped working mothers whose husbands were in service. However, with the war over, federal supporting funds are being gradually reduced, and will end by Oct. 31 unless extended. There are 23 nursery schools in Chicago.

Speakers urging extension of the nursery act included Ald. Kells [28th], Ald. Moss [5th], Mrs. Ashley L. Greenwood, Miss Mary E. Murphy, Miss Miriam Brubaker, Garrett E. Rickard, and Miss Alice Rose. All declared that there is as much need for the schools during the reconversion period as there was during the war.

Chase House Auxiliary to Make Tag Day Plans

Chase house auxiliary, which is composed of representatives of the various Episcopal churches of the Chicago area, will meet at 11 a. m. tomorrow in the settlement home, 211 S. Ashland av., to draw up plans for participation in the children's Benefit league tag day. The settlement is one of 50 children's charities which will benefit from donations on tag day, the first Monday in October. Mrs. John D. Kemper of Glen Ellyn is tag day chairman for Chase house, where around 250 children of the near west side are cared for. Luncheon will be served following the business session.

Movie's Cast Helps Offset Its Trite Plot

"BLONDE RANSOM"

By Mae Tinée

Another night club owner in hot water—this time it's Donald Cook who loses a lump of money he doesn't have. The victor is a wicked gangster who insists on taking over the Paradise Gardens for the debt.

Two of the members of the floor show, Collette Lyons and the limp little Pinky Lee, plus a beyootiful heiress who goes for Mr. Cook, conspire to help out in this drastic situation. The rich gal's Uncle William, a crotchety old money bags, won't give, so they pull a kidnaping, and if you want to see who lands in jail as a result, the answer's on the Palace screen.

Mr. Cook, pretty Virginia Grey, and George Barbier contribute a lot toward making this unremarkable plot into an unannoying if luke warm comedy.

Shy Boy Told: Ask Girl for a Birthday Date

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

"There's a gal of whom I really think a lot whose birthday is coming up very soon. I've never gotten up enough courage to ask her out, but have walked to work with her several times. Now that her birthday is in the offing, I'm wondering if it would be all right for me to send her a gift."

on the SOLID side

Too often fellows are strong and silent admirers, watching a gal appreciatively from a distance, but never going as far as actually asking her for a date, even tho the gal herself probably would be enthusiastic about the idea if she were asked. It would, of course, be all right to send her a gift, keeping it strictly impersonal. Flowers, cologne, and candy still are considered something for the girls, but shy away from more permanent gifts like bracelets and compacts until you know the girl better. But there's even a better solution. Why not ask the girl for a date near her birthday? Perhaps she's just as anxious as you are and you couldn't give her a better birthday present!

"I don't think I'm too bad looking, I'm a good sport and am intelligent, if you can go by report cards. However, I'm shy around boys in most cases. There are several with whom I feel at home, but I'm strictly a pal to them. Of course, there's nothing wrong with that except that it doesn't get me to movies and dances. They sit and talk at dances, but do they ask me to whirl round the floor with them? Well, hardly ever. I get along well with boys in school and enjoy their company in groups, but still no dates. O dear, what can the matter be?"

It's all very well to have fellows who are your pals, who will teach you to ride and sail a boat, can talk about your last physics experiment and will come over to help you weed your war garden. But when it comes to making plans for a duo-evening, they frequently think of other phone numbers. So keep your rugged young Rover boys as friends, but branch off into fellows who are interested in your date life, too. It may take a little brushing up on your line of bright chatter, you might have to learn how to dance all over again, and you'll have to check on what numbers have hit the top of the hit parade. If you'll forget about being 'pally' for a while and concentrate on being good date material, well—pardon me, but are you busy next Friday night?

Shirley Temple Wedding Set for Next Wednesday

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 12 (AP)—Shirley Temple, youthful movie actress, will be married next Wednesday evening to Sgt. John Agar of the army air forces. The ceremony, to be performed in the Wilshire Methodist church by the Rev. Willsie Martin, will be simple. Shirley's brother, Jack Temple, will be best man and his wife, Miriam, will be matron of honor. High school classmates of the actress will be bridesmaids.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Bosses of Yesteryear

Present day white collar girls may get considerable enjoyment out of the caricatures now on display at the Chicago Historical society. For these original pen and ink drawings represent Chicago executives of the 60s and 70s. A productive era it was, just about the time when three Milwaukee inventors, Christopher Sholes, Carlos Glidden, and Samuel Soute, were tinkering with a handy contraption—the typewriter—destined to usher white collar girls into the inner sanctum of big business.

The collection, owned by Joseph T. Ryerson, is the work of Jane Spear King, who has a discerning eye. To do the drawings Miss King dug deep into dusty records and old photographics—to find the men behind the whiskers!

Whiskers they had! The styles ranged from the "mutton chop" to the chin variety. Clothes were more expressive than the standardized suits of the business men of 1945—buttons and lapels were varied, as were collars and waistcoats. And ties were anything from ascots to flourishing bows.

Drawings are shown by Philip D. Armour, impressive with boutonniere; Gustavus Swift, founder of the "all but the squeal" packing firm; John Crerar, banker and Pullman car executive; Joseph Medill, editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE; Martin Hughitt, distinguished old man of railroading; John Dean Caton, who tried Chicago's first law case, and others. Fun for the girl whose 9 to 5 life centers around today's prominent business men.

"Rumor Had It"

By Christopher Hale

(Copyright: 1945: By Mrs. Frances Stephens)

SYNOPSIS: It was expected that Erica Pomeroy, whose parents had died and left her a fortune, would marry Huntley Price, whom she had known all her life. Returning from Boston, Erica brings a fiance, Toby Newcomb. Huntley asks Mr. Izenga to help him win back Erica. Mr. Izenga had been in love with Erica's mother and had shared with her grandmother the upbringing of the girl. He dislikes Toby's mocking air and is horrified to learn his last job was as a waiter. They would have been married in Boston but Erica couldn't hurt him and her grandmother like that. She wants to feel Mr. Izenga is on her side when she breaks the news to her grandmother. Mrs. Pomeroy's brother, Ridge Dawson, drops into Mr. Izenga's for cocktails before his sister's birthday dinner. Ridge is charming, unreliable, has had several wives, and is always in debt. He wants Mr. Izenga to put in a good word for him with Letty, as he is asking her for a loan of $50,000. Letty and Ridge had been left equal shares of their father's fortune. Everything Letty touches turns to money.

INSTALMENT IV.

ARRIVAL

Ridge Dawson's habit of referring to his sister's activities as Letitia's diabolical luck, was not only unsound but silly. It did not endear him to his sister.

Westerly had been a pleasant red-brick box of a house on two acres of land when Mrs. Pomeroy had inherited it. Now it stretched wings on either side with innumerable arched terraces, screened verandas, huge windows, the whole a glittering white with green shutters and roof.

Mrs. Pomeroy had added ten acres of land and sunk half of it under water in creating a small lake in which she could see the sunsets reflected.

"My word, the way she blows money is sickening," Ridge remarked.

"Don't forget, it's her birthday and if you're hoping for a favorable reaction to your request, you'd be wise to change your mood." Mr. Izenga spoke quietly as he got out.

"My pal," Ridge smiled brilliantly. "Thanks, I get it. Her birthday. Blast 'n' blazes, her birthday! And I forgot her present. It's lying on my dresser." He began to slap his pockets. Then his face cleared. "No. Here it is. I haven't any remembrance of putting it there. Instinct of self-preservation no doubt."

They mounted steps to the impressive entrance. A very small, dignified colored man with sparse white hair wearing a spotless white jacket, came to open the door.

"Good evening, Pliny," Mr. Izenga and Mr. Dawson said in chorus.

"Good evenin', Mr. Izenga," said Pliny pointedly.

From the arched doorway on the right came the imperious voice of Mrs. Pomeroy, talking rather gaily as both gentlemen were relieved to note. Mr. Izenga was glad she had suppressed her alarm about Erica, for the time being.

He could see her now, reflected in one of the many mirrors of the white paneled living room.

Letitia Pomeroy was extraordinary indeed for 71. The driving force of her energy and her superb health had kept her figure lithe and young. She carried her small head with its fine profile and hardly wrinkled skin at a proud angle. Her brown-white hair was arranged in a soft, flattering fashion. In spite of the blaze of diamonds against her shell-pink lace dress, her personality overpowered their glitter.

The other two people in the room were Mrs. Pomeroy's only daughter, Hester, and her husband, Harry Duke. Hester's expensive green gown was exactly the right shade to emphasize her sallow coloring.

Her husband, Harry, was a heavy middle-aged man with a perpetually anxious aspect. He had received a hundred thousand with Hester to put into his real estate business, and also the benefit of his mother-in-law's unceasing advice.

"O Cornelius!" Mrs. Pomeroy exclaimed with a nod on the side to her brother, "Isn't it splendid, everything is coming out so well for Harry, just as I predicted? The Auto-body Corporation got that contract and they do need the old Burger and Witters factory. I had an appraiser go over it six months ago and he said it was in excellent condition in spite of standing vacant. The Burger estate kept it up. I was thinking of taking an option on it myself but it seemed more in Harry's line. So I gave it up to him. And now he's going to cash in." She laughed happily and patted Duke on the arm.

His bleak twitch of a smile did not resemble the happy glow of a casher-in, but Mrs. Pomeroy did not appear to notice anything amiss. She was too busy being kissed by Huntley Price who had walked in from one of the side porches.

Mr. Izenga gazed at Harry Duke with his best eye. Harry had confided in him recently. For years he had fallen farther and farther behind his obligations, concealing the fact from Mrs. Pomeroy. When she suggested the option deal, he didn't dare admit he hadn't funds to take it. He had borrowed the money, then had been afraid to risk it.

Instead, he had put the borrowed cash into what seemed a safe investment which any conservative banker would have preferred to the risky option. The safe investment was still good, but temporarily it had sunk in value so that his money was frozen, or at least chilled.

Huntley crossed the room to greet Mr. Izenga. He had simply come thru the hedge from the large old house next door where he lived with his uncle and aunt. Mr. and Mrs. Galt spent most of their time traveling. They were glad to supply a housekeeper to look after Huntley who in turn kept an eye on the house. Now and then the Galts stopped off at home to plan another trip. They were away now.

Mr. Izenga was glad to see Huntley had a good grip on himself. He would need it. For Erica came into the room almost at once with Toby Newcomb. Erica's soft, floating golden-brown dress was almost the same shade as her hair and ruinously becoming. She wore topazes.

Toby Newcomb's dinner clothes did not smell of moth balls or benzine and he did not seem to be taking them out for an airing. Mr. Izenga was annoyed and relieved.

Erica paused to introduce Newcomb to her uncle and aunt. Harry Duke shook hands in a very friendly way but Mrs. Duke was barely civil. Erica passed on quickly to her great uncle Ridge, who was humorously affable as if to offset Hester Duke's rudeness. Erica gave him a grateful little smile but did not linger. She brought Toby Newcomb boldly, directly to Huntley.

Huntley paled but said the right things. Newcomb was civil and cold. They shook hands. Everyone in the room stopped talking, then began again, all together.

Mrs. Pomeroy touched a bell near the mantel. In a moment the old colored man appeared.

"Pliny, hasn't my son arrived?"

"No'm, Miss Letty. I been watchin' fo' de cah."

"Very well. Serve the cocktails."

This, as the guests well knew, meant your choice of tomato juice, pineapple juice, or apricot nectar.

"Where is Bennet, Mother?" Hester asked plaintively.

"He drove to Ann Arbor to fetch Lucianna. Her niece is graduating from some sort of course." Mrs. Pomeroy spoke chillingly. "He should have been back hours ago."

Mr. Izenga thought Toby and Erica and Huntley were like three actors with roles in a poor play in which they were doing their best. It was painful, even to watch. Huntley, so careful not to look at her as he longed to; Erica so feverisly determined to make the two men accept each other, at least on the surface, and Toby Newcomb, too casual, too at ease, for Mr. Izenga's taste. He accepted Erica's devotion without, apparently, being awed by his luck.

Chicago Jews Hear News of Zionist Parley

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS

Louis Lipsky, Zionist leader, last night reported to Chicago Zionists in the Stevens hotel on the conference in London at which representative Zionists of all nations met for the first time since 1939. He said the number of Jews killed during the war was greater than the total killed from any nation except possibly Russia.

European representatives told the conference that there are scarcely 2 million Jews left of the 8 million European Jews before the war, Mr. Lipsky said, adding that despite this fearful loss of life, Jews were intensely active in resistance or underground movements in all countries overrun by the Nazis.

"To London came Jews from everywhere—Poland, France, Czechoslovakia, Belgium, Romania, Bulgaria—remnants of former communities, who have turned to Zionism as their last and only hope," he said. "Among them was Rabbi Leo Baeck, formerly of Berlin, released from a concentration camp. He had chosen to remain in Germany as long as he could help Jews get out."

From all these refugees, Mr. Lipsky said, came the one plea: "Get us as quickly as possible to Palestine. We have no place to go. We cannot go back to Poland, France, Italy, Romania. Tho we fought in resistance movements side by side with overridden nationals, within 48 hours after victory, the resistance forces became the government and they turned us out. We cannot go back."

Mr. Lipsky said World Zionists are distressed over delay in action by the new British labor government on the Palestine question, "but we have not lost faith; the challenge to the American conscience to aid in asking the British government to act will increase."

Carroll and his bride will live in Bedford temporarily.

When Peter John Keffer and his bride, the former Olive H. Dougherty, return from a wedding trip to Maine, they will be at home in a house they have purchased on Bond's hill, Gloucester, Mass. Their marriage took place at 4 p. m. yesterday in the Annisquam Village church in Annisquam, Mass. Later there was a small reception in the Gloucester summer home of the bride and her sister, Miss Ruth E. Dougherty, who are daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Dougherty of Evanston. The bride's brother, Holden Dougherty of Charleston, W. Va., gave her in marriage.

Here and There

An original drawing by Milton Caniff of two well known comic strip characters, Terry and Hotshot Charlie, will add impetus to the advertising campaign for Christ Episcopal church's annual rummage sale Oct. 11 in the Winnetka parish house. Fifty members of the woman's guild of the church, wearing garments which they will contribute to the sale, gathered for luncheon yesterday in the home of their president, Mrs. Chester W. Cleveland, to learn the final plans for the sale and also to view the cartoon, which will not be released until early next month.

Miss Alice Butz's Wellesley college suite-mate, Miss Nancy Wrenn, and Miss Wrenn's sister, Carolene, who attends the Ethel Walker school, will arrive today to spend a few days in the Herbert R. Butzes' Winnetka home en route to their classes from their home in Honolulu. Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Simmons will entertain for the visitors tomorrow. Mrs. Harry B. Sutter will give a luncheon and theater party Saturday, and that night Miss Butz's uncle, Theodore Butz, and his daughter, Jean, will give a barbecue dinner. Mrs. William Sherman Hay also plans to entertain for Miss Butz and the two sisters, who will leave for the east next Tuesday.

The war veteran in the junior Louis A. Fergusons' family is a boat, the Last Buccaneer, which recently was returned to them with four chevrons on its smokestack to denote two years of service with the coast guard patrol. The Fergusons and their daughter, Virginia, returned Monday from a three week cruise on their motor sailer to Ephraim, Fish Creek, and Sister Bay, Wis. Miss Ferguson will leave Monday to enter Connecticut college. Her brother, Louis III., is enrolled as a cadet midshipman in the merchant marine academy in San Mateo, Cal.

Mrs. Sidney Strotz, who is here on a return visit from California, will be among the guests at the first of a series of amateur model contests during luncheon Monday in the Key club.

News of Births

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miles Harvey Jr. [Eleanor Janney] became the parents of a daughter Sept. 11 in North Country Community hospital in Glen Cove, Long Island. Mrs. Harvey is the daughter of Mrs. Cornelius Lynde of Winnetka and of Laurence A. Janney of Stamford, Conn.

Mrs. Edward Watermulder [Georgia Pettibone] and her baby daughter, Jan Marie, born Sept. 3 in Evanston hospital, will return to the Watermulders' Evanston home today. The baby, their first child, was given her middle name for her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Holman D. Pettibone of Winnetka. Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus A. Watermulder of Phoenix, Ariz., are the paternal grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Blizzard [Delphia Biggs] of South Shore dr. are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, David Morrison, Aug. 25 in Illinois Central hospital. The baby is a grandson of Mrs. Henry M. Blizzard and of Judge John D. Biggs, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, and Mrs. Biggs, all of Greenville, Ill.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 diamond	1 spade
3 hearts	3 spades	3 hearts	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead; four of spades.

The surest way to make a game is obviously the best way and consideration of overtricks should not be entertained where the safety of the contract is in question. East took too much for granted in the play of the hand and blamed his failure on the bad streak of the cards, when in point of fact the distribution was exactly what might have been expected.

The bidding was orthodox enough, tho most modern players would prefer to open the East hand rather than pass it. The decisive card, peculiarly enough, is the jack of hearts. This may sound like splitting hairs, but it really isn't. The point is that the possession of that card gives East a good rebiddable heart suit, so that if partner should respond with one spade or two diamonds he is in position to sign off safely with a bid of two hearts. Had North's bid of one spade not intervened, his proper procedure after having passed would have been to make a jump take out of two hearts, but inasmuch as he was making a free bid he preferred not to jump to three hearts and thus crowd the bidding.

South opened the four of spades which was taken with the ace. Declarer drew three rounds of trumps, trusting that the diamond would break and that he would obtain three discards. This would result in his taking 11 tricks, one over contract. When the diamonds failed to break declarer was obliged to lose four tricks and attributed his failure to bad luck. As a matter of fact, diamonds did not break badly. An even number of outstanding cards [in this case six] will on the average not break evenly, so that the 4-2 division was to be expected.

The proper play was to draw only two rounds of trumps to see if they were divided. When this fact is ascertained, the king and ace of diamonds should be cashed and a small diamond led to be ruffed by declarer, with an honor if necessary, to prevent an over-ruff. Dummy is then entered with the king of trumps to cash the two good diamonds. In this way declarer makes five heart tricks, four diamonds, and the ace of spades for a total of ten.

Illinois Clubwomen Vote Scholarships for Music Students

Around 150 musically talented boys and girls will be offered summer music camp scholarships by the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, the federation's board of directors decided yesterday at the opening session of its two day meeting in state headquarters at 30 W. Washington st.

Mrs. Everett Given of Paxton, state music chairman, outlined plans for the scholarships which are to be granted to elementary school youngsters of the 7th and 8th grades and to high school freshmen, sophomores, and juniors on a competitive basis.

Winning students will have a full week's expenses paid at the Egyptian Music camp, to be conducted the last two weeks in June and the first week in July at the state fair grounds, Du Quoin, Ill. The camp was established four years ago by A. R. Atwood, band director of the Du Quoin schools, with courses offered in band and choral work and in drama for grade and high school boys and girls.

Mrs. Theodore S. Chapman of Jerseyville, recently elected state president, is conducting the executive session.

Goodwill Industries' Women's Board to Meet in New Home

Board members of the women's auxiliary of Goodwill Industries are looking forward to their opening fall gathering at 11 a. m. tomorrow, since it is to be the first meeting held in the organization's new home at 1500 W. Monroe st.

Continued expansion of Goodwill's program of vocational training and therapeutic work for physically handicapped persons during the last quarter of a century necessitated the move to larger quarters. Mrs. Burnett D. Warner, president of the auxiliary, and her board members have been busy during the summer with plans for refurnishing, equipping, and establishing the many departments-within-departments at the Goodwill center.

Reports of chairmen will be heard at tomorrow's meeting, and plans completed for new projects which the move to new quarters has entailed.

Is Your Child Getting The Same Chance As Bobby?

Right from the start, Bobby's mother has made sure that her son gets plenty of sunshine, and a diet adequate in bone-building minerals. Bobby's legs will be as strong, straight, and his teeth as sound, as sufficient calcium can make them.

Will your child have these assets? While even sufficient calcium cannot correct bowed legs after a child is three, an adequate supply is important right through life to keep bones sturdy and help the child to look his best. That's one of the main reasons why doctors advise that children get plenty of milk... the best food source of calcium.

However, as children get older, they are often reluctant to drink all the milk they should have.

That's where Cocomalt can prove invaluable. For Cocomalt gives milk a delicious chocolaty flavor that children love. And Cocomalt* is so rich in calcium, it makes 3 glasses of milk equal to a whole quart in calcium value. (Also supplies the day's entire minimum requirements for iron, phosphorus, Vitamins B₁ and D.)

Start your children on Cocomalt today. Save this as a reminder to order from your grocer.

*2 heaping tsps. to 8-oz. glass of milk.

Avoid a Skimpy Meal

Recent nutrition studies at the Maine Experiment Station show that if one meal a day is very light or omitted altogether, a child nearly always fails to get enough food or the right kind of food even though the other meals are ample.

They also found that eating too little at breakfast or lunch usually results in irritability or fatigue before the next meal.

Vary Lunch Menus with Need

Use this lunch box pattern as a guide, varying it to suit the nutritional needs of each person:

One or more Protein Sandwiches
Fruit or Vegetable Salad
An Uncooked Fruit or Vegetable (carrot sticks, cabbage wedge, apple)
Hot Soup or Beverage
Milk
A Sweet if desired

One sandwich may be enough for the office worker or high school girl. If so, extra attention should be given to getting more protein into her lunch in other ways.

Prevent Slump Between-Meals

It's the protein in the meal that prevents that between-meal slump so be sure to have at least one-third of the day's protein requirement in the lunch box. A Clear Brook Egg, deviled; several cubes of Certified American Cheese; Certified Cold Cuts; other meats and milk are all excellent protein foods that will improve the quality of the diet.

Lunch Box Memos

1. Slices of pickled beets in B-V jars add interest as well as good eating.
2. Wilson's Certified Frankfurters and potato salad are as good in a lunch box as in a picnic basket.

George Rector

Plan Lunch Around Other Meals

Planning the daily lunch is an important duty, whether it is eaten at home or carried to work or school. In making these plans the breakfast and dinner menus for the day should be considered so the three meals will furnish all the food requirements for the day.

EX-COLLEGIAN FROM CHICAGO WHIPS DODGERS

Lopatka Yields 4 Hits for St. Louis

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 12 (AP)—Art Lopatka, 25 year old native of Chicago, pitched and won his first major league game for the St. Louis Cardinals tonight, defeating the Brooklyn Dodgers, 3 to 2, and keeping the 1944 world champions two and a half games behind the league leading Chicago Cubs. The Cards scored all their runs in the first inning.

Art Lopatka

[Lopatka was captain of the 1941 University of Chicago baseball team.]

The second game of a scheduled double header was postponed because of rain and the two teams will play a twilight-night double header tomorrow.

Wildness Costly to Branca

Lopatka, brought up Sunday from the Columbus farm club of the American association, had the Dodgers baffled, except in the fourth inning when they bunched three of their four hits to score twice.

Goody Rosen led off with a single, stopped at third on Augie Galan's double, and both men scored later on Frenchy Bordagaray's single. Tom Brown singled with two out in the ninth for the only other Brooklyn hit.

Except in the first inning the Cards had little success with the pitching of Ralph Branca, who lost the contest thru wildness. He yielded only six hits but walked six and threw two wild pitches, one of them permitting a run to score.

Bergamo Starts Winning Rally

Augie Bergamo started the Cards' first inning with a single off Brown's glove. Red Schoendienst and Buster Adams walked and Whitey Kurowski lifted a long fly to center, scoring Bergamo. Ray Sanders' single scored Schoendienst. Adams came home a moment later on a wild pitch. Score:

Reflections

He who says the sun is high
And wedded to a selfish sky
Has not seen the rose it kissed
Nor the leaves it never missed.

He who thinks the stars are dim,
Hollow heavens follow him;
While even school girls realize
How they light a lover's eyes.

He who says the Lord is far
Missed Him [as the sun and star],
And does not know he might have seen
His reflections in the green

Of the surf and where the tree
Stands in simple sanctity:
Here he could have seized the worth
Of the heavens . . . from the earth!

He who feels forsaken must
Pluck His flowers from the dust,
For God is best perceived where He Reflects Himself in wisdry!

Blue

There is a strong connection binding my Forever eager heart to tones of blue—
For songs spring forth at sight of azure sky,
And water tinted aquamarine hue.
A sapphire's bright allure will fascinate
A host of thoughts that wander thru my mind;
Blue flowers in a crystal vase will rate
A verse extoling them to all mankind.
Skies of midnight; moods of indigo;
Forget-me-nots and bluejays share it, too—
Flowers and skies, birds, and stars that glow,
Dishes and fabrics — many things are blue.
More than all else my love for blue is this:
I wore it when you gave me love's first kiss. —Anne C. Korpics

A rattler is a deadly thing,
As we are all aware,
Yet with his like and everything
He is a bit more fair

He knows what to expect.
But, alas, the lothesome tattler
Flings his venom, scorning
To be game enought to give
A single bit of warning!

WORLD SERIES TO OPEN OCT. 3; INVITE TRUMAN

Baseball to Keep Gate Receipts

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12 (AP)—Baseball today arranged the details of its first big post-war party, the 1945 world series. President Truman probably will watch the first game, set for Wednesday, Oct. 3, in the city of the American league winner.

Baseball Commissioner A. B. [Happy] Chandler, announced the arrangements today after he met with representatives of teams which still have chances to win the National and American league pennants.

Chandler visited the White House this morning, gave Mr. Truman a gold world series pass, and invited him to attend the games.

Believes Truman Will Attend

"I believe he'll be there," Chandler said. "The President did not say so definitely, but he has that week open. I shouldn't be surprised if he atends more than one game."

Chandler later said he hoped Mr. Truman would be able to see a game in both cities represented in the series.

It was decided to play the first three games in the American league city, and finish the series—four games, if necessary—in the National league city. This will save travel in further coöperation with the office of defense transportation.

If the series is between Detroit of the American league and either St. Louis or Chicago of the National league, which now appears likely, no off-day will be allowed for travel. If Washington wins the American league pennant, Saturday, Oct. 6, will be an open date with play to be resumed in the National league city on Sunday, Oct. 7.

Make Allowance for Tie

By setting the opening game for Oct. 3, allowance was made for the possibility of a tie in either of the tight pennant races. The regular major league season ends Sept. 30, and two days now are open for playing off a tie, probably on a one-game basis.

Players' eligibility lists were submitted and approved. Additional returning war veterans will be eligible for the series if they are on hand by Sept. 30. Series umpires will be announced Oct. 1.

Ticket prices will be the same as in previous years, scaling from $6 for box seats down to $1 for temporary bleachers, plus a federal tax of 20 per cent.

For the first time since Pearl Harbor, baseball will retain the series gate receipts. In the last three years a substantial percentage was contributed to charity.

Teams represented at the meeting were Chicago and Brooklyn of the National league, and Detroit, Washington, and New York of the American. Chandler held the proxy of the St. Louis Cardinals.

TURF 2 YEAR OLD TITLE OPEN AS OUTSIDER WINS

New York, Sept. 12 (AP)—Knockdown, a bargain counter colt, came hurtling out of the pack in a rough and tumble stretch drive today to romp home first in the $25,000 added Cowdin stakes at Aqueduct and scramble the 2 year old merry-go-round more than ever.

At the finish, he hung his brown nose on the wire only a length and a half in front of the midwest hope and betting favorite, Dr. Eslie Asbury's Revoked. Southern Pride was third.

SPARTANS PUT SHOULDERS TO GRIDIRON AGAIN

BY WILFRID SMITH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

East Lansing, Mich., Sept. 12—Michigan State college, which compiled a splendid football record under the tutelage of Charley Bachman in the decade before the war, returns this fall to full time competition on the gridiron with a nine game schedule. The Spartans open on Sept. 29 at Michigan and close at the University of Miami on Nov. 23. In between these engagements Michigan State will play Kentucky, Pittsburgh, Wayne university, Marquette, Missouri, Great Lakes, and Penn State.

Eager for Game's Revival

The story of football at Michigan State since 1942 is the same as at many universities where navy training programs were not established. After 1942 football was dropped from the intercollegiate sports program primarily because the army forbade its trainees to participate. But while the Spartans did not field an eleven in 1943, Bachman and Ralph Young, who is starting his 23d year as director of athletics, were indefatigable in their efforts for resumption.

Bachman actually never stopped coaching, for he was given a leave of absence in the fall of 1943 which permitted him to take charge of the soldier squad at Camp Grant, Ill.

Last fall faculty permission was received for Michigan State to play football against universities which used civilians exclusively. The Spartans won six games and were beaten only by Missouri, 13 to 7.

65 Players on Squad

Whether this success can be continued remains to be seen, but 65 players from a squad of 105 that participated in the six week summer practice now are drilling twice a day. Nine letter men are included in the personnel on the first three varsity teams. However, 40 players are only 17 years old. Thus, experience, as it will at most colleges, will be a factor in the coming campaign.

Line play will center around Brady Sullivan, center, of Steubenville, O., who was elected captain of the 1944 squad at the end of the season. Jack Breslin, veteran full back from Battle Creek, and William Siler, quarter back, are key men in Bachman's streamlined T formation, which has been phonetically called the Flying Z, because, as

Sox Lose Pair to Yankees, 3-1 and 9-8

BY IRVING VAUGHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, Sept. 12—The White Sox, to all appearances, haven't heard that Joe McCarthy's Yankees aren't what they used to be. Today the Chicagoans, after bowing gracefully to a 3 to 1 Red Ruffing performance in the front half of a double header, bounced back with a free scoring exhibition that quickly projected them into a six run lead in the second game. But, unfortunately, the lead proved insufficient, the Yanks tying it in the eighth and putting together the decisive run in the 10th, 9 to 8.

Because the aged Ruffing acted much like a mere youngster there wasn't much chance for the James Dykes boys in the first affair, their batting efforts being so modest that they didn't even get out of the one hit class until after five innings of play. And the Yanks, while not exactly rough on Orval Grove, did manage to make up in distance for the lack of quantity. Two of their three runs were the results of homers authored by Russ Derry and Charley Keller.

Yankees Tally 5 in 5th

The big edge in the second game was built up by such items as homers by Guy Curtright, Cass Michaels and John Dickshot, all of it going to waste because Ed Lopat, after southpawing four neat innings, went to pieces in the fifth, a bunch of five runs resulting. Frank Papish put an end to that uprising but it developed that he remained too long for his own good. A homer by Frankie Crosetti knocked him into a tie in the eighth and then in the 10th Oscar Grimes tripled to center, scoring on the next pitch which Aaron Robinson hit for a single.

Derry, Keller Hit Home Runs

Grove's first game effort was good enough to carry him thru three innings with a minimum of trouble and his progress continued satisfactorily until he had retired Metheny to open the fourth. Then Derry arched his drive into the right field seats, the ball descending in the immediate vicinity of a sign indicating that it was only 296 feet from home plate. A moment later Keller smacked his homer in the same direction but it had enough carry to clear a 344 foot sign.

The Yanks used up only one hit to brew a run in the fifth.

SENATORS WIN, 5-1; WAINWRIGHT WATCHES GAME

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12 (AP)—Playing before Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, the Washington Senators walloped Cleveland, 5 to 1, tonight. The victory left the Senators a game and a half behind the leading Detroit Tigers.

The hero of Corregidor saw Roger Wolff pitch and bat Washington to victory. It was Wainwright's first opportunity to see a ball game in more than five years and he stayed the full nine innings.

After a shaky opening inning, Wolff was invincible. He yielded only one hit, by Pitcher Steve Gromek, in the last eight innings. In addition, Wolff cracked out a base cleaning double with two out in the sixth that clinched the game for the Senators.

POLIO EPIDEMIC ENDS ROCKFORD PREP FOOTBALL

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 12 (AP)—All football was canceled tonight for this city's two high schools as a result of the epidemic of infantile paralysis, School Supt. Selmer Berg said following consultation with the board of education.

A telephone check was made of the board after the medical advisory committee of the National Infantile Paralysis institute recommended elimination of football as a precautionary measure. Normally the board would not meet until Monday, when the schools are to reopen following a polio-necessitated delay.

East and West High schools have carded seven games each in the Big Eight conference [northern Illinois]. Practice, because the schools remained closed, has not yet begun officially.

BY EDWARD BURNS

Hank Wyse, who beat the Phillies, 12 to 6, on Aug. 12 for his 18th victory, then used up a month in five futile tries for his 19th triumph, yesterday accomplished said No. 19 by beating the Phillies in Wrigley field, 4 to 0.

Hank's main collaborators were Kewpie Barrett, Philly right hander, who suffered his 19th loss of the season, and Andy Pafko, who drove home three runs with a double in the third inning. Pafko connected after Barrett had walked Capt. Phil Cavarretta with the bases loaded to force home Stan Hack, who also had walked.

The victory, 16th over the tailenders in 20 meetings, enabled the Cubs to retain their 2½ game lead over St. Louis. The Cards beat the Dodgers, 3 to 2.

Derringer Hurls Today

The Phillies and the Cubs this afternoon will play the second of their three-game series. Paul Derringer, losing pitcher in two of the four Cub setbacks at the hands of the Phillies, will pitch. The two losses were early in the season and Paul since has done some of his most sparkling work of the entire year against the tailenders. Sgt. Hugh Mulcahy, restored to the Phillies a month ago, will make his second start since his return.

The Phillies outhit the Cubs yesterday, 9 to 7, but Wyse showed his old flair for clamping down when danger threatened. The fact that Len Merullo threw out Tony Lupien at the plate in the first inning, and Hank himself threw out Andy Seminick at home in the fourth inning obviously did much to protect the shut out. There was one other threat to Wyse's scoreless performance, tho perhaps not the outcome, John Antonelli opened the ninth with a single to center. Nick Pleciuto filed to Hack, but Pinch Batter Rene Monteagudo doubled to left, Antonelli stopping at third. Wyse then struck out Freddie Daniels and Jim Wasdell bounced to Cavarretta.

Barrett Loses Control

The Cubs couldn't count in the first inning after Hack had led off with a single and they failed to tally in the second, tho Cavarretta led off with a single and Pafko walked.

So the lads tried delayed action in the third and it worked for the day's total of four runs. After Merullo and Wyse supplied infield outs, Hack walked. Don Johnson, back in action for the first time since Sept. 2, singled to right, Hack stopping at second. Harry Lowrey walked, loading the bases. Barrett also passed Cavarretta, forcing Hack across the plate. Pafko doubled to left center, scoring Johnson, Lowrey and Cavarretta. The swat lifted Andy's team-leading runs-batted-in total to 96.

After Chicago's triumphant third, Barrett held the Cubs to a single by Lowrey with two out in the fifth, a double by Bill Nicholson with one out in the sixth, and Johnson's second single, with two out in the seventh. Kewpie's only pass after those three in the third was an intentional one.

TIGERS DEFEAT A'S, 7-4; LOSE 2D IN 16TH, 3-2

York Gets 17th Homer in Opener

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 12 (AP)—Bobby Estalella, Athletics' outfielder, hit a double to right field in the dimness of the 16th inning to score Mayo Smith from first base and beat the league leading Detroit Tigers, 3 to 2, in the second game of a double header in Shibe park today after the Tigers had won the opener, 7 to 4.

Rudy York hit his 17th home run of the season in the opener.

By coincidence, the 16 inning affair was a playoff of a 24 inning marathon the Athletics and Tigers were unable to finish here on July 21.

ALL-STAR LEAGUE MAKES DEBUT ON BOWLING ALLEYS

The newly formed All-Star league made its bowling debut last night at Cascade Center, 3825 W. Madison st., with all of its 16 teams seeing action.

In the men's section Keeley Half and Half set the pace with a 2,971 total in taking the odd game from Corey Steel. In other matches Goranson's 20 Alleys captured two from National Billiard and Lemon Kings and Congress Arcade both won a pair from Bee Vac Electrics and Fanta's Anchor Inn. Pete Petersen of Lemon Kings had high individual game with 236.

WESTMORELAND GOLFERS TAKE EVANS TROPHY

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

Westmoreland Country club's golfers, led by Walter McCallum, yesterday won the Chick Evans trophy and with it the 30th annual interleague championship of the Chicago District Golf association at Glen Oak. The champions of the North Shore league assembled a total of 17½ points, against their two rivals, Calumet of the South District league, which finished with 10 and Riverside of the West district, which posted 8½ points.

McCallum paced all gross scorers for the 36 holes with an 81—80—161, his 80 being the best single round of the day. Nearest to him was Earl Gocke, the giant printer from Calumet, who set himself an 84—81—165.

Engage in Team Play

The three league champions, playing in threesomes, sent their No. 1 men out against each other, and down thru the No. 6 swingers. Results of each threesome, with full medal scores and total points for day follow:

No. 1—Chuck Hajek, Riverside, 83—83—166 [4 points]; James Buchanan, Westmoreland, 84—83—167 [2 points]; Charles Berry, Calumet, 87—86—173 [0 points].

No. 2—Earl Gocke, Calumet, 84—81—165 [3 points]; Burt Gibson, Westmoreland, 88—82—170 [3 points]; Frank Soukup, Riverside [0 points].

No. 3—Walter McCallum, Westmoreland, 81—80—161 [3 points]; William Arendsecher, Calumet, 81—92—183 [1½ points]; Hobe Hipwell, Riverside, 89—84—173 [1½ points].

No. 4—Fred Fisher, Westmoreland, 84—83—167 [3½ points]; Glen McCullip, Riverside, posted no morning round—92 [2 points]; Jack Evans, Calumet, 88—88—176 [1½ points].

No. 5—Joseph Theis, Calumet, 88—83—171 [3½ points]; Bud Lane, Westmoreland, 86—87—173 [2½ points]; Frank Lantz, Riverside, 90—91—181 [0 points].

No. 6—Bob Thorsen, Westmoreland, 87—87—174 [3½ points]; Dr. L. F. Whitson, Calumet, 87—87—174 [1½ points]; Ed Kiting, Riverside, 89—90—179 [1 point].

Chick Evans won the Illinois Seniors Golf association fall tournament by shooting a par equaling 72 at the Exmoor Country club yesterday. A field of 175 players competed in the event.

A junior division tournament for neophytes was won by A. L. Miller of Bob o' Link with 76. R. D. Cameron, competing unattached, and H. E. Edson of Exmoor tied for low net in the junior class with identical scores of 82—9—73.

The senior of seniors championship for players over 70 was captured by George C. Davis of Oak Park, who carded an 88. Commodore Robert M. Emmet of the Great Lakes Naval Training station won the guest prize with a score of 95—12—83. The prize list follows:

Confusion on New System Throws Bears

BY EDWARD PRELL

Confusion on their own new system of signals was a contributing factor to the Bears' 14 to 7 loss in Tuesday night's nonchampionship game with the Washington Redskins in Soldiers' field.

Co-Coach Luke Johnsos made this admission before the Bears returned yesterday afternoon to their training camp in Collegeville, Ind.

"Neither Sid Luckman nor Gene Ronzani had time to master our new signal numbers," said Johnsos. "As a result they were calling many plays by the old numbers, so much so that some of the other players thought the two were a little balmy.

Do Nothing in Confusion

"Added to this many of our new players didn't know what they were doing—and in the confusion did nothing. The Redskins have a lot of good, fast backs and a hard charging line. They thought they were going to beat us by a larger score."

Johnsos and his associates, Hunk Anderson and Paddy Driscoll, are confident the Bears will be a different looking team when they open the league season Sept. 30 in Green Bay. By then they will have played two more exhibition games.

Three Ends on Sidelines

The Bears have only four ends and three of them are temporarily sidelined. Connie Mack Berry suffered a leg bruise. Neither Capt. George Wilson nor Abe Croft played in the Washington game. Croft entered Illinois Masonic hospital yesterday to take treatment for an injured back. Wilson has a pulled muscle in his leg. Al Hoptowit, veteran tackle, suffered a leg injury in the game and remained in Chicago for treatment.

way to the fence to capture a triple. After Curtright had popped out Appling singled and Dickshot walked home.

Once the Sox got down to business in the second game they turned out runs in a hurry. The Curtright and Michaels homers plunked into the left field seats before an out was recorded in the second inning. In the next round singles by Lopat and Moses and a pass to Baker filled the bases with none out. A passed ball assisted Lopat across the plate. After Dickshot had been thrown out, Curtright walked and when Michaels did the same, Moses was forced to score. Roser then stepped in to rescue Bevens and ended the inning after Baker had scored on Farrell's long fly.

Sox Score Two Runs in Fifth

Stirnweiss' triple led to the Yanks' run in the third and the Sox made a suitable reply to this with the two runs they counted in the fifth on Dickshot's homer and Michaels' triple. But a moment later Lopat began falling apart. With one out Stirnweiss singled, Metheny walked, and Stainback singled. Stirnweiss scoring. Curtright's fumble gave the two remaining base runners an extra sack and they scored on Keller's single. Etten's No. 15 homer produced two more runs and out went Lopat.

Dickshot's single and steal led to an extra run for Papish in the seventh but his lead was again reduced to one in the same inning when Metheny walked and Stainback singled.

Bill Hackett, Injured Ohio Star, to Play

Columbus, O., Sept. 12 [Special]—Bill Hackett, Ohio State's captain, will report Monday, Team Physician Walter Duffee said today.

Hackett suffered a head injury in an automobile accident late last year. Coach Carroll Widdoes received further cheering news today to the effect that Dick Fisher, left half back from 1939 to 1941, may return to the lineup this fall. Widdoes said Fisher, now a navy lieutenant, junior grade, would become eligible for discharge Saturday.

WILDCATS SCRIMMAGE

A full afternoon of scrimmage under actual game conditions marked Northwestern university's football practice yesterday as Coach Lynn Waldorf drilled the squad for the season's opener with Iowa State a week from Saturday.

Two veterans, Dick Barstow, shared offensive honors in yesterday's practice, both half backs breaking loose for several touchdown runs. Several new backs, including Jack McKinley, a V-12 trainee, and Bill Steele, freshman full back, from Davenport, Ia., turned in several sparkling runs.

BADGER VARSITY WINS

Madison, Wis., Sept. 12 [Special]—George Fuchs, hailed as one of the finest center prospects at the University of Wisconsin in years, won acclaim at a new post today. The 210 pound athlete, playing quarter back, sparked the Badger back field in a scrimmage against the second eleven, the varsity winning, 27 to 13.

ILLINI PLAYERS RETURN

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 12 [Special]—Three players who had been absent temporarily today rejoined the Illinois football squad. They are Full Back Jerry Cies, who had been out with a sore throat, Guard Bob Cunz, sidelined by a leg injury, and Tackle Bob Demeter, also sidelined with a sore leg.

INDIANA WORKS ON DEFENSE

Bloomington Ind. Sept. 12 [Special]—Michigan's offensive maneuvers as displayed in previous games against Indiana were studied by Head Coach Bo McMillin's Hoosiers today as the Indiana coach continued grooming the football squad on defense for the Sept. 22 opener against the Wolverines. terday.

one player expressed it, it is the last of the formations from A to Z and opponents fly at you from all directions.

Breslin Key Back Field Man

Michigan State's attack does not conform to the T formation since the quarter back does not handle the ball under center, but instead is used as a blocker. It is a T only in that the backs line up in that formation before the ball is passed by the center. The attack forms around Full Back Breslin, who takes the ball on direct pass on almost every play. Breslin either plunges—an effective maneuver against a six man defensive line—or feeds the half backs who, incidentally, are the Spartans' forward passers.

Missouri and Great Lakes are other high points on State's football program. The Tigers defeated the Spartans last year. Great Lakes, however, was beaten in 1942, when the Bluejackets boasted a star studded roster.

ROBINSON DUE TOOPEN CHICAGO WORKOUT TODAY

Ray [Sugar] Robinson, who has caused two postponements of his scheduled bout with Jack Lamotta in Comiskey park, the first time on the ground he didn't have sufficient time to train and on the other occasion because of a back injury he said he suffered when he did start conditioning chores, yesterday informed Matchmaker Jack Kearns he will arrive this morning to resume preparations for the match, new date of which is Sept. 26.

WEAK OFFENSE WORRIES COACH AT NOTRE DAME

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 12 [Special]—Notre Dame's aerial game looked impressive this afternoon in the usual midweek scrimmage session, but the running attack left much to be desired; in the opinion of Coach Hugh Devore. Frank Dancewicz, veteran passer and quarter back, connected regularly on his tosses to Ends Bob Skoglund and Bill Leonard. Leonard was elevated to the first string right end job yes-

Law Sends Gus Dorazio Down for Second Count

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 12 (AP)—Gus Dorazio, 28 year old Philadelphia heavyweight boxer, was arrested today and charged with accepting numbers bets. Magistrate Thomas Connor set bail at $600.

EXPERT OFFERED CITY TO FIX FOOD AT SANITARIUM

Work of Anton Negri for County Cited

BY ORVILLE DWYER

Commissioner Frank Bobrytzke, chairman of the county board's hospital committee, yesterday offered to lend the city "as long as necessary" an expert guaranteed to improve the quality of the food at the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, and do it at a saving. He is Anton Negri, a hotel management expert. In 1937 Negri raised the food standard at County hospital at a saving of $100,000, and since has repeated the performance at the Oak Forest infirmary, Bobrytzke said.

"He not only produced meals that might be eaten with relish but so systematized the preparation that a continuous high standard is kept up," asserted Bobrytzke, who is credited with stopping the wholesale pilfering of food in the county institutions.

Many Charges of Food Theft

One of the charges that ran thru the hundreds of complaints from the tuberculosis sanitarium was that employes were carrying away large quantities of meats, butter, canned goods and other foods.

Bobrytzke said he will confer today with Harry Reynolds, business manager of the sanitarium and vice president of the board of trustees, and offer to lend Negri to the sanitarium.

Patients, nurses and employes generally at the sanitarium, operated at a cost of 3 million dollars a year—or about $40 a week per patient—have persistently complained that they could not eat the food supplied them and that they subsist principally on provisions carried in by relatives or friends.

Negri has been with the county since February, 1937. He first was employed to improve the food in the county jail and accomplished it at substantial saving. Warden Frank Sain has been credited with keeping it at so high a standard that prisoners sometimes regret leaving.

Credited with "Tremendous Job"

At first Negri and his staff were paid $25,000 a year and Negri still receives approximately $10,000 annually.

"He has done a tremendous job," said Mrs. William H. Welker of Oak Park, "and has done it for decency's sake. He is wealthy and was retired when induced to take the position with the county. I'm sure he could improve the food at the sanitarium."

Mrs. Welker is chairman of the county committee of the Woman's City club and the wife of Dr. William H. Welker, professor of physiological chemistry at the University of Illinois. Another who strongly recommended Negri is Alexander Ropchain of the Council of Social Agencies.

Girl Patients' Complaints

Meantime a large group of girl patients gave a reporter a list of their complaints. They said: "Some food is good quality but the preparation so poor it can't be eaten. Too little change and never tempting to the appetite. Those who gain weight do so on food brought in to them. Potatoes rarely done; eggs old and strong, sometimes worse; foreign matter in food, such as hair, newspaper fragments, cardboard, worms and bugs. Dishes unclean."

"It is a fact," wrote the father of a patient, "that unless a staff doctor gets you in you must see a politician. In many cases patients have had to wait six months for admission. About the food: We have seen them serve corned beef which had all the colors of the rainbow, hash that smelled so bad it would nauseate, eggs that couldn't be eaten."

$10,000 Given to N. U. for Cancer Research

A gift of $10,000 to Northwestern university to be used as a nucleus for a cancer research fund was announced yesterday by President Franklyn Bliss Snyder. The gift was made by Miss Edith L. POLIO DELAYS SCHOOL OPENING AT BELVIDERE

Belvidere, Ill., Sept. 12 [Special]—Public schools here will not reopen before Sept. 24, the school board announced today, in an effort to combat the spread of polio. Schools previously had been scheduled to reopen Sept. 17.

Sixteen Boone county polio cases have been recorded since July 15, with four fatalities. Belvidere's movie theater and skating rink were closed and parents have been asked by Dr. M. L. Hartman, city health officer, to keep children at home.

Just east of here in McHenry county, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Benecke and 5 year old daughter, Beverly, are polio patients. All appear on the road to recovery.

SEVEN ARRESTED IN CLASH OVER SCHOOL CLOSING

Seven persons, including five women, were arrested yesterday in the closed Fairview grade school near Schiller Park on trespassing charges filed by Mrs. Margaret C. Johnson, president of school board district 81.

The school was ordered closed Tuesday by Noble J. Puffer, county superintendent of schools, because of "insanitary conditions." Parents of children attending the school, however, have refused to send the children to the Lincoln school, three miles away.

Miss Caroline Castle, 34, who has been acting as volunteer supervisor, filed a complaint Tuesday charging disorderly conduct against Chief of Police Harry Gary of Schiller Park when he attempted to put a padlock on the school door. Yesterday, when several parents gathered at the school, Morton Grove county highway police were called and they were arrested.

Those arrested, all of whom were released on $25 bond for appearance before Justice of the Peace Harry Sullivan on Sept. 18, are Miss Castle, Mr. and Mrs. Ann Grobeko, Mrs. Grace Dunn, Mrs. Mildred Pesce, Mrs. Nellie Pasvogel, and Fred Clemens, all of Schiller Park.

SCHOOLS TO PUT TELEVISION INTO FIRST USE HERE

BY LARRY WOLTERS

The radio council of the board of education at 9:30 a. m. Monday will launch its eighth year of service to Chicago and Cook county schools. The council will present a full daily schedule on the board's own frequency modulation station, WBEZ. Ten programs also have been arranged on stations WIND and WJJD, and television broadcasts on station WBKB.

The programs will cover age levels from kindergarten thru high school, Director George Jennings said. For the first time WBEZ also will release programs for parents of school children. The station in addition will make news broadcasts prepared for classroom use, four times a day.

The council will participate in three television programs each week thru station WBKB. They will be the first such program sent into the classrooms. Two schools have been chosen for the experiment.

PEDESTRIAN HIT BY AUTOMOBILE IN STATE ST. DIES

John Harris, 60, of 8557 Perry av., was killed by an automobile at 116th and State sts. yesterday. Orville Ehrick, 42, of Union Mills, Ind., an employe of the Kingsbury ordnance plant, driver of the car, was not held by police.

Frank Johnson, 56, of 18 E. Grand av., a dishwasher, who was found fatally injured in the alley at the rear of 57 W. Grand av. Aug. 26, must have been run over by a truck, it was testified at the inquest yesterday.

Johnson died in County hospital. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

Miss Maxine Vickers, 21, of 1307 Greenview av., a factory employe, suffered pelvic and rib fractures yesterday when she was struck by an automobile as she was crossing Diversey blvd. at Ashland av. She was taken to the Illinois Masonic hospital. The driver was Mrs. Mary Parker, 48, of 863 Fletcher st., a housewife.

SHORT SHIRT TAILS ARE OUT FOR GOOD! CURB ON SIZE ENDED

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12 (AP)—Long shirt tails are coming back.

The war production board revoked its order which early in the war chopped about three inches off the length of men's shirts, limited them to one pocket, and otherwise eliminated most frills.

WPB officials said manufacturers had been given permission to make shirts of a length that won't come creeping up above a man's belt. Pockets, French cuffs, and adornments and embellishments for lounging wear also will be back.

Costume Jewelry Returning

New York, Sept. 13 (AP)—Costume jewelry, a war casualty, should be plentiful by Christmas. Jewelers, who employed 10,000 men during the war making medals, expect to double that force to turn out 9,000,000 victory medals for members of the military services, the Copper and Brass research association reported today. They will have time also to resume making of costume jewelry, halted when war needs froze all copper and brass.

Brenda—Will You Step Out With Me Tonight?

I know I've been an awful grouch not taking you any place lately. But after standing all day at my new job, my feet darn near killed me with callouses and burning. Now I've reformed—or rather my feet have—thanks to the medicinal Ice-Mint you advised. Never tried anything that seemed to draw the pain and fire right out so fast—and the way it helps soften callouses is nobody's business! Been able to get some extra overtime money—so what do you say, let's go dancing tonight. You can step on my Ice-Mint feet all you want.

FIRM GETS JOBS FOR ALL IT LET OUT AFTER WAR

Advertising by Johnson and Johnson, 4951 W. 66th st., of the services of 750 employes who were laid off after Japan's surrender has resulted in jobs for all former workers who wanted jobs, J. Nelson Stuart, general manager, said yesterday.

Stuart reported that 500 companies with 6,000 jobs available had responded to circulars and letters telling about the employes. Mailing of bulletins to employes has been discontinued. Many who were laid off did not seek other openings.

The campaign conducted by Johnson and Johnson was recommended by Charles P. Casey, state war man power director, and William H. Spencer, regional director, for other employers.

LACK OF LABOR, MATERIAL CURB BUILDING BOOM

Cost Uncertainties Are an Influence

Ease Lumber Rule

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12 [Special]—Controls over the distribution of lumber for military and essential civilian uses will end on Sept. 30, the war production board announced today, with the revocation of order L-335. This will have no immediate effect on home building, which is regulated by another order expected to be relaxed or revoked within the next few weeks.

BY AL CHASE

Lack of materials, scarcity of man power, and uncertainty as to what lies ahead in building costs and wage scales are some of the barriers keeping industry from getting into volume production, builders asserted yesterday.

Paul Angell

These bottlenecks were listed at a conference of representatives of all branches of the building industry, including architects, engineers, realtors, building trades unions, contractors, and material manufacturers, held in the La Salle hotel. It was sponsored by the Chicago Building congress and the Producers' Council of America.

Paul Angell, secretary of the congress, who presided at the meeting, said that faced with uncertainty as to availability of labor and materials, and confronted with possible higher labor and material costs, contractors were forced to make bids higher than owners estimated, which resulted in some cases in projects being shelved.

More Draftsmen Needed

He told of one big housing project on which 100 contractors were invited to bid. Only three bids were received. One was 40 per cent above the estimated 4 million dollar cost, another was 70 per cent too high, and the third topped the estimate by 100 per cent.

Paul Gerhardt, city architect and building commissioner, reported an acute shortage of draftsmen and skilled workers in architects' offices, already congested with demands for plans from clients anxious to get started.

A representative of the Western Society of Engineers said the same shortage of skilled employes was holding back engineering work on new industrial expansion. The brick industry also needs men, it was said.

Cast Iron Goods Scarce

Lack of materials is a bottleneck in many building activities, said Robert Murphy of the plumbing and heating industries bureau of Chicago. Cast iron goods, almost impossible to obtain in this country, are being shipped to Europe, he said. Iron enameled tubs cannot be had. Radiation equipment is scarce. Brass goods will not be available for about three months, he said.

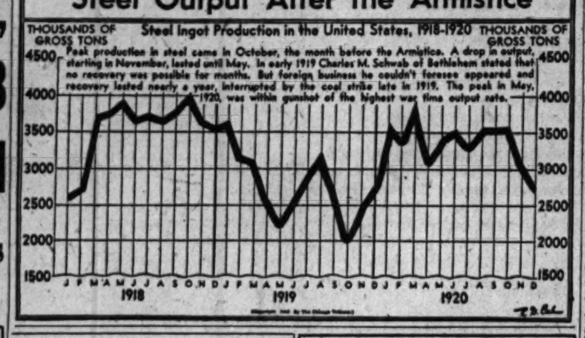
The building conference adopted resolutions calling for the earliest possible release of all construction materials now in the hands of various federal departments, and for lifting of all possible federal controls on materials.

"Unless the building industry does a good job we can't expect permanent prosperity," said Angell.

One Man Surplus Disposal Bill Goes to White House

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12 (AP) — The senate today passed and sent to the White House legislation to put disposal of 100 billion dollars of surplus war property under one man. The bill abolishes the three man surplus property board. W. Stuart Symington, St. Louis business man and chairman of the present board, is expected to become administrator.

Steel Output After the Armistice



THOUSANDS OF GROSS TONS
Steel Ingot Production in the United States, 1918-1920
Peak production in steel came in October, the month before the Armistice. A drop in output, starting in November, lasted until May. In early 1919 Charles M. Schwab of Bethlehem stated that no recovery was possible for months. But foreign business he couldn't foresee appeared and recovery lasted nearly a year, interrupted by the coal strike late in 1919. The peak in May, 1920, was within gunshot of the highest war time output rate.

Painters Call N. Y. Strike in Wage Dispute

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

A strike of New York tradesmen last night was expected to boost the total of persons idle in labor disputes thruout the country above the 110,000 mark today.

Louis Weinstock, secretary-treasurer of District Council 9, AFL, Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators, and Paperhangers, said 10,000 members would be called from their jobs in a dispute with the Association of Master Painters and Decorators of New York, a contractors organization.

Ask Right to Fire Foremen

The union seeks a contract providing for a 2½ per cent pay increase, 5 per cent employer contributions to a union vacation fund, and a union hospitalization plan, along with the union power to dismiss foremen who apply speed-up methods. Weinstock said the strike also would affect union members employed in other cities by New York contractors.

The labor situation elsewhere was comparatively quiet, altho more than 100,000 persons were idle in continuing disputes. In Windsor, Ont., across the border from Detroit, about 10,000 CIO production employes of the Ford Motor Company of Canada struck after failure of government efforts to adjust a wage contract dispute.

Westinghouse Shuts One Plant

The strike of 12,000 white collar employes of Westinghouse Electric corporation in six states began to curtail production. The Lima, O., plant employing 2,900 closed and in East Pittsburgh the walkout forced 11,600 of the 19,000 hourly paid employes into idleness. Many employes face payless paydays because no office help was available to make up the pay roll.

Members of the Federation of Westinghouse Independent Salaried Unions struck Monday for a bonus or incentive pay system such as covers production employes.

CIO SENDS PAY BOOST PLEA TO STEEL MAKERS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 12 (AP) — Spearheading a country-wide campaign by the CIO for post-war wage increases for its 5 to 6 million members, the CIO United Steel Workers opened today their drive for a $2 a day pay boost.

The steel workers sent registered letters to 86 basic steel companies, employing 550,000, asking for a meeting Sept. 25 to discuss the proposed increase.

Philip Murray, president of the USWA and CIO, asserted 800,000 steel workers "have been faced with a steadily rising cost of living which undermined their living standards."

He said the steel workers' action, asking more pay, was the first definite country-wide move "to pave the way for opening contracts and obtaining wage increases."

DOUGLAS PLANT, TO SHUT OUTPUT LINES BY SEPT. 30

The Park Ridge plant of the Douglas Aircraft corporation will close its production lines by Sept. 30, the company announced yesterday.

The plant, used to build the large C-54 army transport planes, at one time employed approximately 17,000 persons, but this number has dwindled recently to about 3,000. Only a few needed for "clean-up" work will be retained after the end of the month. The plant is an army facility operated by Douglas and possession will revert to the army.

VOTE CONGRESS RULE OVER MOST FEDERAL CORPORATION FUNDS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12 (AP)—The house passed today and sent to the senate legislation putting most government corporations under strict control of congress. The bill provided that 41 government corporations would have to submit a business type budget yearly to congress. Each budget would be subject to review and possible rejection.

In addition, these 41 corporations and 60 others would be subject to an annual audit by the general accounting office.

Backers of the measure said it specifically exempted the Tennessee valley authority and the farm credit associations from budgetary changes by congress, however.

The bill passed the house on a voice vote without objection. A similar measure, by Senators Byrd [D., Va.] and Butler [R., Neb.], has been indorsed by President Truman. It is pending in the senate.

CHEESE OFF OPA LIST, BUT IT MAY BE A BIT SCARCE

John H. Kraft, president of the Kraft Cheese company, yesterday said the government's removal of cheese from the ration lists may result in a temporary exhaustion of retailers' stocks.

"Even with the removal of government restrictions, it will require several weeks for the industry to switch the bulk of its production into normal trade channels," Kraft said.

He explained that the speed with which many varieties of cheese would reappear for retail sales, as well as the introduction of new products, would depend mainly on how much cheese the government bought in the open market for foreign shipment or relief needs, the availability of packaging and wrapping materials and of new equipment for expansion.

The department of agriculture statistics as of Aug. 1 showed a total of 213,174,000 pounds of cheese of all varieties in cold storage.

GUNNISON HOMES TO BUILD MASS OUTPUT FACTORY

New Albany, Ind., Sept. 12 [Special]—Gunnison Homes, Inc., a United States Steel corporation subsidiary, today announced plans for construction of a million dollar plant for mass production of prefabricated homes. Foster Gunnison, president, said the new plant would have a capacity of 1,650 houses annually when operating on an eight hour day. Completion is expected the middle of 1946.

Rails Will Buy Six Trains for Better Service

Plans for purchase of 6 million dollars of new passenger train equipment by three railroads for joint operation on the Chicago-San Francisco run were disclosed yesterday.

Six complete trains, aggregating 60 cars of stainless steel construction, will be bought. The trains will be powered by diesel locomotives, cost of which is not included in the 6 million figure. Half of the cars will have "vista domes"—glass enclosed rooftop observation compartments.

The equipment will replace the present Exposition Flyer, operated jointly by the Burlington, Denver, and Rio Grande Western, and the Western Pacific railroads.

Court Approval Sought

Plans for the new trains, orders for which have not yet been placed, were disclosed in a petition prepared by the trustees of the Denver and Rio Grande Western for filing today in the federal District court in Denver. The trustees will ask court authority to spend $1,500,000 as the road's share in the joint project.

Ralph Budd, Burlington president, said in Chicago that no schedules for the trains have been decided. A new train name will be used.

"The new trains will emphasize luxury, comfort, and fine service, rather than speed," said Budd. "The route over which it will operate is comparatively long but exceptionally scenic."

Burlington Share Biggest

The Burlington's share in the estimated cost is $2,460,000, based on its rail mileage in the joint operation. The Western Pacific will contribute $2,220,000. Motive power for the new trains will cost an estimated 3 million dollars.

Another large equipment purchase in which the Burlington is participating was disclosed a week ago. The road announced placing of orders for 6½ millions of equipment, including two Chicago-Twin Cities Zephyrs and another train for operation on the Empire Builder route.

Fair Store Sales, Earnings Show Half Year Increase

Sales of the Fair, Chicago department store, increased 13.1 per cent to $11,977,433 in the 26 weeks ended Aug. 4 from $10,588,722 a year earlier, the company reported yesterday. Net income for the 26 weeks amounted to $174,262, against $138,086.

PORK SCARCITY KEEPS MEAT ON RATIONING LIST

Hog Slaughter Sets Low Since 1937

Stock yard authorities said yesterday that the abnormally low slaughter of hogs in recent weeks has been responsible for the delay in ending meat rationing and that pork production will largely determine future plans for rationing. The department of agriculture disclosed that hog butchering last month was lowest for any month since September, 1937, and among the lowest in 25 years.

Packers under federal inspection slaughtered only 2,205,747 hogs in August, 546,725 fewer than in July, and 2,939,465 fewer than in August, 1944, a cut of 46 per cent.

Decrease from Year Ago

Butchering of all other meat animals also decreased from last year. The cattle total, at 1,292,103, showed a gain of 242,172 over July and was largest since January. Last year's August total of 1,339,198 was the largest on record for the month. Calves numbered 608,685, largest since December, 1944, and second largest on record for August.

Production of lamb and mutton ran counter to the normal trend, falling lowest since April. Only 1,562,636 sheep and lambs were butchered, 179,296 fewer than in July. Only once before in 20 years has the August slaughter been less than in July. Last year's August total was 1,923,765.

Eight Months Totals Records

Totals for the first eight months of 1945 set new all time records in cattle and sheep, at 9,071,406 and 13,960,594, respectively, partly because of heavy selling of breeding stock. The calf total was second largest on record at 4,152,679 and the hog total 26,821,667, smallest since 1939, compared with the record of 50,352,226 in 1944.

Hog receipts in Chicago yesterday rose to 9,000, largest for a Wednesday in three weeks, but only 2 per cent above last week. The market held firm at ceiling prices. Cattle receipts were reduced slightly, to 12,600 head, lowest in three weeks for a Wednesday. Most steers sold steady. Heifers were steady to weak. Lambs were steady.

Standard Oil to Make Broad Filling Station Improvement

BY ANTHONY WIRRY

The post-war filling stations of the Standard Oil company [Indiana] will be larger and more modern than before the war. They will carry a more complete line of automotive products and provide better servicing for motorists, a company spokesman said yesterday.

Part of a 100 million dollar construction fund for the Chicago area has been allocated to a service station improvement program which contemplates a modernization process "which will make the stations larger and more attractive, yet leave them sufficiently similar to be recognized as the familiar Standard stations."

Sales Space 50 Pct. Larger

The station sales rooms are expected to be 50 per cent larger, and lubrication quarters about 25 per cent larger. More storage space for stock and equipment will be provided. Greasing and other equipment which used to occupy floor space used by the public will be placed "elsewhere," and will be more convenient to the operator. Work benches, tool racks, and inner tube testing basins also will be improved.

The company has approved the construction of a model station, but the cost, location, size, and time of actual building have not been announced.

In addition to the regular lines of tires, batteries, spark plugs, fan belts, and other accessories, the stations will be stocked with additional automotive parts such as mufflers, tail pipes, fuel and water pumps, gasoline lines or tubing, floor mats, and ignition cables. The company believes its sphere is the automotive field, and does not contemplate stocking stations with garden rakes, hose, lawn seed, stepladders, and home appliances. The only possible exception is automobile radios, and that is uncertain.

Plans Training Program

To improve service the company is planning to spend several thousand dollars in training attendants to meet efficiently and speedily the motorists' needs. The company will establish schools, provide motion picture and other visual instruction, give demonstrations, and supply manuals to educate attendants to handle all filling station jobs.

The program is an outgrowth of the company's war time activities. Before V-J day the company purchased for station operators and taught them the use of tire recapping equipment and wheel alignment machines to help preserve tires. Also instruction was given on the installation of tail pipes and mufflers.

PEOPLE AND EVENTS

Donald Riley has retired as vice president and treasurer of the Chicago Title and Trust company, but will remain a director and member of the finance committee, Holman D. Pettibone, president, said yesterday. Riley is the son of the late Harrison B. Riley, the company's president from 1907 to 1929.

Harold A. Moore [Moffett Photo]

He will be succeeded as treasurer by Harold A. Moore, a vice president. Albert Young Bingham, a vice president, has become financial vice president. Kenneth L. Van Sickle has been appointed manager of the real estate and mortgage department of the trust division.

M. E. Holt, secretary and treasurer of Interstate Dispatch, Inc., Chicago motor frate company, has been elected executive vice president. W. F. Clark, vice president and general manager, was elected vice president in charge of operations, equipment, and purchases. J. M. Murdoch will be vice president in charge of traffic and Russell T. Berry, secretary and general counsel.

Appointment of Dell Rhea as executive vice president of Chicago Convention Bureau, Inc., to succeed the late William J. Hennessey was announced by Sherman J. Sexton, president.

Kenneth A. Bonham, executive vice president of the Emerson Drug company, has been elected president and chairman of the executive committee, succeeding Walter W. White who retired.

Hallicrafters company announced the appointment of Paul H. Eckstein as sales manager of the Echophone division.

The United States Savings and Loans league will not hold a nation wide meeting of savings and loan institutions' managers until 1946.

STOCKS CLIMB AGAIN, MANY TO NEW PEAKS

Rails Run Counter to Market Trend

New York, Sept. 12 (AP)—Stock market prices advanced fractions to about 3 points and closed near top levels today. New 1945 highs were sprinkled thruout the list.

The rail group and a few utilities moved counter to the trend, but many of their losses were reduced or erased. Steels, motors, rubbers, retail stores, farm implements, aircrafts, metals, and chemicals added sizable gains.

Rally Again in Last Hour

Dealings followed yesterday's pattern when a last hour rally sent many favorites to new highs for about eight years. Prices were irregular early because of selling attributed to expectation of a technical correction of recent rises and to strikes and wage increase demands. A house committee's promise to speed action on tax reduction, investment of idle funds, and switching from war to peace-rated stocks stimulated demand.

The Associated Press 60 stock composite rose 0.4 to 69.4, a new high since April 23, 1937. Turnover totaled 1,340,000 shares against 1,120,000 yesterday.

RAIL BONDS RISE

New York, Sept. 12 (AP)—The bond market gave a repeat performance of its first down and then up act today when selected rails made a recovery drive in the final hour. It lacked the vigor of yesterday's rally, but numerous carrier loans that had been down fractions to a point closed higher, as did scattered industrials and utilities.

CHICAGO LIST STRONG

Prices advanced yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange in fairly heavy turnover of 53,000 shares. Issues reaching new 1945 highs with a point or more gain included Paramount Pictures, Central and South West Utilities preferred, North American Car, and Trane. call DOW here for prompt service

These offices are expressly for this area

To complete and fulfill its chemical service to industry and agriculture on a country-wide scale, Dow offices are maintained in strategic locations from coast to coast. The offices here are for the service of this area and the staff is readily available for consultation. Present your needs and your problems and they will be given prompt attention by men who have a practical knowledge of chemical materials.

Dow chemicals number more than 500. They cover the essential requirements of American industry wherever located. They include insecticides, fungicides and fumigants to protect the Nation's food—pharmaceutical chemicals for makers of medicinals—chemicals for the purification of water and the sanitary disposal of sewage—and specialty products such as Xanthates used in the recovery of non-ferrous metal by the flotation process.

Whatever your own operations may require in the way of chemical materials, it is likely that Dow can be of real service to you. Just call this Dow office for prompt action.

BANKERS OPPOSE RANKIN CHANGES IN GI LOAN LAW

The bill of Rep. Rankin [D., Miss.] to amend the loan provisions of the GI bill of rights will be opposed by the Illinois Bankers association because the proposal does not adequately safeguard the interests of veterans buying farms and homes, Walter B. Allen, chairman of the I. B. A.'s committee on service for war veterans, said yesterday.

Allen told the committee's annual policy meeting in the Palmer House that, altho the bill is satisfactory as far as GI business loans are concerned, it "just lets down the bars for a lot of fast promoters" in sales of farms and homes to veterans.

Bankers Await Hearings

The Rankin bill has been passed by the house, but is pending in the senate. The I. B. A.'s objections and recommendations will be expressed when the senate opens hearings on the measure.

In its present form the Rankin bill permits the person or agency lending the veteran money on a farm or home purchase to make the appraisal of the property's value, Allen said. The I. B. A. will recommend that the appraisal be made by an independent appraiser, other than the lender.

The business loans are not subject in most cases to this danger, because the banks, which make most of such loans, investigate the business possibilities in individual cases because they have a stake in the money advanced, it was explained.

"The I. B. A. wants to provide safeguards against a crop of business failures and home and farm foreclosures in the next five or six years and wants to take steps now which will prevent such an occurrence," Allen said.

Ask Cutting of Red Tape

Other bankers said some of the "red tape" should be removed from the loan procedures. Some of the loan forms contain irrelevant and duplicating questions, and too much time is required to complete the loan, they asserted.

One said in some cases veterans have opportunities to make sound purchases of homes, but "lose out" when the seller finds another buyer who can provide cash immediately.

FROST REMAINS BIG 'IF' IN CORN CROP PROSPECT

BY GAIL COMPTON

The date of the first killing frost remains the big "if" in corn crop prospects, reports from the midwest indicated yesterday. The near record estimate of more than 3 billion bushels by the federal department of agriculture was predicted on the basis of a long ripening period this fall.

Most corn in the midwest needs more than three weeks to reach safe maturity, and frost is due in most areas by the middle of next month. Hot, dry weather over most of the corn belt last week hastened maturity of much of the crop, but also caused damage in dry districts, the weather bureau reported.

Kansas Crop Damaged

Fifty to 75 per cent of the corn in Kansas is past recovery, the bureau said, and is being cut for silage and fodder as a result of extremely hot weather. Damage also was caused in Ohio, Indiana, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, and southern Iowa.

Favorable weather is needed to prevent a large portion of the crop from failing to mature fully, experts asserted. Even if frost holds off past the normal date, there will be a sizable quantity of high moisture content corn because of a wet spring and late planting, they said.

Some Illinois Crops in Peril

Corn belt reports indicate the crop is more spotty than usual. In northern Illinois the corn is in good condition, but the west central section of the state and the lower third face damage from even a normal frost date.

Illinois corn yield prospects are up to 47 bushels per acre, an increase of four bushels over the Aug. 1 estimate. It appears that at least three-fourths of the state's corn probably will be safe if frost does not come before the usual date. In the Chicago area, the average date for the first killing frost is Oct. 21.

Time Needed in Wisconsin

Two to three weeks are needed in Wisconsin before the bulk of the corn crop may be considered safe and in Illinois the crop needs three to four weeks. Much chaffy corn is expected in southern Iowa and south central Nebraska because of intense heat that caused premature ripening, experts said.

Soaking rains are needed over large areas of the states east of the Rockies. In some sections the dry weather has caused heavy deterioration in late crops and is delaying fall plowing, the weather bureau said.

PUBLIC WILL GET 99 MILLION DOLLARS OF SURPLUS NAVY GOODS

New York, Sept. 12 (AP)—H. Struve Hensel, assistant secretary of the navy, said today that the navy had terminated nearly 50,000 war contracts since Japan was defeated, involving more than 8 billion dollars.

He added that he was disclosing for the first time that the navy was making available to the public 99 million dollars worth of consumer goods as a result of contract terminations. He issued this breakdown on materials available:

Lumber and building materials, $26,000,000; textiles [mostly cotton], $20,000,000; auto tires and tubes, $6,000,000; canned fruits, $16,000,000; canned vegetables, $20,000,000; hand tools, $5,000,000; cleaning solvents, soap and soap powders, $4,000,000, and shoes, $2,000,000.

VIRKUS CHARGES NEW DEAL WOULD RULE INDUSTRY

An outline of how he said New Deal planners in Washington, D. C., propose to gain control over the American economy was given yesterday by State Rep. Fred A. Virkus of LaGrange before a group of Waukegan and North Chicago business and industrial leaders.

Virkus is chairman of an Illinois legislative 10 man commission on small businesses, which held the first of a series of meetings yesterday in the Karcher hotel in Waukegan. The meeting was arranged by Nick M. Kellar of Waukegan, a member of the commission.

Would Rule All Production

The "grand plan" of the planned economy for America falls into these four general parts, Virkus said:

1. Creation of a national production council to be the over-all economic planning agency for the control of every phase of the 447 different lines of industry in the United States.

2. Establishment of a sub-council for each line of industry, to be composed of representatives of labor, business, and government.

3. Each sub-council will balance production in each industry by the WPB system of priorities and allocation of raw materials to certain "nucleus plants." Each producer will be told what to produce, how much, the price at which to sell, and to whom to sell. All products would be sold under grade labels.

4. The sub-councils also will designate "zone distributors" which will replace wholesalers and jobbers. They will sell to government subsidized and tax exempt coöperatives and will direct rationing.

Termed Economic Dictatorship

This, he said, is planned economy. "It is planned from the allocation of raw materials to the ultimate consumer," Virkus said. "'Balanced production' is the brain trusters' term for government monopoly which will tell us how much shall be produced, by whom, and at what price. By any standard, it is economic dictatorship, pure and simple state socialism. And if you thing it can't happen here, reflect a moment on the fact that government subsidized and tax exempt coöperatives did more than 10 billion dollars of business last year."

GRAIN FUTURES MOSTLY HIGHER; RYE ENDS MIXED

Wheat and oats sold at the highest prices in more than a month yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Buying was induced by reports of a large government demand for wheat and wheat flour, reports that 13 million bushels of wheat had been sold to France and credits had been arranged for England to finance the purchase of 2,600,000 sacks of American flour.

Wheat futures closed at the top, gaining ⅝ to 1 cent a bushel with September at $1.66⅞, or within 1 cent of the highest since late last June. Corn rose ¼ to ⅝, rye reacted after an early advance and finished ½ lower to ⅞ higher. Oats gained ½ to 1⅛ and Barley ¼ to ⅞.

Froedtert Grain to Pay Extra 15 Cent Dividend

Froedtert Grain and Malting company yesterday declared an extra dividend of 15 cents a share with the quarterly disbursement of 25 cents. Both dividends will be paid Oct. 31.
